Pair rescues mother, 2 children from burning home

FIREMEN HOSE down charred interior of Palatine Township house. Mrs. Richard Oertel and two children were rescued.

by JOE SWICKARD

A mother and two young children were rescued from their burning Palatine Township home Wednesday.

Mrs. Richard Oertel and two of her children, Terry Ann, 2, and Justin, 3, were carried to safety by two men after fire cut off their retreat from a second-floor bedroom. The Oertels climbed down a ladder from the room where the toddlers had been napping.

The rescuers were identified as Mike Erick, an employe of the Oertels, and Gene Torkelson of Arlington Heights, a Chicago bank vice president.

NO ONE WAS seriously injured in the fire that gutted the split-level brick house at 1401 W. Dundee Rd. across from the Camp Alphonse Forest Preserve. Mrs. Oertel cut her hand while breaking a window.

Mrs. Oertel said she was in the family room about noon when she heard "a popping (noise), like a window being blown out" in the downstairs utility room.

Finding nothing amiss in the utility room, she again heard the noise and turned to see "thick black smoke all over the kitchen."

Mrs. Oertel raced to the upper level where her two youngest children had just been put down for their afternoon naps.

TRAPPED ON the second floor by the swift-spreading fire, Mrs. Oertel used an intercom to call for help to her husband's welding shop in the rear of their property.

Erick, who worked in the shop, stepped outside just as Mrs. Oertel was calling for help on the intercom.

"I didn't hear it. I was going out to check on a tank on one of the trucks. I looked up and saw the flames flying out of the house," Erick said.

At the same time Torkelson, out for a drive with his wife, saw the flaming house and stopped to help.

The two men were directed by Mrs. Oertel to a ladder in the backyard. Using it, they carried the children to safety and helped the mother down from the burning house.

NEIGHBORS, meanwhile, had called the fire department. The Palatine Rural and Barrington fire departments responded to the fire.

The family had been rscued by the time the emergency crews, state and county police arrived.

The children, still wearing their naptime diapers, were taken to a neighbor's house after their rescue.

Three other Oertel children, Scott, 7; Lorri Jane, 11; and Richard, 15, were in school at the time of the fire.

Neither Erick nor Torkelson had any lifesaving experience when they went to the mother and children's aid. Erick said his concern was getting them out of the house safely.

TORKELSON SAID, "I suppose it was just reaction — anyone would have done it. I'm just happy the famgot out all right."

He said it was pure chance that he and his wife were driving by the scene when they were.

"It was just luck that we were there; that we were able to help them," he said.

The family dog, at one time believed killed in the fire, was found hiding under a bed. The dog was not hurt.

The cause of the fire is still under investigation. It spread quickly through the house, causing extensive damage.

High court won't hear housing case: lawyer

by KURT BAER

The U.S. Supreme Court will not review the case of court ordered low-income housing next to St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights, an expert zoning attorney predicted Wednesday night.

The high court probably will not accept the Viatorian case because it is not prepared to make good housing for low-income persons a nationwide constitutional guarantee, attorney Clifford Weaver told a meeting of the League of Women Voters for the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area.

The recent decision of the U.S. Court of Appeals in Chicago approving a low-income townhouse project on 15 acres of Viatorian property is breaking new legal ground, Weaver said.

PERHAPS FOR the first time, economic discrimination has been coupled with a racially exclusive regional housing market to produce a successful case in the federal courts, he said.

"The Arlington Heights case is really very odd. For the first half of the opinion, the appeals court says Arlington Heights has not done anything wrong (in rejecting a rezoning petition for the low-income development called Lincoln Green).

"The justices concede there was no act of racial discrimination but then go on to sweep into a new area and say that, 'We don't care, Arlington Heights, if you are goody two shoes. If you're in a bad (housing) situation regionally, you're going to do something about it.' "

Weaver interpreted the case to say that "the best faith efforts to deal with zoning problems may not be sufficient if we're in the context that the whole country is in where minority groups have been oppressed for so long that the courts are saying something affirmative has to be done."

The Village of Arlington Heights is about to file a petition asking the Supreme Court to review the appeals court ruling.

"I BELIEVE the Supreme Court is going to feel that this issue is not yet well enough developed in the lower courts for it to grant the petition," Weaver said.

While calling the appeals court decision "practically earth shaking" in the realm of housing discrimination cases, Weaver said it does not mark the end of the village's zoning powers.

The decision does not invalidate the community's zoning laws, does not say Arlington Heights must accept a fair share of the region's low-income families and does not order the village to pursue a program of low-income housing development, he said.

"What it says is either you have your own low-income housing plan or, if you don't, you'll take the developers' (plan)."

THE ARLINGTON Heights case "invites a lawyer to start building on the premise that racial and economic discrimination are the same thing in the environment that exists in this area," Weaver said.

But by itself, he said he did not think the case would radically alter land use and zoning practices in metropolitan Chicago.

Weaver, a junior partner in the law firm of Ross, Hardies, O'Keefe, Babcock and Parsons, which specializes in zoning cases, was a substitute for attorney Richard Babcock, author of the "Zoning Game." Babcock could not appear as scheduled because of an illness.

900 to perform in high school choral festival

Nine hundred Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 students will perform in a choral festival Saturday at Wheeling High School gymnasium.

Sixth, seventh and eighth graders in four separate choruses will be under the guest direction of Richard Whitecotton of Glenbard West High School and Doreen Rao of the Glen Ellyn Children's Choir.

The sixth-grade chorus, composed of 400 students from the district's 17 schools, will perform "God of Great, God of Small," "Morning Has Broken," "Gonna Build a Mountain," "That's What It Means to be Free," and "I Can't Think Purty."

Two hundred seventh-grade girls will sing "Something to Sing About," "The Earth is the Lord's," "Clap Your Hands," "A Voice From a Dream," and "George M. Cohan."

Two hundred eighth-grade girls from the district's three junior high schools will sing "Bridge Over Troubled Waters," "Three Hungarian Folk Songs," "Michael," "Canon of Praise," and "There'll Come a Day."

A chorus of 100 seventh-and eighth-grade boys will sing "Sing to the Lord a Joyful Song," "Momma, Look Sharp," and "Summer Breeze."

Chorus members have been rehearsing since the beginning of the school year. The festival is coordinated by George Galvan, district music coordinator.

'Frankenstein' stars at Wheeling High

Wheeling High School will present an eerie prelude to Halloween, "Frankenstein," in the school's little theater, 900 S. Elmhurst Rd. today and Saturday and again Oct. 30 and Nov. 1.

The play concerns Victor Frankenstein, a brilliant young scientist, who returns to his Lake Geneva chateau to escape a creature he created from pieces of the dead.

Tickets will be $1 before the performance and $1.50 at the door.

'No means for evaluating effectiveness'

Social service cut back report hit

A report advocating cutbacks in social services provided by the Village of Arlington Heights has come under fire because it does not contain recommended means of evaluating the programs' effectiveness.

An interim report by the Special Committee on Social Services recommended discontinuing or reducing five programs funded by the village.

But members of the village board have criticized the report, saying it did not answer the original charge to the committee to come up with a way of evaluating the need for social services and the success of programs for meeting the need.

The committee report recommends:

- Discontinuing the subsidized taxi program for senior citizens.
- Phasing out village-funded youth counseling services.
- Charging the cost of the Youth Uplift program for juvenile offenders to the police department budget.
- Transferring the cost of summer counselors in the parks to the Arlington Heights Park District.

RALPH CLARBOUR, former village president and chairman of the special committee, asked the village board to accept the report and "make use of it in budget hearings" coming up this winter.

Trustees Alice Harms and Madeline Schroeder were especially critical of the recommendations, saying data substantiating the committee's conclusions was missing.

"This interim report looks like the report we got two years ago from the (village) administration," Mrs. Harms said.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson recommended before last year's village budget hearings that responsibility for social services bt transferred to the park district and Wheeling Township in order to cut costs for the village and avoid overlapping programs.

Library gets report on underflow plan

The Arlington Heights Memorial Library, 500 N. Dunton Ave., has received copies of the Army Corps of Engineers report on the Chicagoland Underflow Plan.

The "Urban Water Damage study," which outlines the interim findings on water damage and pollution control of the proposed tunnel and reservoir plan, is available at the reference desk.

3 area residents die in car mishaps

Three persons, including a 6-year-old boy and a woman died Wednesday as a result of automobile mishaps in the Northwest suburbs. Killed were:

- Brian Newton, 1687 Henry Ave., Des Plaines, near his home when he was struck by an auto while crossing the street. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge.
- Josephine Stetters, 52, of 1717 Crystal Ln., Mount Prospect, died in Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, after being struck by an auto on Algonquin Road in Elk Grove Township late Tuesday.
- Michael G. Hausler, 21, of 1774 Oakton St., Des Plaines, when the auto he was driving struck a Tri-State Tollway abutment at River Road and Touhy Avenue in Maine Township.

Dist. 54 teachers OK pact

It was back to school Wednesday for 17,000 Schaumburg Township youngsters as Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 teachers ratified a new contract. Teachers ratified the pact after reaching an agreement with the Board of Education calling for a 10 per cent raise, an improved salary schedule and full amnesty for actions taken before and during their three-day strike.

Firemen battle field blaze

Palatine firemen fought a 100-acre field fire for more than 2½ hours Wednesday night west of Ill. Rte. 53 and Rand Road, Palatine Township. A fire official said the fire was the biggest brush fire in two years. Rand Road was closed to traffic for a short time as authorities feared the fire might spread north of the road. Firefighters were called to the fire about 8 p.m. The cause of the fire was undetermined.

Apologies for cemetery damage

It was apology time Wednesday in Rolling Meadows as the city and its sewer contractor tried to make amends for mistakenly bulldozing through a pioneer cemetery in Palatine Township. Several graves, dating back to the 1800s were destroyed earlier this fall, when the city was making way for a sewer to serve its Meadow Edge development at Old Plum Grove and Quentin roads.

Stevenson charges N.Y. intimidation

Bankers 'reluctant to rock boat'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., charged Wednesday that New York City bankers have intimidated other bankers into keeping silent about their opposition to a federal effort to rescue New York City from default.

The New York banks would suffer heavy losses on the millions they have invested in New York municipal bonds if the city defaults on its debts.

Stevenson said he had been having trouble convincing bankers to publicly criticize federal intervention even though privately they condemn it.

"They do not dare do it because they are intimidated by certain banks in New York," he told an informal meeting of the Senate Banking Committee.

He convinced a reluctant Chairman William Proxmire, D-Wis., to reopen hearings. He said he found a banker with "guts" who would testify. He declined to identify him.

Stevenson, former Illinois state treasurer, said it might be better to let New York City default and go through bankruptcy proceedings, stretching out its debt and reducing interest payments.

He said one expert told him that a federal effort to save New York might be taken as "evidence of irresponsibility" by the financial community and "cause the immediate financial collapse of the United States."

Many banks — particularly those in New York City — have invested billions of dollars in the city's securities. David Rockefeller, chairman of Chase Manhattan, and a delegation of six other prominent bankers, testified Saturday in favor of a multi-billion loan guarantee to save New York. They conceded they had a "self interest" and a vital stake in the adoption of such a plan.

The committee was forced to meet informally because opponents of save-New York legislation invoked a Senate rule which permits a single senator to prevent a committee from acting while the Senate is in session.

President Ford, posing for pictures in the White House family quarters, told reporters he has not softened his opposition to a federal effort to keep the big city from defaulting in December.

Stevenson told reporters after the rump session of the Senate committee that he did not mean the New York banks had done anything "overtly" to intimidate other bankers from testifying against the bill.

"They're all tied into the larger banks and they're reluctant, they're scared to rock the boat," he said.

"There are criminal laws against intimidation," Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., told Stevenson, suggesting that if intimidating tactics had been used, a criminal investigation was in order.

Stevenson told reporters that a call to Allen Stults, chairman of the American National Bank in Chicago, would confirm that Stults was so reluctant to involve his bank that he even instructed his staff not to work privately with Stevenson's staff.

"I do confirm it and it's because we do not feel qualified to counsel with anyone on the solution to that very complex problem," Stults told UPI in Chicago. "There was an inference drawn that our reluctance was due to some form of intimidation and nothing could be further from the truth.

"We would be more than pleased to work with anyone in an area in which we have expertise. But for a consultant to accept an assignment to counsel where he has no expertise does a grave disservice to the principle."

Cost of living up slightly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Transportation prices drove the cost of living up 0.5 per cent in September, an increase that directly reflected a moderate trend in consumer price inflation in recent months, the Labor Department said Wednesday.

A transit fare hike in New York City and new car prices contributed to the September figure more accurately translates into an annual inflation rate of 6 per cent.

Although prices advanced last month at more than twice the pace set in August, they were less volatile than the double-digit annual rate of 14.4 per cent registered in July. The August increase of 0.2 per cent — or an annual rate of 2.4 per cent — was the smallest in three years.

Labor Secretary John Dunlop said the September increase — which reflected the current trend of inflation. He predicted it would continue at that pace for several months to come.

Assistant Commerce Secretary James Pate agreed. He said the September rate "reflects very closely to the base rate of inflation." He acknowledged inflation is still running high, but noted there has been a "substantial improvement" since the 12 per cent rate at the end of 1974.

"It's good news," he said. "We are moving in the right direction."

Gunmen kidnap two Americans in Beirut violence

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Gunmen kidnaped two American Embassy officials Wednesday, dragging them from their car as they drove through a Moslem stronghold neighborhood of violence-torn Beirut on their way to work.

The Americans were seized in a new wave of kidnapings, shootings and bombings sweeping the Lebanese capital. The bloody civil warfare between left-wing Moslems and right-wing Christian militias has killed more than 600 persons and wounded 1,500 others in six weeks.

Gunmen, striking at will through the near-deserted capital, set up mobile roadblocks and kidnaped scores of persons venturing onto the streets Wednesday — among them Americans Charles Gallagher, 44, and William Dykes Jr., 65.

Gallagher, of Roanoke, Va., and Dykes, of San Jose, Calif., with two Lebanese female coworkers, were driving to their jobs at the U. S. Embassy's Regional Service Center, a printing plant operated by the U. S. Information Agency.

The kidnapers dragged Gallagher and Dykes from their car on the Corniche Mazraa, a Lebanese Moslem and Palestinian area in western Beirut, but allowed the women to go free.

The women immediately went to the U. S. Embassy to report the kidnaping, an embassy spokesman said.

Both Gallagher and Dykes are married with children.

In other violence Wednesday:

Three men carrying submachine guns in attache cases stormed into the Turkish embassy in Vienna Wednesday, killed the ambassador and escaped without a trace.

Police swept through Vienna's traffic-clogged narrow streets and picked up 13 suspects but the killers were not found.

"We do not know the motive and we have no clues, but we are investigating political angles," a police official said. "Obviously we are taking into consideration Turkey's strained relations with Greece."

- The two kidnapers of Dutch businessman Tiede Herrema turned defiant, in Monasterevin, Ireland, refusing food, taunting their hostage and challenging the army of police and soldiers besieging them to "come and get us."

On the 19th day of the kidnap case and the second of the siege, the police offered food every half hour and made loudspeaker appeals to the man and woman kidnap pair to release Herrema, 52, from captivity in a second-story bedroom.

They rejected all of it, prompting one of the mediators, Philip Flynn, to predict that, while they might free Herrema, the two IRA renegades most likely would shoot it out rather than surrender.

Helms defends CIA mail snooping

Former CIA Director Richard Helms said Wednesday the spy agency conducted illegal mail snooping operations because "we were trying to get on with our job" of protecting the United States from penetration by Soviet agents. Helms, testifying before the Senate Intelligence Committee, also said he might have told President Lyndon B. Johnson about the mail surveillance, but he could not recall whether he had told President Richard M. Nixon directly.

Ford video testimony to be argued

Federal prosecutors said Wednesday they will argue that a judge should reconsider his unprecedented order for President Ford to give videotaped testimony in the trial of Lynette Fromme who is accused of attempting to kill him. Assistant U.S. Attorney Donald Heller said a formal request for reconsideration had been filed late Tuesday and new arguments would be made Friday against the order by U.S. District Court Chief Judge Thomas J. MacBride.

Patty competency hearing Nov. 4

A federal judge Wednesday set Nov. 4 as the day he will rule on whether Patricia Hearst is mentally competent to stand trial for armed bank robbery. U.S. District Judge Oliver J. Carter met with prosecutors and the defense and then ordered the 10 a.m. hearing for a full discussion of psychiatric reports on the 21-year-old newspaper heiress's mental condition.

Senate approves natural gas plan

The Senate Wednesday approved a bill designed to get more natural gas to states facing the worst winter shortages and to lift gradually the federal price ceilings on gas. The Senate worked into the evening and acted on more than a dozen amendments, including defeat of two attempts to break up big oil companies and narrow their holdings to one major form of energy.

Army spending linked to sloppy bookkeeping

The Army said Wednesday it spent $150 million without permission, mostly because of sloppy bookkeeping. Hadlai A. Hull, assistant secretary for financial management, told the armed services committees of Congress in a letter that the Army Materiel Command violated he Anti-Deficiency Act through "pricing errors, accounting errors, failure to properly record orders, loss of records, use of unacceptable accounting practices, and inadequate document control."

Kissinger 'satisfied' with China visit

Chinese Foreign Minister Chiao Kuanhua had unusually cool words for Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger pronounced himself "satisfied" with his visit and said preparations were going ahead for President Ford's post-Thanksgiving trip to China.

IRS to decide lawmaker deductions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways and Means Committee, stung by criticism of its decision to increase tax deductions for congressmen, voted Wednesday to let the IRS instead decide how much they should deduct for Washington living expenses.

However, under criteria the Internal Revenue Service was ordered to take into account, it is likely the eventual tax deduction will be roughly the same as the earlier committee figure of $44 for each day the congressmen attends a session — perhaps more.

The committee continued for the third day to chip away at reforms it approved earlier during its first draft of a major tax bill, but did break its trend long enough to tighten earlier decisions limiting tax deductions for foreign conventions.

The sensitive question of individual tax deductions was tentatively scheduled for consideration Thursday.

Under earlier committee decisions, the current flat $3,000 per year deduction for congressional living expenses would be increased to $44 for each day the House member or senator attends a session. If the member attended every day of the average session, the yearly tax deduction would be about $7,000.

Wednesdays' decision — proposed by Rep. James C. Corman, D-Calif., and approved 21 to 14 — would allow the IRS to set separate maximums for Congress and for each of the 50 state legislatures, based on three criteria:

- The time the legislator must spend away from home on legislative business.
- The cost of living in the capital city.
- Expenses that would be allowed for businessmen traveling to the capital city.

The question of changing the earlier decision was raised by Rep. Richard Vander Veen, D-Mich., the only member to audibly vote against the original decision. He noted that Congress recently voted itself a pay raise, and he did not feel it should now vote an increase in tax deductions.

Several members, led by Rep. Joseph Karth, D-Minn., blasted the press for misinterpreting the earlier committee decision, saying he would gladly give his pay raise to a member of the press, but that he had never met a reporter who was not overpaid.

Soviet craft finds Venus is rocky

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Soviet space capsule soft-landed on Venus Wednesday and sent back pictures that a scientist said indicated the earth's closest planetary neighbor is rocky rather than sandy, as previously believed.

The Soviet Tass news agency said a ball-shaped descent capsule separated from its carrier vehicle, the unmanned spacecraft Venus 9, Monday and landed on Venus early Wednesday. The news agency said the capsule transmitted information during 30 miles of parachute descent and for 53 minutes on the ground.

The data and pictures were sent via the carrier rocket, which went into orbit around Venus as what the Soviets described as the earth-sized planet's first artificial satellite.

"A unique image of the planet's surface in the landing zone was obtained," Tass said, but left unclear whether the instruments were capable of further transmissions.

One of the pictures, broadcast on Soviet television, showed what appeared to be a pile of large rocks.

Boris Nepoklonov, one of the scientific directors of the mission, told the agency:

"To all appearances, the descent craft has landed among a scattering of large rocks. This seems to knock the bottom out of the existing hypothesis by which the surface was expected to look like a desert covered with sand dunes because of constant wind and temperature erosion."

Scientific director Mikhail Marov said his team was delighted with the Venus 9 pictures.

"We thought they would be diffused by the dense atmosphere. In fact they are so sharp that we can class the stones as young rocks, since we can clearly see sharp angles and flat sides," he said.

The United States obtained the first closeup photographs of Venus' strange swirling atmosphere in February, 1974, when its Mariner 10 flew within 3,600 miles of the planet en route to Mercury. The spacecraft also discovered the presence of hydrogen, helium and carbon atoms in the upper atmosphere.

Old fashioned Halloween fun with a haunted house and a variety of games will be featured at Frost School's fun fair Saturday from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the school 1308 Cypress Dr., Mount Prospect. Tickets are priced at 10 cents per game.

A fun fair will be held Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at High Ridge Knolls School, 588 S. Dara James Rd., Des Plaines. A handcraft booth, cake walk and other games will be included in the day's events.

High School Dist. 211

"The Moonlighters" quartet includes Todd Jackson, Ken Johnson, Tom O'Bannon and Mike Logue.

In general . . .

The Jeanine Schultz Memorial School for emotionally disturbed children is holding an open house and spaghetti dinner fund-raising event Friday at the school, 2101 W. Oakton St., Park Ridge.

Dinner will be served from 6:30 to 10 p.m. A donation of $5 is asked for adults, $2.50 for children ages 6 to 12. Children under 5 years old are free.

Entertainment will be provided by Jeff Grosser, guitarist and singer, and Peppermint the clown.

Tickets will be available at the door or call 696-3315 for information.

The Illinois Council for Exceptional Children's 26th Annual Convention will be held today, Friday and Saturday at the Hyatt Regency O'Hare Hotel. Parents, educators and concerned affiliated groups involved in the education of exceptional children are invited to attend.

Meetings will present a diversified offering of more than 115 presentations covering all areas of special education. Information on new programs and results of new techniques will be stressed.

Registration for the convention will be held Friday and Saturday beginning at 8 a.m. For more information, call 969-4762.

A free clinic for student immunization will be operating at Rolling Meadows High School, 2901 Central rd., Rolling Meadows, Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Parents can bring their school age children to the clinic for free immunization against measles, polio, diptheria and other contagous diseases. Illinois law requires proper immunization of students entering kindergarten, first, fifth and ninth grades. School districts have the right to readmittance to children without the required immunization.

The perm of tomorrow is here today.

If you're into the new, natural look in hair fashions you probably think perms are not for you. Not true! Redken has created a system of perming without free ammonia (and its harsh results!) Formulated for today's hair fashions, the Redken Trichoperm System has protein polypeptides and a low pH (close to your hair's natural pH). The combination of a low pH, no free ammonia and protein polypeptides results in a perm that comes out better, is much more natural looking.

If you want your hairstyle to last without the frizzy, me-too look of yesterday's perms, you want The Redken Trichoperm System. Available in a formula specifically suited to your type of hair. Make an appointment for the perm of tomorrow today!

Contract OK due tonight in Dist. 23

Administrators in Prospect Heights Dist. 23 have received raises ranging from 8 per cent to 10.8 per cent for 1975-76.

Board members refused to reveal the exact amounts of administrative salary increases Monday night when the raises were approved because Assistant Supt. Gerald McGovern objected to having his salary become public knowledge. Supt. Edward Grodsky released the figures Wednesday.

Grodsky got an 8.3 per cent raise, from $27,600 to $29,900. McGovern received a 10.8 per cent salary increase, from $22,100 to $24,500. James Hendren, business manager, got an 8.1 per cent raise, from $22,200 to $24,000.

Philip Arnstein, MacArthur Junior High School principal, remained at the yearly salary for which he was hired in July, $20,500.

Phillip Cornwell, MacArthur's assistant principal, got a 10 per cent increase, from $15,000 to $16,500. Eisenhower's principal, Mary Hyrczyk, got an 8.9 per cent salary hike, from $18,950 to $20,650.

Donald Graham, Sullivan's principal, got an 8 per cent raise, from $18,750 to $20,250. Muir's John Finke got a 9.1 per cent increase, from $17,400 to $19,000. Ross principal Sally Fredian took a 9 per cent increase, fdom $16,500 to $18,000.

Rotary seeks pupils for foreign exchange

Applications are being accepted from high school students who wish to study in a foreign country in 1976-77 under the Arlington Heights Rotary Club's Youth Exchange Program.

This year the club sent Mary Gormley of Arlington High School to Sweden and Kim Robson of Hersey High School to Brazil. Regis Maia of Brazil and Boel Nilehn of Sweden are studying at Hersey under the Rotary program.

An applicant should be in the upper one-third of his or her class and should have an interest in international affairs. The applicant's parents are responsible for providing round-trip transportation and incidental expenses. Room, board and tuition are provided by the host Rotary Club.

Deadline for applications is Oct. 31. Anyone wanting information should contact James T. Dodds, 259-7000, or Robert P. Bitter, 394-0500.

RTA hikes suburban bus service subsidies by 10%

by ANNE SLAVICEK

The Regional Transportation Authority increased subsidies to suburban bus service by 10 per cent Wednesday.

The hike in subsidy funding lrevels probably will eliminate the need for local municipalities to bail out the North Suburban Mass Transit District (NORTRAN) which provides bus service within Des Plaines and intercity service to Arlington Heights, Palatine and Wheeling.

The village of Wheeling's bus service was one of two to benefit immediately from the new subsidy levels when the RTA board approved a grant for that community's intracity service Wednesday.

THE RTA BOARD action eliminates a requirement that a suburban bus line take in 65 per cent of its operating costs at the fare box in order to get the RTA to pay all of the bus line's operating deficit.

The new policy requires a bus company to meet 55% of its operating costs out of the are box in order to get 100 per cent of its deficits paid by the RTA.

The board had refused to make a similar change in August when NORTRAN officials said they were unable to meet the 65 per cent level. But RTA staff members Wednesday said similar problems in Joliet Mass Transit District financing showed that the NORTRAN problem was not unique.

RTA officials said reviews of actual bus service operating expenses from July, August and September for all carriers showed that higher costs for labor and materials were causing the financial problems for suburban bus lines.

The new 55 per cent level is expected to remain in effect until the RTA in December completes a study to set permanent funding standards.

AN RTA SPOKESMAN said NORTRAN still will have to pay back a $250,000 loan from the RTA, but the subsidies to NORTRAN will increase, probably by RTA board action at a meeting in November. The increase in subsidy payments will include an amount to make the 55 per cent rate retroactive to July 1.

Joseph DiJohn, executive director of NORTRAN, said the new funding level was "a welcome compromise." DiJohn predicted the NORTRAN service could pay 55 per cent of its operating costs out of fare revenue. He said the NORTRAN board at its next meeting will approve a program to revamp local bus service, including dropping 14 routes and improving schedules on 13 other routes.

RTA board member Daniel Baldino of Evanston was critical of the transportation agency's staff Wednesday because he said the 65% requirement was based on inaccurate estimates.

Baldino asked for a study of estimates of Chicago Transit Authority grant levels because he said a similar 12 per cent error in the case of the CTA could leave the RTA with a $17 million deficit at the end of the year. The increased rate for suburban bus lines will cost the RTA an additional $800,000 in grants.

In other action Wednesday, the RTA board ordered a study of pay levels for suburban bus drivers and mechanics. Board member James Kemp, a union official, called for bringing the pay for suburban bus company workers up to par with the pay for CTA workers.

Entry deadline Friday for Junior Miss Pageant

The deadline for high school seniors planning to enter the 11th annual Paddock Publications Junior Miss Pageant is 5 p.m. Friday.

Two Paddock Junior Misses will be crowned at the Nov. 23 pageant at Hoffman Estates High School, 1100 W. Higgins Rd. The pageant is affiliated with the Illinois Junior Miss Pageant and America's Junior Miss Pageant planned in Mobile, Ala., in May, which will involve winners from the 50 states.

Senior girls having a B grade average or better who attend high schools within The Herald circulation area are eligible.

Area high schools include: Arlington, Buffalo Grove, Conant, Elk Grove, Fremd, Hersey, Hoffman Estates, Palatine, Prospect, Forest View, Rolling Meadows, Sacred Heart, Schaumburg and Wheeling.

DES PLAINES girls who attend Maine East or Maine West also are eligible.

Each applicant will be personally interviewed Nov. 2 at Paddock Publications, 114 W. Campbell St., Arlington Heights. Interviews will begin at 12:30 p.m. and each girl will be assigned a specific time to appear before the panel of 12 judges.

Finalists selected during the interviews will be advised that night by Anne Chalikis, pageant director. A complete list of finalists will be mailed to each girl Nov. 3.

At the pageant, finalists will be judged on poise, physical fitness and talent. The local competition has produced five state title holders in the past 10 years.

The two junior misses selected each will receive a scholarship of $500 and a chance to compete in the state pageant. Runnerup and special recognition scholarships also will be awarded.

MAJOR SPONSORS of this year's pageant are Lattof Motor Sales and First Arlington National Bank, Arlington Heights.

Scholarship fund donors include First National Bank of Mount Prospect, Persin and Robbin Jewelers and Northwest Trust and Savings Bank, Arlington Heights.

For information or a pageant application, contact Ms. Chalikis, 394-2300, ext. 285.

Contract OK due tonight in Dist. 23

Administrators in Prospect Heights Dist. 23 have received raises ranging from 8 per cent to 10.8 per cent for 1975-76.

Board members refused to reveal the exact amounts of administrative salary increases Monday night when the raises were approved because Assistant Supt. Gerald McGovern objected to having his salary become public knowledge. Supt. Edward Grodsky released the figures Wednesday.

Grodsky got an 8.3 per cent raise, from $27,600 to $29,900. McGovern received a 10.8 per cent salary increase, from $22,100 to $24,500. James Hendren, business manager, got an 8.1 per cent raise, from $22,200 to $24,000.

Philip Arnstein, MacArthur Junior High School principal, remained at the yearly salary for which he was hired in July, $20,500.

Phillip Cornwell, MacArthur's assistant principal, got a 10 per cent increase, from $15,000 to $16,500. Eisenhower's principal, Mary Hyrczyk, got an 8.9 per cent salary hike, from $18,950 to $20,650.

Donald Graham, Sullivan's principal, got an 8 per cent raise, from $18,750 to $20,250. Muir's John Finke got a 9.1 per cent increase, from $17,400 to $19,000. Ross principal Sally Fredian took a 9 per cent increase, fdom $16,500 to $18,000.

Rotary seeks pupils for foreign exchange

Applications are being accepted from high school students who wish to study in a foreign country in 1976-77 under the Arlington Heights Rotary Club's Youth Exchange Program.

This year the club sent Mary Gormley of Arlington High School to Sweden and Kim Robson of Hersey High School to Brazil. Regis Maia of Brazil and Boel Nilehn of Sweden are studying at Hersey under the Rotary program.

An applicant should be in the upper one-third of his or her class and should have an interest in international affairs. The applicant's parents are responsible for providing round-trip transportation and incidental expenses. Room, board and tuition are provided by the host Rotary Club.

Deadline for applications is Oct. 31. Anyone wanting information should contact James T. Dodds, 259-7000, or Robert P. Bitter, 394-0500.

Earthrise, free agent

New dictionary may be necessary for terms

by IRA BERKOW

Only a few years ago the astronomical word "earthrise" was as nonexistent as the sports word "free agent." But both recently have been added to Webster's dictionary and both are powerfully expressive of the age we live in.

An earthrise had never been seen by anyone — as far as we know — until 1969 when those men in white coats standing on the moon began that singular practice.

And only in the last few years, with the unearthly explosion of new teams and new leagues and men's liberation, have athletes begun to test in court the throttling reserve clause and sought to break free from one professional team to sell their services to another on the open market.

A new dictionary may be as good a place as any to read up on current affairs, especially if you've read the old one and can draw comparisons.

Other newly accepted neologisms of the times include "juvenocracy" (a state rules or greatly influenced by youth) and "computerese" and "bummer" and "fright wig" and "Ms" and "instant replay" and "skin flicks" and "rockabilly" and "skyjacker" and — that pyrotechnical catchall — "superstar!"

The last edition of Webster's Collegiate Dictionary came out in 1973, and included over 22,000 new words and new senses of old words that weren't in the previous edition published a decade earlier. However, new words and added definitions of old words continue to crop up in annual new printings.

Some words may quiver on the precipice of an upcoming edition or printing, only to disappear with the winds of fad.

Sports words, more than most, are subject to such vagaries.

Robert Copeland is an associate editor for Merriam-Webster, and the person in charge of sports words. He has numerous file cabinets filled with three-by-five-inch cards that contain citations (clippings and spotted references to new words). He and his associates decide when a word merits the lexicographical seal of approval.

One word that disappeared but has returned to the precipice is "slud." A writer in a Los Angeles paper has plumped for the word's inclusion as a variant past tense form of the verb "slide." It was used a great deal by the late Dizzy Dean when he was announcing baseball games on national television.

"To qualify for entry," said Copeland, "the word has to have considerably more support in usage by a large body of educated speakers and writers of English . . . 'Slud' is virtually unknown outside references to Dizzy.

"The word would be an important one for the dictionary to include if it were known to be a dialect form which Dizzy could have learned as a child. Webster's Third International Dictionary does list dialect forms 'clomb' and 'clum' for 'climb,' and 'snook' and 'snuck' for 'sneak.' "

"And we've got to be careful about jargon," continued Copeland. "It's here today, gone tomorrow. Take baseball. It seems almost every team has different words for fast ball. For example 'hummer' and 'old number one' and 'steam' and 'smoke.' And for home runs: 'downtowner' and 'tape-measure job' are two.

"But if the word is around long enough, it'll probably get in sooner or later. 'Hot corner' and 'brushback,' for instance, have just made it.' "

Browsing through H. L. Mencken's, "The American Language," one notices words that were once considered slang (in 1940, when the book was published) are now legitimate members of the word fraternity: baseball terms include "bean ball" and "bunt" and "walk" and "rhubarb" and "southpaw" and "Texas leaguer."

It was mentioned to Copeland that "cup of coffee," denoting a brief tryout in the big leagues, is still a very common expression around baseball people. It has apparently been so for nearly half a century.

"Really," said Copeland. "Let me write that down. 'Cup . . . of . . . ocffee. . .! I'll check it out."

There are two more words that cry for inclusion — if they would exist. One is "earthset," a natural since there is an "earthrise." And also, shouldn't the opposite of "free agent" be "fettered agents"?

RTA hikes suburban bus service subsidies by 10%

by ANNE SLAVICEK

The Regional Transportation Authority increased subsidies to suburban bus service by 10 per cent Wednesday.

The hike in subsidy funding lrevels probably will eliminate the need for local municipalities to bail out the North Suburban Mass Transit District (NORTRAN) which provides bus service within Des Plaines and intercity service to Arlington Heights, Palatine and Wheeling.

The village of Wheeling's bus service was one of two to benefit immediately from the new subsidy levels when the RTA board approved a grant for that community's intracity service Wednesday.

THE RTA BOARD action eliminates a requirement that a suburban bus line take in 65 per cent of its operating costs at the fare box in order to get the RTA to pay all of the bus line's operating deficit.

The new policy requires a bus company to meet 55% of its operating costs out of the are box in order to get 100 per cent of its deficits paid by the RTA.

The board had refused to make a similar change in August when NORTRAN officials said they were unable to meet the 65 per cent level. But RTA staff members Wednesday said similar problems in Joliet Mass Transit District financing showed that the NORTRAN problem was not unique.

RTA officials said reviews of actual bus service operating expenses from July, August and September for all carriers showed that higher costs for labor and materials were causing the financial problems for suburban bus lines.

The new 55 per cent level is expected to remain in effect until the RTA in December completes a study to set permanent funding standards.

AN RTA SPOKESMAN said NORTRAN still will have to pay back a $250,000 loan from the RTA, but the subsidies to NORTRAN will increase, probably by RTA board action at a meeting in November. The increase in subsidy payments will include an amount to make the 55 per cent rate retroactive to July 1.

Joseph DiJohn, executive director of NORTRAN, said the new funding level was "a welcome compromise." DiJohn predicted the NORTRAN service could pay 55 per cent of its operating costs out of fare revenue. He said the NORTRAN board at its next meeting will approve a program to revamp local bus service, including dropping 14 routes and improving schedules on 13 other routes.

RTA board member Daniel Baldino of Evanston was critical of the transportation agency's staff Wednesday because he said the 65% requirement was based on inaccurate estimates.

Baldino asked for a study of estimates of Chicago Transit Authority grant levels because he said a similar 12 per cent error in the case of the CTA could leave the RTA with a $17 million deficit at the end of the year. The increased rate for suburban bus lines will cost the RTA an additional $800,000 in grants.

In other action Wednesday, the RTA board ordered a study of pay levels for suburban bus drivers and mechanics. Board member James Kemp, a union official, called for bringing the pay for suburban bus company workers up to par with the pay for CTA workers.

Entry deadline Friday for Junior Miss Pageant

The deadline for high school seniors planning to enter the 11th annual Paddock Publications Junior Miss Pageant is 5 p.m. Friday.

Two Paddock Junior Misses will be crowned at the Nov. 23 pageant at Hoffman Estates High School, 1100 W. Higgins Rd. The pageant is affiliated with the Illinois Junior Miss Pageant and America's Junior Miss Pageant planned in Mobile, Ala., in May, which will involve winners from the 50 states.

Senior girls having a B grade average or better who attend high schools within The Herald circulation area are eligible.

Area high schools include: Arlington, Buffalo Grove, Conant, Elk Grove, Fremd, Hersey, Hoffman Estates, Palatine, Prospect, Forest View, Rolling Meadows, Sacred Heart, Schaumburg and Wheeling.

DES PLAINES girls who attend Maine East or Maine West also are eligible.

Each applicant will be personally interviewed Nov. 2 at Paddock Publications, 114 W. Campbell St., Arlington Heights. Interviews will begin at 12:30 p.m. and each girl will be assigned a specific time to appear before the panel of 12 judges.

Finalists selected during the interviews will be advised that night by Anne Chalikis, pageant director. A complete list of finalists will be mailed to each girl Nov. 3.

At the pageant, finalists will be judged on poise, physical fitness and talent. The local competition has produced five state title holders in the past 10 years.

The two junior misses selected each will receive a scholarship of $500 and a chance to compete in the state pageant. Runnerup and special recognition scholarships also will be awarded.

MAJOR SPONSORS of this year's pageant are Lattof Motor Sales and First Arlington National Bank, Arlington Heights.

Scholarship fund donors include First National Bank of Mount Prospect, Persin and Robbin Jewelers and Northwest Trust and Savings Bank, Arlington Heights.

For information or a pageant application, contact Ms. Chalikis, 394-2300, ext. 285.

Earthrise, free agent

New dictionary may be necessary for terms

by IRA BERKOW

Only a few years ago the astronomical word "earthrise" was as nonexistent as the sports word "free agent." But both recently have been added to Webster's dictionary and both are powerfully expressive of the age we live in.

An earthrise had never been seen by anyone — as far as we know — until 1969 when those men in white coats standing on the moon began that singular practice.

And only in the last few years, with the unearthly explosion of new teams and new leagues and men's liberation, have athletes begun to test in court the throttling reserve clause and sought to break free from one professional team to sell their services to another on the open market.

A new dictionary may be as good a place as any to read up on current affairs, especially if you've read the old one and can draw comparisons.

Other newly accepted neologisms of the times include "juvenocracy" (a state rules or greatly influenced by youth) and "computerese" and "bummer" and "fright wig" and "Ms" and "instant replay" and "skin flicks" and "rockabilly" and "skyjacker" and — that pyrotechnical catchall — "superstar!"

The last edition of Webster's Collegiate Dictionary came out in 1973, and included over 22,000 new words and new senses of old words that weren't in the previous edition published a decade earlier. However, new words and added definitions of old words continue to crop up in annual new printings.

Some words may quiver on the precipice of an upcoming edition or printing, only to disappear with the winds of fad.

Sports words, more than most, are subject to such vagaries.

Robert Copeland is an associate editor for Merriam-Webster, and the person in charge of sports words. He has numerous file cabinets filled with three-by-five-inch cards that contain citations (clippings and spotted references to new words). He and his associates decide when a word merits the lexicographical seal of approval.

One word that disappeared but has returned to the precipice is "slud." A writer in a Los Angeles paper has plumped for the word's inclusion as a variant past tense form of the verb "slide." It was used a great deal by the late Dizzy Dean when he was announcing baseball games on national television.

"To qualify for entry," said Copeland, "the word has to have considerably more support in usage by a large body of educated speakers and writers of English . . . 'Slud' is virtually unknown outside references to Dizzy.

"The word would be an important one for the dictionary to include if it were known to be a dialect form which Dizzy could have learned as a child. Webster's Third International Dictionary does list dialect forms 'clomb' and 'clum' for 'climb,' and 'snook' and 'snuck' for 'sneak.' "

"And we've got to be careful about jargon," continued Copeland. "It's here today, gone tomorrow. Take baseball. It seems almost every team has different words for fast ball. For example 'hummer' and 'old number one' and 'steam' and 'smoke.' And for home runs: 'downtowner' and 'tape-measure job' are two.

"But if the word is around long enough, it'll probably get in sooner or later. 'Hot corner' and 'brushback,' for instance, have just made it.' "

Browsing through H. L. Mencken's, "The American Language," one notices words that were once considered slang (in 1940, when the book was published) are now legitimate members of the word fraternity: baseball terms include "bean ball" and "bunt" and "walk" and "rhubarb" and "southpaw" and "Texas leaguer."

It was mentioned to Copeland that "cup of coffee," denoting a brief tryout in the big leagues, is still a very common expression around baseball people. It has apparently been so for nearly half a century.

"Really," said Copeland. "Let me write that down. 'Cup . . . of . . . ocffee. . .! I'll check it out."

There are two more words that cry for inclusion — if they would exist. One is "earthset," a natural since there is an "earthrise." And also, shouldn't the opposite of "free agent" be "fettered agents"?

'Use Energy Wisely Week' continues in county

by LEA TONKIN

"Use Energy Wisely Week" will continue through Friday, County Board Pres. George Dunne said.

The conservation event is sponsored by the Greater Chicago Committee to Use Energy Wisely. Electric vehicles, a model home featuring energy conservation systems and a high capacity storage battery are among the displays featured at the Civic Center Plaza and the City Hall, Chicago.

Roger Sant, assistant administrator of the Office of Conservation and Energy for the Federal Energy Administration, will address an energy conservation awards dinner Friday at the Palmer House, Chicago.

Substantial reduction in county air pollution levels during the past 10 years is reported by the County Dept. of Environmental Control. Philip Mole, department director, said particulate matter levels decreased 34 per cent from 1965 to 1974 and sulphur dioxide levels declined 83 per cent during the same period.

"The reductions in sulphur dioxide were achieved by strictly enforcing the sulphur limitations set forth in the environmental control ordinance and the reduction of particulate is largely due to the 108 major industrial programs which have been completed in the county," Mole said.

"Provide food and cover for wildlife, encourage reforestation and prevent erosion control by planting trees and shrubs," said the Lake County Soil and Water Conservation District, Lake Zurich. Order forms for seedlings provided by the State of Illinois at cost can be obtained from the district office. The trees are packed in lots of 500 at delivered prices ranging from $12.25 to $17.25. Shipment of the seedlings will be made during the 1976 planting season.

The citizens for a Better Environment (CBE) organization, Chicago, filed suit Monday against the Pollution Control Board of Illinois for violation of the federal Clean Air Act. the federal air quality standards were not met in Illinois by the May 31 deadline, said Barry Greever, CBE director of environmental research. He cited a variance from state air quality standards granted by the board to International Harvester Co.

Builder Origer testifies at Fulle trial

'Hang your checks on GOP money tree'

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

County Comr. Floyd Fulle received about $43,500 in zoning payoffs from 1966 to 1970, builder Thomas Origer testified Wednesday.

The money was delivered to Fulle's newspaper offices in Rosemont and Schiller Park and to the County Building in Chicago, said Origer, 274 Dover Circle, Palatine.

Origer, who is the first government witness to link Fulle with extortion payoffs, testified during the third day of Fulle's trial on federal extortion, perjury and tax fraud charges before a U.S. District Court jury.

Assistant U.S. Atty. Anton Valukas questioned Origer, a millionaire builder of apartments in the Northwest suburbs, about a series of zoning payoffs to Fulle, 666 Laurel, Des Plaines, that started in 1966.

FULLE IS NOT charged with extorting about $33,500 of the payoffs for influencing zoning because a federal time statute bars prosecution.

Valukas said in opening statements of the case Monday that the earlier payoffs show a pattern which will support the extortion charges.

During three hours of testimony, Origer said the first payoff to Fulle involved 7.49 acres in unincorporated Maine Township. Apartment zoning for the property was approved in 1966 by the County Zoning Board of Appeals but was deferred by the County Board, which included Fulle.

"I asked Mr. Fulle why he had deferred," the proposal, Origer said. "He then explained to me that he knew I had been paying money to the Democrats. He said from this point on I would have to pay money to the Republicans as well. He wanted $2,500."

Fulle demanded the $2,500 after learning that Democratic County Board members would receive $5,000 to approve the multiple-family zoning.

PAYOFFS TO Fulle included $39,000 in cash; $4,500 for the campaign of former Gov. Richard Ogilvie and purchase of 25 advertisements in Fulle's suburban newspapers, the Suburban Progress serving the Schiller Park and Rosement area between 1968 and 1970.

Valukas told U.S. District Court Judge Bernard M. Decker before the jury trial reopened Wednesday morning that a former aide of Ogilvie, Carl Weigand, has received immunity from prosecution. Weigand is expected to confirm that campaign contributions to the Ogilvie fund were used as a payoff "credit" by Origer.

One contribution, when Ogilvie was chairman of the County Board which controled zoning for Origer's proposed building projects, came at a private dinner in 1968, Origer said.

"They had a money tree there. You hang your thing (a $1,000 check) on the tree," Origer said. About 25 persons but not Fulle, attended the dinner.

Origer denied:

Origer used safe deposit box records, checks, county zoning documents and telephone and advertising bills to establish times of the alleged payoffs.

DEFENSE ATTY. William R. Jacobs, questioned Origer's memory during cross-examination Wednesday afternoon.

Origer denited:

- He owes the IRS more than $2 million in back taxes.
- He paid more than $50,000 to obtaining zoning for an apartment in Schiller Park in 1972.
- He planned to run as a candidate against Fulle in the 1970 County Board election.

Jacobs waived an IRS report at Origer during questioning. "Tell us how much you owe," said Jacobs who referred to $2,307,412 claimed by the IRS between 1965 and 1969. "Nothing . . . not a penny," said Origer who slammed the witness stand with his fist.

Origer said that IRS agents "took out every single expense I had," in preparing the $2.3 million estimate because he refused to allow extended examination of his tax records. "If you don't give them an extension they just take the deduction and throw them out. It's standard IRS procedure," said Origer who added he paid all tax debts with an amended return in 1970.

Although Origer received federal immunity from prosecution to testify about county zoning payoffs, the agreement does not include prosecution on civil tax charges. Jacobs said Origer saves $2.50 for every $1 "he can place in someone else's hands."

Although Origer recalled Fulle's newspaper office telephone number during examination by Valukas, he "guessed" about the floor of Fulle's office in Schiller Park where payoffs were delivered and he could not identify Fulle's published and unlisted county office or home telephone numbers.

"DID YOU TELL anyone in the year 1970 that you wanted to get rid of Floyd Fulle because he wouldn't take money," Jacobs said, "I don't recall," Origer answered.

Origer denied that he told IRS agents about a Schiller Park zoning payoff although Jacobs produced a copy of an IRS interview in October 1973 about the payoff. Jacobs also displayed a summary of an IRS interview of Origer in October 1967 about a $2,500 contribution to Fulle's campaign. "You said then that no one solicited that payment," Jacobs said. "Ye, you had just paid $10,000 to County Board Democrats and $7,500 to Republicans a month before. Did you tell . . . you had just paid $17,500," Jacobs asked. "No, I didn't," Origer said.

The trial will continue at 10 a.m. today.

Lawyer, judge don't see eye-to-eye

The battle between defense attorneys for County Comr. Floyd Fulle and U.S. District Court Judge Bernard M. Decker erupted into a shouting march Wednesday.

Decker chastized defense Atty. Arthur Zimmerman after Zimmerman tossed his glasses at the defense table.

"I have conducted trials in this courtroom since 1962 and have never seen behavior such as this," Decker said after accusing Zimmerman of throwing a "pencil."

"I apologize. I did not throw a pencil. I did not have a pencil," Zimmerman said.

Zimmerman was angered when Decker refused to block admission of numerous documents including checks, telephone records, bank statements and zoning files, until defense attorneys studied the exhibits.

"The reason you don't know (what is in the documents) is that you weren't listening," Decker said. "If you'll try to be reasonable for a minute . . ."

"I always try to be reasonable," Defense Atty. William R. Jacobs answered. "You're not always successful," said Decker. "You can stay here all night," to study the documents the judge added.

"I'm not in a speed contest," Zimmerman shouted. Decker then ordered a "five-minute recess." And Zimmerman wheeled around tossing his glasses at the defense table. The glasses bounced to the courtroom floor.

The environment

'Use Energy Wisely Week' continues in county

by LEA TONKIN

"Use Energy Wisely Week" will continue through Friday, County Board Pres. George Dunne said.

The conservation event is sponsored by the Greater Chicago Committee to Use Energy Wisely. Electric vehicles, a model home featuring energy conservation systems and a high capacity storage battery are among the displays featured at the Civic Center Plaza and the City Hall, Chicago.

Roger Sant, assistant administrator of the Office of Conservation and Energy for the Federal Energy Administration, will address an energy conservation awards dinner Friday at the Palmer House, Chicago.

Substantial reduction in county air pollution levels during the past 10 years is reported by the County Dept. of Environmental Control. Philip Mole, department director, said particulate matter levels decreased 34 per cent from 1965 to 1974 and sulphur dioxide levels declined 83 per cent during the same period.

"The reductions in sulphur dioxide were achieved by strictly enforcing the sulphur limitations set forth in the environmental control ordinance and the reduction of particulate is largely due to the 108 major industrial programs which have been completed in the county," Mole said.

"Provide food and cover for wildlife, encourage reforestation and prevent erosion control by planting trees and shrubs," said the Lake County Soil and Water Conservation District, Lake Zurich. Order forms for seedlings provided by the State of Illinois at cost can be obtained from the district office. The trees are packed in lots of 500 at delivered prices ranging from $12.25 to $17.25. Shipment of the seedlings will be made during the 1976 planting season.

The citizens for a Better Environment (CBE) organization, Chicago, filed suit Monday against the Pollution Control Board of Illinois for violation of the federal Clean Air Act. the federal air quality standards were not met in Illinois by the May 31 deadline, said Barry Greever, CBE director of environmental research. He cited a variance from state air quality standards granted by the board to International Harvester Co.

Stocks edge up in seesaw trading

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices finished narrowly higher in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange Wednesday in a seesaw session.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which gained 4.57 points Tuesday, closed up 2.75 at 849.57. The blue chip indicator vacillated between plus and minus territory most of the session. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index edged up 0.15 to 90.71. The price of an average NYSE common share rose four cents.

Advances held a slim lead over declines, 707 to 645, among the 1,818 issues crossing the tape.

VOLUME TOTALED 16,060,000 shares, down from the 20,800,000 shares turned over Tuesday.

Polaroid, the most active Big Board issue, lost 1 3/8 to 37 3/8 on 225,000 shares. Tenneco warrants "A" were second, off 1/8 to ¼ on 216,000 traded. American Telephone & Telegraph followed, up ½ to 49 7/8 on 200,300 shares.

Most major stock groups recorded only fractional changes, but the chemicals and oils showed some point-size gains.

Among the chemicals, Monsanto added 1¼ to 79 7/8. In the oil group, Mobil picked up ½ to 46¾.

ON THE AIRLINE list, National dropped 3/8 to 10¾. The glamors came under selling pressure. Motorola retreated 1¼ to 43¼.

Prices closed lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The price of an average Amex share lost two cents. Sales amounted to 1,431,000 shares, compared with 1,753,000 shares traded Tuesday.

First aid can help heart attack victim

by Lawrence E. Lamb

Although nothing can change what has happened, I would appreciate your comments on a problem that has been bothering me.

Last spring my father, nearly 86, died suddenly after he had shoveled snow from our 12 by 18 foot patio. He came in the house, sat down, slumped over and was gone. He shoveled (pushed) snow for about 10 minutes.

It couldn't have been more than two or three minutes after I talked to him that I came back into the room and he was slumped over. I straightened him up, but there was no indication of breathing and his eyes were closed. I have multiple sclerosis and am in a wheelchair which limits my ability to help.

He was as active as he could be, but had begun to decline in strength the last several months especially. He had to rest a lot when he was doing physical work and he went slowly.

Do you think there was anything I could or should have done to save him? I can't completely shake the feeling that I let him down at the most critical point in his life.

I have been getting variations of this question a lot more frequently of late. That is a good sign, because it means people are becoming more aware that immediate assistance often saves a life when the heart suddenly stops. A large number of sudden deaths can be prevented by prompt effective emergency treatment. It is a lot like saving a person from drowning, and the need to know how to help a person with sudden cardiac arrest is so much more common programs to teach all the citizens how to save a life when such a sudden emergency occurs. I think this is wise and recommend that all communities develop such a program. The individual person who is interested should contact the local chapter of the American Heart Assn. to see if they have any training programs available. The heart association does sponsor a number of programs to teach people what to do. This includes giving external chest compression to provide emergency circulation and artificial respiration when needed. I do think you need training to know how to do this properly.

What could you have done? This is strictly a guess. The first few minutes are critical, and if you are not there when it first happens the chances of doing something decrease rapidly. The second danger is that by starting too late the victim can end up with permanent brain damage and still be alive, which is of questionable value if the damage is severe.

With your disability I doubt very much you could have done anything useful by yourself. To provide both external cardiac massage and artificial respiration you need to be fairly agile, more so than I would guess you to be.

Builder Origer testifies at Fulle trial

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

County Comr. Floyd Fulle received about $43,500 in zoning payoffs from 1966 to 1970, builder Thomas Origer testified Wednesday.

The money was delivered to Fulle's newspaper offices in Rosemont and Schiller Park and to the County Building in Chicago, said Origer, 274 Dover Circle, Palatine.

Origer, who is the first government witness to link Fulle with extortion payoffs, testified during the third day of Fulle's trial on federal extortion, perjury and tax fraud charges before a U.S. District Court jury.

Assistant U.S. Atty. Anton Valukas questioned Origer, a millionaire builder of apartments in the Northwest suburbs, about a series of zoning payoffs to Fulle, 666 Laurel, Des Plaines, that started in 1966.

FULLE IS NOT charged with extorting about $33,500 of the payoffs for influencing zoning because a federal time statute bars prosecution.

Valukas said in opening statements of the case Monday that the earlier payoffs show a pattern which will support the extortion charges.

During three hours of testimony, Origer said the first payoff to Fulle involved 7.49 acres in unincorporated Maine Township. Apartment zoning for the property was approved in 1966 by the County Zoning Board of Appeals but was deferred by the County Board, which included Fulle.

"I asked Mr. Fulle why he had deferred," the proposal, Origer said. "He then explained to me that he knew I had been paying money to the Democrats. He said from this point on I would have to pay money to the Republicans as well. He wanted $2,500."

Fulle demanded the $2,500 after learning that Democratic County Board members would receive $5,000 to approve the multiple-family zoning.

PAYOFFS TO Fulle included $39,000 in cash; $4,500 for the campaign of former Gov. Richard Ogilvie and purchase of 25 advertisements in Fulle's suburban newspapers, the Suburban Progress serving the Schiller Park and Rosement area between 1968 and 1970.

Valukas told U.S. District Court Judge Bernard M. Decker before the jury trial reopened Wednesday morning that a former aide of Ogilvie, Carl Weigand, has received immunity from prosecution. Weigand is expected to confirm that campaign contributions to the Ogilvie fund were used as a payoff "credit" by Origer.

One contribution, when Ogilvie was chairman of the County Board which controled zoning for Origer's proposed building projects, came at a private dinner in 1968, Origer said.

"They had a money tree there. You hang your thing (a $1,000 check) on the tree," Origer said. About 25 persons but not Fulle, attended the dinner.

Origer denied:

Origer used safe deposit box records, checks, county zoning documents and telephone and advertising bills to establish times of the alleged payoffs.

DEFENSE ATTY. William R. Jacobs, questioned Origer's memory during cross-examination Wednesday afternoon.

Origer denited:

- He owes the IRS more than $2 million in back taxes.
- He paid more than $50,000 to obtaining zoning for an apartment in Schiller Park in 1972.
- He planned to run as a candidate against Fulle in the 1970 County Board election.

Jacobs waived an IRS report at Origer during questioning. "Tell us how much you owe," said Jacobs who referred to $2,307,412 claimed by the IRS between 1965 and 1969. "Nothing . . . not a penny," said Origer who slammed the witness stand with his fist.

Origer said that IRS agents "took out every single expense I had," in preparing the $2.3 million estimate because he refused to allow extended examination of his tax records. "If you don't give them an extension they just take the deduction and throw them out. It's standard IRS procedure," said Origer who added he paid all tax debts with an amended return in 1970.

Although Origer received federal immunity from prosecution to testify about county zoning payoffs, the agreement does not include prosecution on civil tax charges. Jacobs said Origer saves $2.50 for every $1 "he can place in someone else's hands."

Although Origer recalled Fulle's newspaper office telephone number during examination by Valukas, he "guessed" about the floor of Fulle's office in Schiller Park where payoffs were delivered and he could not identify Fulle's published and unlisted county office or home telephone numbers.

"DID YOU TELL anyone in the year 1970 that you wanted to get rid of Floyd Fulle because he wouldn't take money," Jacobs said, "I don't recall," Origer answered.

Origer denied that he told IRS agents about a Schiller Park zoning payoff although Jacobs produced a copy of an IRS interview in October 1973 about the payoff. Jacobs also displayed a summary of an IRS interview of Origer in October 1967 about a $2,500 contribution to Fulle's campaign. "You said then that no one solicited that payment," Jacobs said. "Ye, you had just paid $10,000 to County Board Democrats and $7,500 to Republicans a month before. Did you tell . . . you had just paid $17,500," Jacobs asked. "No, I didn't," Origer said.

The trial will continue at 10 a.m. today.

Lawyer, judge don't see eye-to-eye

The battle between defense attorneys for County Comr. Floyd Fulle and U.S. District Court Judge Bernard M. Decker erupted into a shouting march Wednesday.

Decker chastized defense Atty. Arthur Zimmerman after Zimmerman tossed his glasses at the defense table.

"I have conducted trials in this courtroom since 1962 and have never seen behavior such as this," Decker said after accusing Zimmerman of throwing a "pencil."

"I apologize. I did not throw a pencil. I did not have a pencil," Zimmerman said.

Zimmerman was angered when Decker refused to block admission of numerous documents including checks, telephone records, bank statements and zoning files, until defense attorneys studied the exhibits.

"The reason you don't know (what is in the documents) is that you weren't listening," Decker said. "If you'll try to be reasonable for a minute . . ."

"I always try to be reasonable," Defense Atty. William R. Jacobs answered. "You're not always successful," said Decker. "You can stay here all night," to study the documents the judge added.

"I'm not in a speed contest," Zimmerman shouted. Decker then ordered a "five-minute recess." And Zimmerman wheeled around tossing his glasses at the defense table. The glasses bounced to the courtroom floor.

Local artists to display works at November festival

More than 100 artists and craftsmen are scheduled to display their works at Congregation B'Nai Jehoshua Beth Elohim's fifth annual art festival, Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 8 and 9 at the temple, 901 Milwaukee Ave., Glenview. Festival hours are from 8 p.m. to midnight on Saturday and from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Sunday. Donations are $2 for adults, 50 cents for children on Sunday.

Exhibitors will include Christl Hansen, Mount Prospect, oils; David Roth, Hoffman Estates, photography; Joe Burlini, welded steel and Tom Lynch, watercolors, both from Arlington Heights.

The festival will also feature works by Robert Charles Howe, recent winner of the Saturday Evening Post, Paint Like Norman Rockwell contest. Howe will exhibit his original full size oils and Post covers.

Stocks edge up in seesaw trading

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices finished narrowly higher in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange Wednesday in a seesaw session.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which gained 4.57 points Tuesday, closed up 2.75 at 849.57. The blue chip indicator vacillated between plus and minus territory most of the session. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index edged up 0.15 to 90.71. The price of an average NYSE common share rose four cents.

Advances held a slim lead over declines, 707 to 645, among the 1,818 issues crossing the tape.

VOLUME TOTALED 16,060,000 shares, down from the 20,800,000 shares turned over Tuesday.

Polaroid, the most active Big Board issue, lost 1 3/8 to 37 3/8 on 225,000 shares. Tenneco warrants "A" were second, off 1/8 to ¼ on 216,000 traded. American Telephone & Telegraph followed, up ½ to 49 7/8 on 200,300 shares.

Most major stock groups recorded only fractional changes, but the chemicals and oils showed some point-size gains.

Among the chemicals, Monsanto added 1¼ to 79 7/8. In the oil group, Mobil picked up ½ to 46¾.

ON THE AIRLINE list, National dropped 3/8 to 10¾. The glamors came under selling pressure. Motorola retreated 1¼ to 43¼.

Prices closed lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The price of an average Amex share lost two cents. Sales amounted to 1,431,000 shares, compared with 1,753,000 shares traded Tuesday.

First aid can help heart attack victim

by Lawrence E. Lamb

Although nothing can change what has happened, I would appreciate your comments on a problem that has been bothering me.

Last spring my father, nearly 86, died suddenly after he had shoveled snow from our 12 by 18 foot patio. He came in the house, sat down, slumped over and was gone. He shoveled (pushed) snow for about 10 minutes.

It couldn't have been more than two or three minutes after I talked to him that I came back into the room and he was slumped over. I straightened him up, but there was no indication of breathing and his eyes were closed. I have multiple sclerosis and am in a wheelchair which limits my ability to help.

He was as active as he could be, but had begun to decline in strength the last several months especially. He had to rest a lot when he was doing physical work and he went slowly.

Do you think there was anything I could or should have done to save him? I can't completely shake the feeling that I let him down at the most critical point in his life.

I have been getting variations of this question a lot more frequently of late. That is a good sign, because it means people are becoming more aware that immediate assistance often saves a life when the heart suddenly stops. A large number of sudden deaths can be prevented by prompt effective emergency treatment. It is a lot like saving a person from drowning, and the need to know how to help a person with sudden cardiac arrest is so much more common programs to teach all the citizens how to save a life when such a sudden emergency occurs. I think this is wise and recommend that all communities develop such a program. The individual person who is interested should contact the local chapter of the American Heart Assn. to see if they have any training programs available. The heart association does sponsor a number of programs to teach people what to do. This includes giving external chest compression to provide emergency circulation and artificial respiration when needed. I do think you need training to know how to do this properly.

Some communities have developed that there is no comparison.

What could you have done? This is strictly a guess. The first few minutes are critical, and if you are not there when it first happens the chances of doing something decrease rapidly. The second danger is that by starting too late the victim can end up with permanent brain damage and still be alive, which is of questionable value if the damage is severe.

With your disability I doubt very much you could have done anything useful by yourself. To provide both external cardiac massage and artificial respiration you need to be fairly agile, more so than I would guess you to be.

The way we see it

Suburbs hurt by veto loss

It took suburban Republicans years to gain even a trace of influence on the County Board, but it took the Chicago-based Democrats only a few minutes Monday to stomp it out.

The GOP suburban minority has been struggling since 1972 to gain a sixth suburban board seat. Last year, following a court battle and reapportionment, they gained that additional seat.

Under the old rules, the addition of the sixth member was supposed to give the GOP a "veto power" on expenditures of more than $5,000. In effect, it had given the Republicans a bit of bargaining power and a chance to challenge some of the arbitrary decisions of the ten Democrats on the board.

But on Monday, lo and behold, the Democrats changed the rules. They approved an ordinance which lowers the two-thirds vote requirement for major expenditures to a simple majority. In effect, the hard-fought suburban gains were discarded quicker than you could say "Dick Daley."

Granted, the Republicans haven't been able to use their veto power with much effectiveness or regularity. Monday's decision to discard it is a crass political move.

Comr. Martin Tuchow, who proposed the ordinance, said that other governmental bodies, such as the Chicago City Council, the Metropolitan Sanitary District, the Chicago Park District and the Chicago Board of Education, use simple majority rule for spending approval.

But these boards are controlled by Daley-selected board members, making any sort of challenge a moot point. In addition, a limited veto power is a safeguard against the possibility of a corrupt majority.

We urge the Republicans to challenge this power grab in court. For the sake of real suburban representation, not the phony rational offered by the Democratic majority, a challenge is an absolute necessity.

City has right idea in fiscal management

The search has begun for a new city manager in Rolling Meadows. Dozens of applications have been received and city officials now are screening prospective candidates.

As soon as that process has been completed, city officials say the new manager will begin a similar search for a person to fill the job of city financial officer. We believe city officials have the right idea.

JAMES WATSON

City Manager James Watson held both jobs, and that at least partially led to his forced resignation by the city council. The job of running city hall is a full-time job, and so is the job of keeping the city's financial accounts in order.

City Treasurer Robert Cole defended Watson for some of the financial errors which occurred. Cole — who works as a full-time financial administrator for the Village of Elmhurst — should know and has been recommending the move for some time.

We urge the city council to continue its efforts to appoint a strong city manager who in turn should give early priority to the hiring of a financial officer for Rolling Meadows.

Today is Thursday, Oct. 23, the 296th day of 1975 with 69 to follow.

The moon is between its first full phase and last quarter.

The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Scorpio.

French actress Sara Bernhardt and American talk show host Johnny Carson were born on Oct. 23, she in 1845 and he in 1925.

On this day in history:

- In 1915, an estimated 2,500 women marched in New York City demanding the right to vote throughout the United States.
- In 1942, the British 8th Army launched an offensive at El Alamein, Egypt, starting a campaign that was to sweep the Axis forces out of North Africa.
- In 1947, the state of Maine was declared a disaster area as forest fires caused damage estimated at $30 million.
- In 1955, Ngo Dinh Diem was chosen to take over the South Vietnamese government in the country's first free election. He later was assassinated.

A thought for the day: American writer Carl Sandburg said, "Time is a sandpile we run our fingers through."

He backs laws on 'moral issues'

Fence post
letters to the editor

On Friday morning, Oct. 17, The Herald presented its readers with a seven paragraph editorial on the "game room matter" in Rolling Meadows, including Ald. Ahrens' reported quote of a quote: "It's not the City Council's job to 'legislate morality,' " which the paper said "made some sense." The item then ended with a conclusion: "There are more important topics of the day." Presumably the whole thing wasn't worth talking about in the first place? Tsk, Tsk.

Of course, council ordinances can never change the morality of any individual, but ordinances dealing with moral issues very much influence the moral tone, the climate, of the city, with the result that those who would raise their children in a reasonably moral environment have the opportunity to do so. If this is not so, why do we have so many sections in the Code of Ordinances dealing with moral issues? Would you and the good alderman have these repealed? Shall we make Rolling Meadows a wide-open town?

In our city we have many organizations, some church-affiliated and some not, working as best they can to the end that our young people enjoy their years as they gradually mature into responsible citizens with a sense of what is good and what is not, what is right and what is wrong. Are the sponsors of these groups so indifferent or dull-witted that they would refuse to provide electronic game machines (with or without the coin slot) if the youngsters considered them so important? Is it necessary to set up a store to skim quarters from the kids to provide them with this form of relaxation and excitement?

The council committee that passed on the proposed ordinance wrote in several restrictive provisions such as . . . not more than so many machines . . . license review in one year by the committee before renewal . . . no food, beverages or smoking on premises, etc. Obviously this committee of aldermen, while recommending the revised ordinance, did so with hesitation and misgiving. When Mr. Abraham testified that gambling would not be permitted, was he trying to "legislate morality"?

It is my impression that The Herald never overlooks an opportunity to take a swipe at the mayor, and I would guess he's not crazy about you, either. However, there is a difference here — you stand on the sidelines pointing out "how the strong man stumbles," but it is the mayor who is "actually in the arena . . . who strives to do the deeds," and this difference should stay your hand from writing premature editorials and making premature judgments.

Ald. Ahrens is a friend of mine, I think, my association with The Herald staff has been pleasant and favorable, but I also stand for the mayor because he tries hard, he has the enthusiasm for his job, he has courage, and he gets things done. True, from time to time there is error, but there is some shortcoming in all effort.

So, stand by, Mr. Herald, the mayor and the council (and the lawyers) will work this all out just fine, in a way that will be in the best interest of the kids and the city. I will look forward to your comments some morning after the dust has settled. Would you like to bet a lunch the game room doesn't make it by Christmas? Tsk, tsk.

She backs women's rights

Oct. 24 is United Nations Day. The theme for this year's celebration is International Women's Year (I.W.Y.). In light of these facts, I'm writing this letter because I feel that most people don't know very much, if anything at all, about I.W.Y. or the benfits the world community could receive should the efforts of the U.N. and concerned organizations be successful in eliminating discrimination against women, and elevating the status and station of women around the world.

The U.N. designated 1975 International Women's Year as a focus point. At the World Conference in Mexico, specific goals were arrived at to cover a 10-year period; therefore, sustaining a long-term effort to achieve the objectives of I.W.Y.

Despite decades of progress in eliminating discrimination against women, despite legislative attempts to break down the barriers which prevent the advancement of women in all societies, there exist practices, attitudes and traditional discriminatory beliefs which make it near impossible for women to exercise their equal rights in actual, everyday life. This is the reasoning behind I.W.Y.

There are innumerable benefits which can be derived from the equal status of men and women. They all boil down to one, main outstanding fact: until the development of the two factors of humanity, male and female, is perfected, the happiness of the human world will not be realized. Consider an analogy found in the writings of the Baha'i faith: "The world of humanity is possessed of two wings — the male and female. So long as these two wings are not equivalent in strength, the bird will not fly."

In the preamble to U.N. Declaration on the Elimination of Discrimination Against Women, Nov. 7, 1967, it is stated that, ". . . discrimination against women is incompatible with human dignity and with the welfare of the family and of society . . . the full and complete development of a country, the welfare of the world, and the cause of peace require the maximum participation of women as well as men in all fields . . ."

Progress is slow. Legislation is not the only answer. Through universal education; eliminating prejudices and discriminatory traditional practices; allowing women and men equal participation in society and the opportunity to develop their potential, the world is guaranteeing the advancement of a new, peaceful civilization. I pray that humanity may achieve this.

Harlene Noble

Nations Association,

A tax 'definition'

Interest and dividends are closely related words but the definition seems to be wide apart when tax time arrives.

Stockholders or investors in our country's corporations are permitted to deduct the first $100 in dividends on their tax return but the forlorn depositors in saving institutions must report and pay tax on every dollar of interest received without a similar deduction.

Our tax laws favor the dividend recipients of stock owners but penalize the thrifty depositor on their interest-bearing accounts.

Opinions of your editorials and your readership may reach base with this subject of interest plus dividends.

'Cities need foreign aid'

I would like to offer an obvious solution to the money problem that New York City has developed. First of all, I realize that they brought it on themselves, through poor money management, but if we cannot help them, who will? I have not read of any of our "friends abroad" offering any financial assistance to us, when we need it.

Therefore, I submit to the President, to the Congress and to the people that we divert some of our millions of dollars in foreign aid to a domestic problem which so desperately needs it.

Why is it that we never hesitate to give millions away to other countries and we hesitate to help one of America's greatest cities when they need it? Where are our priorities?

Let's start taking care of ourselves first, and then we will worry about other people's problems. I think it's time we stopped playing big brother to the whole world, and let's start playing big brother to ourselves.

Senior citizens' group 'rude,' reader contends

I used to think senior citizens' clubs were for senior citizens, but last month that illustration shattered! I found out better when I tried to gain membership for my mother in the Wheeling Senior Citizens Club.

I was interrupted in my initial attempt to enroll my mother by a second woman who was rude and ill-mannered. I was told that there was no room for Mother at the meetings, that there was no room for her at the outings, that "she probably wouldn't like it" and that they should get their own group going in Buffalo Grove!

My mother is 85 years old. Part of the year she lives in Indiana where she is active in a seniors' group, and she was greatly disappointed by this rejection, then the final insult was spewed out at us with the words, "Well, you can probably leave her here this time!" just as though Mother were some baggage to be dumped off.

There may well be a membership quota. If there is, we could have been informed of this fact with some courtesy and perhaps been offered the option of a waiting list. I abhor the discriminatory treatment older people are given in this society, but when a representative of a senior citizens club is so insensitive, exclusive, and nasty to another senior citizen, this is the height of discrimination and a giant step toward the decline of human decency.

More aid to education no longer a sure thing

by WANDALYNN RICE

Education today

by Wandalyn Rice

It may be a measure of education's fall from grace that those urging an override of Gov. Daniel Walker's education funding vetoes are not backing a sure thing.

A test vote on the issue is expected today, but most observers believe State Rep. Arthur Berman, sponsor of the override effort, will postpone a final vote until Nov. 5 because he does not yet have the 89 votes in the Illinois House needed to restore $81 million to the state's school aid formula.

Almost anyone who has been even marginally aware of the story involving Walker's school aid cuts and the efforts to override them knows some of the basic facts:

- Walker drew howls from educators around the state by cutting the education budgets last June, saying the cuts were needed because the state was running out of money.
- The Chicago Public Schools became active in leading the fight to overturn the governor's cut after the settlement of the teacher's strike resulted in an even larger than expected deficit in the Chicago school budget.
- State Comptroller George Lindberg began raising the alarm during the first week of October that, even if the governor's budget cuts remain in force, the state's financial position is perilous. The statements resulted in a week-long series of exchanges between Lindberg and Walker disputing the financial condition of the state.

BEHIND ALL THESE public actions, there have been major lobbying efforts by the state's teachers organizations and other education groups. Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley has thrown his prestige into the discussion and has been putting subtle and not-so-subtle pressure on legislators to back the overrides.

The fact there is some doubt this major effort by educators and Daley will succeed is a turnabout from recent years. While education interests have been pretty successful in the legislature lately, 1975 may be the year that the winning streak ends.

There are several reasons for the sudden "bad luck" of education.

For one thing, a good many legislators have become convinced that the state's financial position really is bad enough to result in a tax increase if the governor's veto is overridden.

IN ADDITION, however, schools have been running into increasing skepticism in recent years as they have been taking larger and larger amounts of money and suffering declining enrollment.

The state's new school aid formula, adopted three years ago, has increased the amount of money the state puts into education dramatically, but it is also true that there has not been a dramatic increase in the quality of education in the state.

It may be, as educators will doubtless argue, that it is unrealistic to expect improvement in education to occur in a direct proportion to increases in funding. But it is understandable that a lack of improvement might disillusion a lot of people.

The result is that it is a little easier for many politicians to ignore the once irresistible pleas of educators for more money. And when you combine those factors with a fiscal crisis, it becomes clear why the education lobbies and Mayor Daley are having problems rounding up the votes for veto overrides.

The way we see it

Suburbs hurt by veto loss

It took suburban Republicans years to gain even a trace of influence on the County Board, but it took the Chicago-based Democrats only a few minutes Monday to stomp it out.

The GOP suburban minority has been struggling since 1972 to gain a sixth suburban board seat. Last year, following a court battle and reapportionment, they gained that additional seat.

Under the old rules, the addition of the sixth member was supposed to give the GOP a "veto power" on expenditures of more than $5,000. In effect, it had given the Republicans a bit of bargaining power and a chance to challenge some of the arbitrary decisions of the ten Democrats on the board.

But on Monday, lo and behold, the Democrats changed the rules. They approved an ordinance which lowers the two-thirds vote requirement for major expenditures to a simple majority. In effect, the hard-fought suburban gains were discarded quicker than you could say "Dick Daley."

Granted, the Republicans haven't been able to use their veto power with much effectiveness or regularity. Monday's decision to discard it is a crass political move.

Comr. Martin Tuchow, who proposed the ordinance, said that other governmental bodies, such as the Chicago City Council, the Metropolitan Sanitary District, the Chicago Park District and the Chicago Board of Education, use simple majority rule for spending approval.

But these boards are controlled by Daley-selected board members, making any sort of challenge a moot point. In addition, a limited veto power is a safeguard against the possibility of a corrupt majority.

We urge the Republicans to challenge this power grab in court. For the sake of real suburban representation, not the phony rational offered by the Democratic majority, a challenge is an absolute necessity.

City has right idea in fiscal management

The search has begun for a new city manager in Rolling Meadows. Dozens of applications have been received and city officials now are screening prospective candidates.

As soon as that process has been completed, city officials say the new manager will begin a similar search for a person to fill the job of city financial officer. We believe city officials have the right idea.

JAMES WATSON

City Manager James Watson held both jobs, and that at least partially led to his forced resignation by the city council. The job of running city hall is a full-time job, and so is the job of keeping the city's financial accounts in order.

City Treasurer Robert Cole defended Watson for some of the financial errors which occurred. Cole — who works as a full-time financial administrator for the Village of Elmhurst — should know and has been recommending the move for some time.

We urge the city council to continue its efforts to appoint a strong city manager who in turn should give early priority to the hiring of a financial officer for Rolling Meadows.

On this day in history:

- In 1915, an estimated 2,500 women marched in New York City demanding the right to vote throughout the United States.
- In 1942, the British 8th Army launched an offensive at El Alamein, Egypt, starting a campaign that was to sweep the Axis forces out of North Africa.
- In 1947, the state of Maine was declared a disaster area as forest fires caused damage estimated at $30 million.
- In 1955, Ngo Dinh Diem was chosen to take over the South Vietnamese government in the country's first free election. He later was assassinated.

A thought for the day: American writer Carl Sandburg said, "Time is a sandpile we run our fingers through."

He backs laws on 'moral issues'

letters to the editor

On Friday morning, Oct. 17, The Herald presented its readers with a seven paragraph editorial on the "game room matter" in Rolling Meadows, including Ald. Ahrens' reported quote of a quote: "It's not the City Council's job to 'legislate morality,'" which the paper said "made some sense." The item then ended with a conclusion: "There are more important topics of the day." Presumably the whole thing wasn't worth talking about in the first place? Tsk, Tsk.

Of course, council ordinances can never change the morality of any individual, but ordinances dealing with moral issues very much influence the moral tone, the climate, of the city, with the result that those who would raise their children in a reasonably moral environment have the opportunity to do so. If this is not so, why do we have so many sections in the Code of Ordinances dealing with moral issues? Would you and the good alderman have these repealed? Shall we make Rolling Meadows a wide-open town?

In our city we have many organizations, some church-affiliated and some not, working as best they can to the end that our young people enjoy their years as they gradually mature into responsible citizens with a sense of what is good and what is not, what is right and what is wrong. Are the sponsors of these groups so indifferent or dull-witted that they would refuse to provide electronic game machines (with or without the coin slot) if the youngsters considered them so important? Is it necessary to set up a store to skim quarters from the kids to provide them with this form of relaxation and excitement?

The council committee that passed on the proposed ordinance wrote in several restrictive provisions such as . . . not more than so many machines . . . license review in one year by the committee before renewal . . . no food, beverages or smoking on premises, etc. Obviously this committee of aldermen, while recommending the revised ordinance, did so with hesitation and misgiving. When Mr. Abraham testified that gambling would not be permitted, was he trying to "legislate morality"?

It is my impression that The Herald never overlooks an opportunity to take a swipe at the mayor, and I would guess he's not crazy about you, either. However, there is a difference here — you stand on the sidelines pointing out "how the strong man stumbles," but it is the mayor who is "actually in the arena . . . who strives to do the deeds," and this difference should stay your hand from writing premature editorials and making premature judgments.

Ald. Ahrens is a friend of mine, I think, my association with The Herald staff has been pleasant and favorable, but I also stand for the mayor because he tries hard, he has the enthusiasm for his job, he has courage, and he gets things done. True, from time to time there is error, but there is some shortcoming in all effort.

So, stand by, Mr. Herald, the mayor and the council (and the lawyers) will work this all out just fine, in a way that will be in the best interest of the kids and the city. I will look forward to your comments some morning after the dust has settled. Would you like to bet a lunch the game room doesn't make it by Christmas? Tsk, tsk.

ROLAND MEYER

She backs women's rights

Oct. 24 is United Nations Day. The theme for this year's celebration is International Women's Year (I.W.Y.). In light of these facts, I'm writing this letter because I feel that most people don't know very much, if anything at all, about I.W.Y. or the benfits the world community could receive should the efforts of the U.N. and concerned organizations be successful in eliminating discrimination against women, and elevating the status and station of women around the world.

The U.N. designated 1975 International Women's Year as a focus point. At the World Conference in Mexico, specific goals were arrived at to cover a 10-year period; therefore, sustaining a long-term effort to achieve the objectives of I.W.Y.

Despite decades of progress in eliminating discrimination against women, despite legislative attempts to break down the barriers which prevent the advancement of women in all societies, there exist practices, attitudes and traditional discriminatory beliefs which make it near impossible for women to exercise their equal rights in actual, everyday life. This is the reasoning behind I.W.Y.

There are innumerable benefits which can be derived from the equal status of men and women. They all boil down to one, main outstanding fact: until the development of the two factors of humanity, male and female, is perfected, the happiness of the human world will not be realized. Consider an analogy found in the writings of the Baha'i faith: "The world of humanity is possessed of two wings — the male and female. So long as these two wings are not equivalent in strength, the bird will not fly."

In the preamble to U.N. Declaration on the Elimination of Discrimination Against Women, Nov. 7, 1967, it is stated that, ". . . discrimination against women is incompatible with human dignity and with the welfare of the family and of society . . . the full and complete development of a country, the welfare of the world, and the cause of peace require the maximum participation of women as well as men in all fields . . ."

Progress is slow. Legislation is not the only answer. Through universal education; eliminating prejudices and discriminatory traditional practices; allowing women and men equal participation in society and the opportunity to develop their potential, the world is guaranteeing the advancement of a new, peaceful civilization. I pray that humanity may achieve this.

A tax 'definition'

Interest and dividends are closely related words but the definition seems to be wide apart when tax time arrives.

Stockholders or investors in our country's corporations are permitted to deduct the first $100 in dividends on their tax return but the forlorn depositors in saving institutions must report and pay tax on every dollar of interest received without a similar deduction.

Our tax laws favor the dividend recipients of stock owners but penalize the thrifty depositor on their interest-bearing accounts.

Opinions of your editorials and your readership may reach base with this subject of interest plus dividends.

'Cities need foreign aid'

I would like to offer an obvious solution to the money problem that New York City has developed. First of all, I realize that they brought it on themselves, through poor money management, but if we cannot help them, who will? I have not read of any of our "friends abroad" offering any financial assistance to us, when we need it.

Therefore, I submit to the President, to the Congress and to the people that we divert some of our millions of dollars in foreign aid to a domestic problem which so desperately needs it.

Why is it that we never hesitate to give millions away to other countries and we hesitate to help one of America's greatest cities when they need it? Where are our priorities?

Let's start taking care of ourselves first, and then we will worry about other people's problems. I think it's time we stopped playing big brother to the whole world, and let's start playing big brother to ourselves.

Senior citizens' group 'rude,' reader contends

I used to think senior citizens' clubs were for senior citizens, but last month that illustration shattered! I found out better when I tried to gain membership for my mother in the Wheeling Senior Citizens Club.

I was interrupted in my initial attempt to enroll my mother by a second woman who was rude and ill-mannered. I was told that there was no room for Mother at the meetings, that there was no room for her at the outings, that "she probably wouldn't like it" and that they should get their own group going in Buffalo Grove!

My mother is 85 years old. Part of the year she lives in Indiana where she is active in a seniors' group, and she was greatly disappointed by this rejection, then the final insult was spewed out at us with the words, "Well, you can probably leave her here this time!" just as though Mother were some baggage to be dumped off.

There may well be a membership quota. If there is, we could have been informed of this fact with some courtesy and perhaps been offered the option of a waiting list. I abhor the discriminatory treatment older people are given in this society, but when a representative of a senior citizens club is so insensitive, exclusive, and nasty to another senior citizen, this is the height of discrimination and a giant step toward the decline of human decency.

Drama climaxes; Reds win Series

World Series

The Cincinnati Reds won the World Series by dramatically defeating the Boston Red Sox, 4-3, Wednesday night.

In winning the World Series, four games to three, the Reds battled back from a 3-0 deficit in the final game and won in their last at bat for the 27th time this season. It marked the third time the Reds had won a world championship, but it was their first since 1940 and the first for Manager Sparky Anderson in three tries since 1970.

It was another disheartening failure for the Red Sox, who have not won a world championship since 1918. It was their third try at a world's title since 1946 and each time they have taken the Series seven games before losing.

Fittingly enough, it was Morgan who turned out to be the hero. The Reds' second baseman, who won the third game of the Series with a 10th inning single, was the Reds' most valuable player all season and is the leading candidate for the National League's most valuable player award.

His game-winning hit was not much more than a blooper, but it fell in front of rookie Fred Lynn in centerfield to score Ken Griffey, who had started the winning rally with a walk and had been sacrificed to second.

Southpaw Jim Burton, the Red Sox fourth pitcher, appeared to have gotten out of the jam when he retired pinch-hitter Dan Driessen on a pop out. But Burton, pitching carefully to Pete Rose, ended up walking the Reds' all-star third baseman and Morgan came through with his hit.

The Reds' much maligned relief corps also shared prominently in the victory. Southpaw Don Gullett, the Reds' ace, did not last past the third inning but relievers Jack Billingham, Clay Carroll and Will McEnaney blanked the Red Sox over the last six innings, with Carroll getting credit for the victory. Boston managed only five hits, only two off the relief contingent.

Things did not start out well for the Reds.

Gullett, who had pitched masterfully in beating the Red Sox in Game 5, destroyed himself with an inability to get the ball over the plate. Normally a control pitcher, Gullett walked five in the first three innings — four of them coming in the fateful third when the Red Sox took a 3-0 lead.

Bernie Carbo started the third by drawing a one-out walk and Denny Doyle, the only player in the series to hit in all seven games, followed with a sharp single to right that sent Carbo to third. Carl Yastrzemski then grounded a single into right to score Carbo, and when right fielder Griffey made a mental error of trying for Doyle at third, Yastrzemski raced to second.

Carlton Fisk, whose dramatic 12th inning homer won the sixth game Tuesday night, then was issued an intentional walk to load the bases and Gullett proceeded to walk Rico Petrocelli and Dwight Evans in succession to force home two more runs.

Doyle's second error of the game was responsible for setting up two Reds' runs in the sixth inning. Rose was on first with a single when Johnny Bench hit what appeared to be a sure double play ball to shortstop Rick Burleson. Burleson flipped to Doyle for the force on Rose, but Doyle's relay throw to first sailed into the Red Sox dugout and Bench went to second. Perez then pickled a 1-2 pitch by Lee over the famed left field wall to make it 3-2, his third home run of the Series.

The Reds got a break in the seventh when Boston starter Bill Lee was forced to leave the game with a blister on his finger after walking Griffey with one out. Roger Moret relieved and retired Cesar Geronimo on a pop out, but Griffey stole second and Moret then got himself into trouble by walking pinch-hitter Ed Armbrister.

Rose then lined a single to center to score Griffey with the tying run, but the Reds blew a big chance later in the inning to break the game open when Jim Willoughby relieved Moret and got Bench to pop to Fisk with the bases loaded.

Knights bid for state golf title

Rockford Guilford is rated a favorite to repeat as Class AA Illinois high school golf champion but the Vikings could face a stiff challenge from several schools including area entry Prospect when 120 sectional qualifying linksmen square off at Champaign this weekend.

The knight contingent, coached by George Bork, takes some pretty impressive credentials of their own onto the Savoy course Friday for the first of two 18-hole rounds. Winners of the prestigious Champaign Centennial Invite meet earlier in the month, Prospect can also claim at least partial credit for knocking off one of Rockford's other chief foes.

The Prospect team consisting of Scott Spielmann, Paul Moats, Pete Lund, Mike Ambrosio, Mike Dee and Bill Chamberlin won in the rugged New Trier Sectional playoff last week to earn their berth in the finals. Left by the wayside at that gathering were Waukegan East and Barrington, the latter state runnerup in 1974 with basically the same team they fielded this year.

Also wiped out of the picture at New Trier was Bronco Gary Hallberg, the medalist at the '74 state meet and an odds-on favorite to retain his individual title until diaster struck. Hallberg broke his putter in the early going and was forced to play the rest of the way with a two iron on the greens. He still fashioned a respectable 79 but it was not enough to earn him a return ticket to the University of Illinois.

Stepping in to assume his favored role, also out of the New Trier sectional, is Dave Ogrin state runnerup in the spring of '73 and 11th and fourth in state his last two times out. He qualified again individually even though his team failed to make the cut.

The Knights will take a 12-2 dual meet mark and tourney successes their last two times out. They captured the Mid-Suburban League meet (although failing to win the MSL crown) and then went on to finish first at New Trier after coming in second (to Waukegan East) in the Lake For-

Former Prospect kicker 'walks' into punting job

Paul Logan

Associate Sports Editor

Making a Big Ten football team as a walk-on happens about as much as Ohio State losing a football game. It's rare.

Dan Matter, who played his high school football for Prospect, knew he was bucking the odds when he met with the University of Iiowa coaches last year.

"The first time I walked in there they asked me what I wanted to play," said Dan. "I said, 'Punting — that's where my heart is.'

"They looked at me like I had two heads or something. They had never seen a guy my size who could punt."

Matter (his name rhymes with blotter) looks more like a lineman, standing 6-foot and weighing around 220. Your average college punter is in the 170 to 190 range.

The Iowa coaches considered the facts (they needed a punter the following year, Matter had very good statistics and his uncle had played on the Hawkeye's Rose Bowl champs with head coach Bob Commings) and decided it wouldn't cost them anything to give him a shot.

"Our first day I was kicking the hell out of the ball," said Dan. "Coach Commings came up and was quite pleased."

Since he had transferred from Carthage College after his freshman year, Dan had to "stand in the shadows and wait for this year to come. Just waiting the time out to become eligible."

This fall he became Iowa's No. 1 punter and made his debut against his home state.

"Everybody seemed worried as to whether I could do it in front of 50,000 people," said Matter, who admitted that the biggest crowd he had performed before until that time was the Mid-Suburban Super Bowl in 1970 (approximately 5,000). "I didn't feel pressure from the people. I just felt it from myself within . . . trying to do as well as I could for the team."

Although Illinois won, Dan had a very good day, including a 55-yarder "that took a bad bounce."

Iowa's football fortunes had taken a bad bounce, too, until last Saturday. Before that victory over Indiana, the Hawkeyes had failed to win.

The week before at Ohio State, prior to the slaughter, a Buckeye assistant coach asked Dan if he "could make it down the field if we returned one on you." The cocky coach was referring to Matter's size, but Iowa's big punter showed him by helping save a touchdown return.

"I make sure I get my one shot in,"

EXIT
WORLD FOOTBALL LEAGUE

FINAL EXIT. The World Football League will never reopen its New York office doors following the announcement that the ill-fated league had terminated operations effective immediately.

WFL collapses

The ill-fated World Football League, a record-setting money-loser since the day it was formed two years ago, finally ended its financial miseries Wednesday when it announced termination of all operations effective immediately. According to Norm Bevan of the San Antonio Wings, the vote was 6-4 to fold with Memphis, Charlotte, Jacksonville and San Antonio in the minority.

The collapse of the young organization, after running up debts and losses well over $30 million, is certain to touch off a run by National Football League teams to sign the high quality players suddenly left without a job. NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle placed a deadline of 4 p.m. EDT Tuesday, Oct. 28, for such signings to be completed.

The Chicago Bears have rights to "about four or five" World Football League players, but have not yet decided whether to try and sign any of them, general manager Jim Finks said. Most notable among the WFL players the Bears could sign was Johnny Musso, the former "Italian Stallion" for Alabama, who was playing with Birmingham after playing in Canada since he finished school.

Others the Bears could claim included tight end-center Mike Creaney, from Notre Dame and Jacksonville, Whit Beckman with Jackson, defensive tackle Dan Rydolch of Utah State and Shreveport, and wide receiver Red Ettinger with Memphis.

Any player without a commitment to an NFL team, such as Calvin Hill and Ted Kwalick, is free to sign with any National League team as long as they did not have a personal services contract with the WFL. If such happens, the club signing the free agent would owe compensation to that player's previous NFL team. However, some star WFL players, such as running back Anthony Davis, are on the reserve list of an NFL team. In this situation, Davis would have to deal with the New York Jets, the team owning his rights.

Chris Hemmeter, the vibrant, young Hawaiian who stepped in as WFL president earlier this year in an attempt to save the operation, calmly announced the circuit's demise by reading a prepared statement in his New York office. He said the league could have been a going proposition if it held out a couple of more years, but the lack of any foreseeable national television contract and lower than expected paid attendances finally caused them to quit.

Kings' rally beats Hawks, 5-3

Butch Goring scored two of his three goals in the third period and Gene Carr slapped in two more, providing a four-goal final period outburst Wednesday night to lift the Los Angeles Kings to a 5-3 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks.

Chicago's goals went to Phil Russell, Pitt Martin and Ivan Boldirev, the latter pulling the Hawks into a tie with less than five minutes to play before before Carr's winning score.

The Hawks outshot the Kings by a wide margin, putting 33 drives on Kings' goalie Garry Edwards compared to 19 for the Kings on Esposito.

Americans Pan (Am) for more gold

The United States picked up three of four gold medals awarded in yachting at the Pan American Games Wednesday in Mexico City. Its girls basketball team triumphed for the first time since 1963, but world champion Janet Ely was upset by Canada's Janet Nutter in platform diving.

Miss Nutter, a 20-year-old from Toronto who switched from figure skating to diving after breaking a leg when she was 11, scored 365.01 points to win from Miss Ely, of Richardson, Tex., 360.48, and Linda Cuthbert of Canada, 328.17.

The basketball team, which was coming off an eighth place finish in the world championships at Cali, Colombia, clinched the gold medal with the 74-48 defeat of Colombia. The girls still have one more match remaining in the round robin series but cannot lose the gold medal regardless of that game's outcome.

In the final yachting regatta at Valle de Bravo, 90 miles from Mexico City, Billy Allen of Walworth, Minn., took the Finn Dinghy class, the only gold medal still to be decided. Jeff Lenhart of San Diego and Dave Ullman of Laguna Beach, Calif., won the Snipe Class Tuesday, while teammates Bruce and Dan Goldsmith of Chicago and Paul Adam of Fox River GFrove, Ill., clinched the Lightning Class.

Drama climaxes; Reds win Series

World Series

The Cincinnati Reds won the World Series by dramatically defeating the Boston Red Sox, 4-3, Wednesday night.

In winning the World Series, four games to three, the Reds battled back from a 3-0 deficit in the final game and won in their last at bat for the 27th time this season. It marked the third time the Reds had won a world championship, but it was their first since 1940 and the first for Manager Sparky Anderson in three tries since 1970.

It was another disheartening failure for the Red Sox, who have not won a world championship since 1918. It was their third try at a world's title since 1946 and each time they have taken the Series seven games before losing.

Fittingly enough, it was Morgan who turned out to be the hero. The Reds' second baseman, who won the third game of the Series with a 10th inning single, was the Reds' most valuable player all season and is the leading candidate for the National League's most valuable player award.

His game-winning hit was not much more than a blooper, but it fell in front of rookie Fred Lynn in centerfield to score Ken Griffey, who had started the winning rally with a walk and had been sacrificed to second.

Southpaw Jim Burton, the Red Sox fourth pitcher, appeared to have gotten out of the jam when he retired pinch-hitter Dan Driessen on a pop out. But Burton, pitching carefully to Pete Rose, ended up walking the Reds' all-star third baseman and Morgan came through with his hit.

The Reds' much maligned relief corps also shared prominently in the victory. Southpaw Don Gullett, the Reds' ace, did not last past the third inning but relievers Jack Billingham, Clay Carroll and Will McEnaney blanked the Red Sox over the last six innings, with Carroll getting credit for the victory. Boston managed only five hits, only two off the relief contingent.

Things did not start out well for the Reds.

Gullett, who had pitched masterfully in beating the Red Sox in Game 5, destroyed himself with an inability to get the ball over the plate. Normally a control pitcher, Gullett walked five in the first three innings — four of them coming in the fateful third when the Red Sox took a 3-0 lead.

Carl Yastrzemski then grounded a single into right to score Carbo, and when right fielder Griffey made a mental error of trying for Doyle at third, Yastrzemski raced to second.

Carlton Fisk, whose dramatic 12th inning homer won the sixth game Tuesday night, then was issued an intentional walk to load the bases and Gullett proceeded to walk Rico Petrocelli and Dwight Evans in succession to force home two more runs.

Doyle's second error of the game was responsible for setting up two Reds' runs in the sixth inning. Rose was on first with a single when Johnny Bench hit what appeared to be a sure double play ball to shortstop Rick Burleson. Burleson flipped to Doyle for the force on Rose, but Doyle's relay throw to first sailed into the Red Sox dugout and Bench went to second. Perez then pickled a 1-2 pitch by Lee over the famed left field wall to make it 3-2, his third home run of the Series.

The Reds got a break in the seventh when Boston starter Bill Lee was forced to leave the game with a blister on his finger after walking Griffey with one out. Roger Moret relieved and retired Cesar Geronimo on a pop out, but Griffey stole second and Moret then got himself into trouble by walking pinch-hitter Ed Armbrister.

Rose then lined a single to center to score Griffey with the tying run, but the Reds blew a big chance later in the inning to break the game open when Jim Willoughby relieved Moret and got Bench to pop to Fisk with the bases loaded.

Lake Forest hosts cross country sectional

by ART MUGALIAN
Cross Country Editor

"I think we're coming now," Fremd coach Ron Menely was saying. "Give it another week and I think we'll be there."

Menely's cross country boys had just added another chapter to a remarkable book on running, Mid-Suburban style. The Vikings had stunned nearly everyone with an easy victory in the MSL finals at Union Oil Tuesday, their fourth straight loop title.

Now Fremd will join four other MSL teams in a field of 15 in the sectional meet Saturday at Lake Forest High School's west campus. Only three teams, plus any individuals in the top 10 finishers, will qualify for the state meet Nov. 1 in Peoria.

The 15 teams qualified at three separate district meets last Saturday, along with nine individuals.

"Seven teams are going for it," said Menely, "and I think we can be one of them. I think we'll be there."

The Fremd coach indicated that he will use a pair of freshmen, Tom Ross and Matt Filosa, in the sectional race. Those two, who led the Viking sophomores to a league title Tuesday, will join John Filosa, Danny Tischler, Dean Elleman, Dan Inbody, and Bob Ratcliffe when Fremd runs Saturday at 11 a.m.

"We'll go with our top seven kids in the sectional," Menely said.

Four other MSL teams, including South division champion Prospect, District winner Palatine, Hoffman Estates, and Conant, will also be in the running. Forest View junior Darryl Robinson is the league's only individual to qualify.

Also among the favorites will be Maine East, Maine West, and Maine South, the three teams that shared the Central Suburban League South title.

And there is Deerfield, one of the state's top-ranked powers.

The other teams in the running are Mundelein, Evanston, New Trier West, Libertyville, McHenry and New Trier East.

"Quite a few good teams aren't going to make it through," said Maine West coach Bill Barringer, whose Warriors were district champions at Elk Grove. "It's the same story every year."

But Barringer wouldn't tab a favorite.

"All of us," he said, laughing. "It depends on which Saturday you run the meet. They're all good teams — this is the heartland of running."

Barringer's own team, led by junior Brian Tolan and Bob Pawelko, will certainly be in the thick of things.

Maine East, with seniors John Hinterhauser and Dave Saethre back in form, are also a threat. Demon senior Mark Tomasik leads a squad that has been consistently ranked among the top teams in the state.

Deerfield's Dick Resseguie and the McCallister twins pace the Highland Park district champions, frequently mentioned as a dark-horse challenger for the state title.

"I wouldn't downgrade Deerfield," said Barringer. "And maybe we're forgetting Evanston from our district. And Mundelein. And I wouldn't count Fremd out at all. They have a habit of coming on strong at the end.

"Whichever teams are up for it will be in there," Maine West's coach concluded. "You can't give any Knute Rockne speeches. The kids know what they have to do."

said Dan, who enjoys making a tackle. "I love it."

Matter presently is sixth in the Big Ten with a 38.1 average (16 for 610 yards). Ohio State's Tom Skladany leads with seven kicks for 45.6.

"Unfortunately, I don't get to kick away at all," he said. "It screws up your average when you've got to kick a 34-yarder into the coffin corner."

Four times he punted inside the 10, leaving the Hoosiers in poor field position. That's one of his strengths.

Dan also gets his kicks off well, averaging 2.1 seconds from center snap to boot. And he can keep them airborne for nearly five seconds, giving his team time to shut off long returns.

Dan Matter

"I could average about 47 to 50 yards," he said confidently. With two more years of eligibiluty left, he might get his chance.

Right now Matter's not concerned with the pros. He's real happy to be contributing and earning a scholarship.

Dan and the Hawkeyes bring their show to the suburbs on Nov. 1 at Northwestern. When asked if he had some plays besides kicking the ball, Matter said there were a couple, but Iowa was saving them for the right time. "I really don't want to disclose them because (Northwestern coach) Johnny Pont might be reading the papers."

Dan Matter's come a long way since that freshman year at Carthage. Before he's through, big Dan might be the best walk-on ever at Iowa . . .

. . . And the biggest, punting-wise that is.

State hunters need two stamps

Illinois duck hunters are reminded that before they step into their blinds for the 1975 waterfowl season that opened Wednesday at noon, they must have a state hunting license ($3.25), a state duck stamp ($5.25) and a federal duck stamp ($5) before they can legally pull the trigger.

The duck season will last 50 days this fall, running through Dec. 10. The goose hunting season, which also opened Wednesday at noon except in the four-county quota zone in southern Illinois, will run through Dec. 30. Hunting for honkers in Alexander, Jackson, Union and Williamson counties begins Nov. 24 and extends through Jan. 20 or whenever 22,000 geese have been harvested.

Ski show opens at Arlington Park

Whether weather permits or not, Arlington Park will swing open its spacious doors today at 6 p.m. and usher in its annual four-day Ski Show — Expowinter 75.

The theme of thiss year's production is "The Great Ski Bargain Hunt" and will feature the latest in fashion, equipment, travel and resorts. Experts will be on hand to help explain, illustrate and teach skiers the rights and wrongs of the escalating sport.

There'll be plenty to see and do at the show:

- The Welcome Wagon, with ski guides supplying information for first-time skiers who want to start skiing the safe way.
- Skiing Equipment Center, where every important new piece of equipment, including boots, bindings and skis will be on display.
- The Magic Fashion Show, an all-new and entertaining presentation of the new ski clothing set to music.
- The Great Ski Machine with continuous moving slope that will have superstar hot-doggers displaying their acrobatic tricks.
- The Ski Village, where professional trip-planners will give you all the facts and figures for planning this season's low-cost vacation.
- The Great Ski Swap, where you can sell your old ski clothing and equipment and buy everything you'll need to outfit the entire family at reasonable prices.
- The Brewery, featuring cold beer and live entertainment.
- The Finish Line, The Ski Van, The Ski Simulator and much more.

FINAL EXIT. The World Football League will never reopen its New York office doors following the announcement that the ill-fated league had terminated operations effective immediately.

WFL collapses

The ill-fated World Football League, a record-setting money-loser since the day it was formed two years ago, finally ended its financial miseries Wednesday when it announced termination of all operations effective immediately. According to Norm Bevan of the San Antonio Wings, the vote was 6-4 to fold with Memphis, Charlotte, Jacksonville and San Antonio in the minority.

The collapse of the young organization, after running up debts and losses well over $30 million, is certain to touch off a run by National Football League teams to sign the high quality players suddenly left without a job. NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle placed a deadline of 4 p.m. EDT Tuesday, Oct. 28, for such signings to be completed.

The Chicago Bears have rights to "about four or five" World Football League players, but have not yet decided whether to try and sign any of them, general manager Jim Finks said. Most notable among the WFL players the Bears could sign was Johnny Musso, the former "Italian Stallion" for Alabama, who was playing with Birmingham after playing in Canada since he finished school.

Others the Bears could claim included tight end-center Mike Creaney, from Notre Dame and Jacksonville, Whit Beckman with Jackson, defensive tackle Dan Rydolch of Utah State and Shreveport, and wide receiver Red Ettinger with Memphis.

Any player without a commitment to an NFL team, such as Calvin Hill and Ted Kwalick, is free to sign with any National League team as long as they did not have a personal services contract with the WFL. If such happens, the club signing the free agent would owe compensation to that player's previous NFL team. However, some star WFL players, such as running back Anthony Davis, are on the reserve list of an NFL team. In this situation, Davis would have to deal with the New York Jets, the team owning his rights.

Chris Hemmeter, the vibrant, young Hawaiian who stepped in as WFL president earlier this year in an attempt to save the operation, calmly announced the circuit's demise by reading a prepared statement in his New York office. He said the league could have been a going proposition if it held out a couple of more years, but the lack of any foreseeable national television contract and lower than expected paid attendances finally caused them to quit.

Kings' rally beats Hawks, 5-3

Butch Goring scored two of his three goals in the third period and Gene Carr slapped in two more, providing a four-goal final period outburst Wednesday night to lift the Los Angeles Kings to a 5-3 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks.

Chicago's goals went to Phil Russell, Pitt Martin and Ivan Boldirev, the latter pulling the Hawks into a tie with less than five minutes to play before before Carr's winning score.

The Hawks outshot the Kings by a wide margin, putting 33 drives on Kings' goalie Garry Edwards compared to 19 for the Kings on Esposito.

Americans Pan (Am) for more gold

The United States picked up three of four gold medals awarded in yachting at the Pan American Games Wednesday in Mexico City. Its girls basketball team triumphed for the first time since 1963, but world champion Janet Ely was upset by Canada's Janet Nutter in platform diving.

Miss Nutter, a 20-year-old from Toronto who switched from figure skating to diving after breaking a leg when she was 11, scored 365.01 points to win from Miss Ely, of Richardson, Tex., 360.48, and Linda Cuthbert of Canada, 328.17.

The basketball team, which was coming off an eighth place finish in the world championships at Cali, Colombia, clinched the gold medal with the 74-48 defeat of Colombia. The girls still have one more match remaining in the round robin series but cannot lose the gold medal regardless of that game's outcome.

In the final yachting regatta at Valle de Bravo, 90 miles from Mexico City, Billy Allen of Walworth, Minn., took the Finn Dinghy class, the only gold medal still to be decided. Jeff Lenhart of San Diego and Dave Ullman of Laguna Beach, Calif., won the Snipe Class Tuesday, while teammates Bruce and Dan Goldsmith of Chicago and Paul Adam of Fox River GFrove, Ill., clinched the Lightning Class.

SENIORS
Colts 33, Cardinals 0

The Colts got back on the winning track as five Colts scored to shoot down the Redbirds: Mike Schmidt (10 yd. run), John Frugo (2 yd. run), Angelo Saccameno (15 yd. run), Jeff Zender (30 yd. pass) and Tom Conlin (pass). Extra points were scored by Mike Kolls.

Bears 24, Packers 18

The Bears down at the half, then turned Frank Cavanaugh loose with three second half TD's as the Bears came back to win. It was total team effort with co-captains Steve Santostefano and Jim Grier leading the team. Touchdowns were scored by Ang Tiesi, Dan O'Connor and Bryan Albers.

Giants 14, Lions 0

Joe Natol's punt return and a Tom Wojkiewic to Scot Kurnat pass accounted for the Giants two TD's. Howie Schiff added a kicking extra point and sparked the defensive unit.

JUNIORS
Vikings 13, Rams 0

Viking QB Gerry Morn sprinted 50-yards for a TD and then passed to Mike Knodle for a 30-yard bomb, as the offensive unit of Bill Ney, Mike Cimo, John Altenbern and Dwayne Derzinger played a great game. Not to be outdone was the defensive charge of Pat Carrico, Greg Granzier and Delmar Kosyla who led the way for the shutout.

Jets 19, Redskins 0

The red hot Jets blasted to another win as halfbacks Maher and Iwanski swept and crossed their way to TD's. J. Koepke added the extra point. The offense of Prawitt, Russo looked great.

Falcons 7, Eagles 2

The Falcon red defense of Kevin Latham, Mike O'Malley, John Pargolski, Brett Gorgol, Ron Teufel, Joe Dowejko, Scott Burton, Ken Paisley, Jim Freko, Bill Nikolich, Steve Cain and Ken Uanisisi stopped the unbeaten Eagles. The big upset got underway when tailback Jim Freko outraced everyone on a 5 yd. run for the TD. Ken Paisley added the extra point on a pass from Ed Czapla.

Raiders 19, Browns 0

The Raiders moved into sole possession of first place. Mike Stathakis took the opening kick-off for the score and added the second on a 48-hard sweep. Ron Anderskow caught one of Ernie Kuehl's fine passes for the final tally.

Cowboys 18, 49ers 0

The Cowboy offense came to life with sprints to the outside and smashes to the inside by John Sersen and Dave Klop. The defense also sparkled with a fumble recovery by Jeff Klop and tackles by Bob Gawell, Bill Hubly, John Sersen, Joe Hutcheson and Dave Koziol.

Chiefs 20, Steelers 0

The Chiefs stunned the Steelers from the opening play as Gus Vivorito completed a 43 yard pass to Robert Anderson from his end zone. Kevin Maloney behind the blocking of Jim Gusky, Dannie Vivorito and John McDermott scored two TD's on runs of 5 and 8-yards.

BANTAMS
Wolverines 7, Badgers 0

The hard running of Wolverine Craig Moburg for a 3rd quarter TD was the key to victory behind the blocking of Jay Koziol, Mike Sersen and Mike Olandese. The defense of Caffaro, Foloky, Wilcox and Koziol in a super effort stopped the hard charging redmen at the goal line.

Spartans 12, Hoosiers 7

The Spartans played another tough game scoring on a 40-yard pass from Gary O'Brill to Joe Hafertepe and a two yard plunge by Mark Predovich. Fumble recoveries by Darren Hansen and Dan Dekoster, an interception by Predovich and hard tackling by the entire defense was excellent.

Tigers 13, Boilermakers 0

Sam Mangiamele and Rick Teufel each grabbed TD passes from Kevin Zlotkowski and Kurt Paisley led the running attack for the red hot Tigers. The offensive line of Hansen, Daughterty, Hammer, McCue and Scott Skiple led the way. Offensive Tiger power was supplied by the running of Tony Mintrup and Greg Wojciechowski.

Illini 31, Bruins 0

The Illini scored in every period as Ken Gavre (1-yard and 20-yard pass), Matt Boyle (5-yard run), Randy Strandquist (28-yard run) and Bob Matthias (14-yard run) kept the Illini in 1st place. The squirt team led by Matt Dolan, Bernie Mullen, John Caulfied and two blocked punts by Tim D'Uver were outstanding.

Buckeyes 6, Wildcats 0

Outftanding line blocking by Bob Savage, Ed Wojdyla and Tom Cederholm opened gaping holes as Matt Boziok and Blair Anderson ran for daylight. After tough defensive hitting by John Vogt, Dave Jostock and Scott Brice, Blair Anderson battled his way into the end zone for a 1-yard TD.

Hawkeyes 19, Gophers 0

All-star Ed Cheatham hauled in a 22-yard TD pass and returned a punt for another TD as the Hawkeyes powered their way to victory. The blocking of Steve Freeze, Jeff Antonson and Jeff Prendergast opened holes and blocked well as Owen Hurd grabbed a Rick Haaland aerial for another score.

Buffalo Grove

It was another strong weekend of football in Buffalo Grove as all four junior football teams recorded victories. The Bills pee-wee and lightweight teams remained unbeaten with identical 7-0-0 marks. The pee-wee Bisons are one game behind the Bills at 5-1-0. The Bills' heavyweights moved a step closer to the showdown game with the Flames on Nov. 2nd with a 12-0 win over the Packers. The Widget Americans remained in a tie for first place in the north division. This weekend, the three Bills teams travel to Lake Zurich for contests with the Flames beginning at 11 a.m., Sunday.

BISONS 13, MUSTANGS 0

Fullback Joe Malloy Scored both the Bison TDs and rushed for 118 yards in leading th Bisons to their fifth win of the year. Molloy's effort earned him player of the game. Halfback Kevin Luthringshausen rushed for 117 yards and scored the only extra point. The Bisons totaled 306 offensive yards behind the offensive play of Steve Lucas, Kevin Martin and Ayers. The defensive unit was led by Scot DuVal, Molloy, Jim McNeely, Bill Sykstus, Mark Harrison and Brett Hardt. The Bisons have two games this weekend. On Saturday, they battle the Colts at Grayslake. At 11 a.m. Sunday, the Bisons visit the Flames at Lake Zurich High School.

PEE-WEE BILLS 65, GAGEWOOD 0

It was no contest in the Bills' 65-0 win over Gagewood at Arlington High School last Saturday night. Following Jim Burnetti's 52-yard TD run on the first play, nine additional TDs were scored. Burnetti intercepted a pass and raced 49 yards for his second TD. Halfback Mike Kozemzak scored four Bills TDs on runs of five, 30 and 32 yards plus a 61-yard pass interception return. Joel Fish scored on 60 and 33-yard runs plus a 30-yard punt return. The defensive play of Frank Hayes, Burnetti, Donnie Triplett, and Mike Hutchings was impressive. The pee-wee Bills meet the Gagewood Packers at 8:30 p.m. Friday, at Gagewood.

LIGHTWEIGHT BILLS 45, PACKERS 0

The lightweight Bills crushed the visiting Gagewood Packers 45-0 at Arlington High School, also Saturday night. The defensive unit held Gagewood to just two first downs the entire game. Halfback Marc Kroll led the Bills with four TDs. Halfback Dean Nelson scored twice, both in the first half, and led all rushers with 77 yards. Jeff Liljeberg scored the final Bills' TD on a 28-yard option midway in the fourth quarter. The offensive line of Mark Kiraly, Todd Consoer, Tom Zelen, Kevin Gurley and Dave Depkon excelled. Linebacker Doug Nelson led all tacklers with 11. Other defensive stars were Gary Johnson, Dan Triplett, Mike Quinlan, and Don Thorp. The Bills battle the Flames at 12:45 p.m. Sunday, at Lake Zurich High School.

HEAVYWEIGHT BILLS 12, PACKERS 0

The Bills heavyweights remained one game out of first place with a 12-0 win over the Gagewood Packers. The Bills will have another shot at league leading North Chicago on Sunday, Nov. 2. Arnie Richter scored both Bills' TDs on runs of 14 and five yards. Richter received blocks from Randy Lahrman, Jim Doyle and Glen Proesel. Halfbacks Dave Grant and Mark Bouska rushed for 105 yards. Along with Richter's 56 yards, the Bills totaled 181 rushing yards. Lahrman, Doyle, Richter, Bill Valle and Ron Sykstus helped keep the Packers to 46 total yards. The Bills travel to Lake Zurich for a 2 p.m. Sunday game with the Flames.

HEAVYWEIGHT DIVISION

JUNIOR LEAGUE
Cardinals 8, Cowboys 6

The Cowboys lost this close decision, 8-6, to the Cardinals. Cowboy offensive stars were Larry Alice, Doug Sanders, Ross Berone, Bob Veternik, Jason Goedroic, John Amttmann, Alan Zakomski and David Potter. Cowboy defensive stars were Pat Rorig, Jim Robler and Pete Barys. The Cowboys won the preliminary game, 14-0.

Falcons 22, Packers 0

Oakley opened the scoring on a 12-yard run behind blocks from Weber and MacDonald. Pearson added the extra point. Mahon scored the second touchdown behind Eichelman's block. Pearson scored the final touchdown on a four-yard sweep. Devero added the extra point. The Falcon defense headed by Kurtz, Lindskoog, Zablotngy and Weber did not allow the Packers a first down.

The Packers won the "B" game, 8-0, in spite of nice gains by Falcon runners Clerkin and Rossdeutcher. Just, Lunch, Kallberg and LaVeau played well defensively.

Colts 8, Bears 0

Doug Brown ran 23 yards to score and Chris Fantuzzi added the extra point as the Colts beat the Bears, 8-0. Colts' offensive stars included Mike Griffith, Mike Hills and Dave Kangas. Defensive stars included Jim Kubik, Gary Berman, Mike More and Fred O'Connor.

Bears' offensive standouts were Tim

Lake Forest hosts cross cou ntry sectional

by ART MUGALIAN
Cross Country Editor

"I think we're coming now," Fremd coach Ron Menely was saying. "Give it another week and I think we'll be there."

Menely's cross country boys had just added another chapter to a remarkable book on running, Mid-Suburban style. The Vikings had stunned nearly everyone with an easy victory in the MSL finals at Union Oil Tuesday, their fourth straight loop title.

Now Fremd will join four other MSL teams in a field of 15 in the sectional meet Saturday at Lake Forest High School's west campus. Only three teams, plus any individuals in the top 10 finishers, will qualify for the state meet Nov. 1 in Peoria.

The 15 teams qualified at three separate district meets last Saturday, along with nine individuals.

"Seven teams are going for it," said Menely, "and I think we can be one of them. I think we'll be there."

The Fremd coach indicated that he will use a pair of freshmen, Tom Ross and Matt Filosa, in the sectional race. Those two, who led the Viking sophomores to a league title Tuesday, will join John Filosa, Danny Tischler, Dean Elleman, Dan Inbody, and Bob Ratcliffe when Fremd runs Saturday at 11 a.m.

"We'll go with our top seven kids in the sectional," Menely said.

Four other MSL teams, including South division champion Prospect, District winner Palatine, Hoffman Estates, and Conant, will also be in the running. Forest View junior Darryl Robinson is the league's only individual to qualify.

Also among the favorites will be Maine East, Maine West, and Maine South, the three teams that shared the Central Suburban League South title.

And there is Deerfield, one of the state's top-ranked powers.

The other teams in the running are Mundelein, Evanston, New Trier West, Libertyville, McHenry and New Trier East.

"Quite a few good teams aren't going to make it through," said Maine West coach Bill Barringer, whose Warriors were district champions at Elk Grove. "It's the same story every year."

But Barringer wouldn't tab a favorite.

"All of us," he said, laughing. "It depends on which Saturday you run the meet. They're all good teams — this is the heartland of running."

Barringer's own team, led by junior Brian Tolan and Bob Pawelko, will certainly be in the thick of things.

Maine East, with seniors John Hinterhauser and Dave Saethre back in form, are also a threat. Demon senior Mark Tomasik leads a squad that has been consistently ranked among the top teams in the state.

Deerfield's Dick Resseguie and the McCallister twins pace the Highland Park district champions, frequently mentioned as a dark-horse challenger for the state title.

"I wouldn't downgrade Deerfield," said Barringer. "And maybe we're forgetting Evanston from our district. And Mundelein. And I wouldn't count Fremd out at all. They have a habit of coming on strong at the end.

"Whichever teams are up for it will be in there," Maine West's coach concluded. "You can't give any Knute Rockne speeches. The kids know what they have to do."

said Dan, who enjoys making a tackle. "I love it."

Matter presently is sixth in the Big Ten with a 38.1 average (16 for 610 yards). Ohio State's Tom Skladany leads with seven kicks for 45.6.

"Unfortunately, I don't get to kick away at all," he said. "It screws up your average when you've got to kick a 34-yarder into the coffin corner."

Four times he punted inside the 10, leaving the Hoosiers in poor field position. That's one of his strengths.

Dan also gets his kicks off well, averaging 2.1 seconds from center snap to boot. And he can keep them airborne for nearly five seconds, giving his team time to shut off long returns.

Dan Matter

"I could average about 47 to 50 yards," he said confidently. With two more years of eligibiluty left, he might get his chance.

Right now Matter's not concerned with the pros. He's real happy to be contributing and earning a scholarship.

Dan and the Hawkeyes bring their show to the suburbs on Nov. 1 at Northwestern. When asked if he had some plays besides kicking the ball, Matter said there were a couple, but Iowa was saving them for the right time. "I really don't want to disclose them because (Northwestern coach) Johnny Pont might be reading the papers."

Dan Matter's come a long way since that freshman year at Carthage. Before he's through, big Dan might be the best walk-on ever at Iowa . . .

. . . And the biggest, punting-wise that is.

State hunters need two stamps

Illinois duck hunters are reminded that before they step into their blinds for the 1975 waterfowl season that opened Wednesday at noon, they must have a state hunting license ($3.25), a state duck stamp ($5.25) and a federal duck stamp ($5) before they can legally pull the trigger.

The duck season will last 50 days this fall, running through Dec. 10. The goose hunting season, which also opened Wednesday at noon except in the four-county quota zone in southern Illinois, will run through Dec. 30. Hunting for honkers in Alexander, Jackson, Union and Williamson counties begins Nov. 24 and extends through Jan. 20 or whenever 22,000 geese have been harvested.

Threlkeld, Eric Ellingson, Pete Youngwerth and Jim Fenton. Defensive standouts were Mike Moore, Jim Quinlan, Steve French and Chris Cormode.

The Bears won the preliminary, 7-0, as Tim Scanlon scored the only touchdown, Jim Fenton added the extra point and Ed Waltrin quarterbacked the winners.

SENIOR LEAGUE
Lions 12, Redskins 0

Quarterback Jim Graig scored on a three-yard run and Thad Zurawski later ran 45 yards for the second touchdown as the Lions defeated the Redskins, 12-0. Other Lions' standouts were Jay Behn, Jim Holdridge, Andre Colville and Dan Makeever. Redskins' stars were Ed Williams, Jeff Wolfe, Steve Munson, Mark Domagala and Stu Pickard.

Rams 34, Forty-Niners 12

The league champion Rams finished their season undefeated as they rolled over the Forty-Niners, 34-12. Jerry Kafka of the Rams opened scoring with a 59-yard run. The Rams responded with Gerry Andejeski's 18-yard TD run, Dan Bergeren scoring the extra point. Dave Loch passed to Scott Bastable for the Rams' second touchdown.

In the second half, Andejeski ran 61 yards to score, then threw a 21-yard touchdown pass to David Janney. The Forty-Niners' last score came on Jeff Asbury's 49-yard pass to Mike Duro. The Rams' Bastable carried one yard for their fifth touchdown, Brec Ptterson adding the extra point.

Peterson, Bergren, Dan Whiteside, Dan Ellsworth and Jeff Kessner were Ram defensive stars while Chris Kaiser, Glen Dacy, Mark Chauncey and Bob Shanahan played well defensively for the Forty-Niners.

VARSITY LEAGUE
Vikings 16, Eagles 0

The Vikings broke a scoreless tie after receiving the second half kickoff when Scott Grundberg plunged one yard. Kip Sharp carried for the two-point conversion.

Tom Dixon's pass interception set up the Vikings' second touchdown. Sharp carried the last five yards and Dixon caught a pass from Grunberg for the extra points.

Viking defensive stars were Ed Haymond, Bill Mitchell, Jeff Bruns and Tom Kirkpatrick. Jim Gibaldo intercepted two passes. Doug Tichenor, Bob Moynihan and Mark McCall each played well.

In the preliminary, the Vikings and Eagles tied, 6-6. Scott Kappler scored the Viking touchdown on an eight-yard run. Viking stars were Dave Gibler, Kevin Finnery and Tom Sadowski offensively plus Steve Stautzenback and Dave Peatrowsky defensively.

Giants 8, Saints 0

Myles Naughton recovered a Saints' fumble which set up Peter Thompson's 23-yard run for the game's only touchdown. Jeff Crouch scored the extra points for an 8-0 Giants' decision.

Giants' stars included Bob McCabe offensively plus Paul Paynter, Dario SanMguel, Danny Campbell and Naughton defensively.

Browns 12, Steelers 0

The Browns defeated the Steelers, 12-0, in playoff action to finish an unbeaten season. John Cywinski and Jim Jauch scored touchdowns as the Browns totaled 12 first downs. Brian Jauch, Mike Johlie and Rich Manuili helped combine for 208 yards offense. Defensive stars included Jerry Coughlin, Johlie, Tom More and Tom Reilly.

In the preliminary game, the Browns defeated the Steeler Holy Terrors, 12-0. Clark Poland returned a pass interception and Dan Humbert ran a kickoff back 65 yards for the second score. Dough Wisby, Kurt Thome, Kraig Thome and Phil Sammons were defensive stars.

Both Browns teams, the "A" and "B" squads, were undefeated this season and did not yield a single point. The "A" club scored 152 points and the "B" team had 70.

Mercedes LaBounty put together games of 202-225-178 for a sparkling 605 series to pace action in the River Rand Ladies Scratch Trio League at River Rand Bowl. Lucille Hay hit 558, Olga Namowicz 548-201, Millie Patti 527-208, Ann Sele 519, Flo Krumske 513, Ellen Nosko 513, Judy Tomaszewski 508, LaVerne Cooper 505 and Joan Dzik 503. Plating Service leads the league with 32 points followed by Cass Ford and Plastic Chemicals with 27 points apiece.

You simply can't get a better whiskey at any price.

You can get more expensive whiskey. You can get less expensive whiskey. But the only way you can get the rich, smooth taste of 7 Crown is in a bottle of 7 Crown. Which explains why, since 1947, Seagram's 7 Crown has been the most popular whiskey of them all.

Say Seagram's and Be Sure.

SENIORS
Colts 33, Cardinals 0

The Colts got back on the winning track as five Colts scored to shoot down the Redbirds: Mike Schmidt (10 yd. run), John Frugo (2 yd. run), Angelo Saccameno (15 yd. run), Jeff Zender (30 yd. pass) and Tom Conlin (pass). Extra points were scored by Mike Kolls.

Bears 24, Packers 18

The Bears down at the half, then turned Frank Cavanaugh loose with three second half TD's as the Bears came back to win. It was total team effort with co-captains Steve Santostefano and Jim Grier leading the team. Touchdowns were scored by Ang Tiesi, Dan O'Connor and Bryan Albers.

Giants 14, Lions 0

Joe Natol's punt return and a Tom Wojkiewic to Scot Kurnat pass accounted for the Giants two TD's. Howie Schiff added a kicking extra point and sparked the defensive unit.

Vikings 13, Rams 0

Viking QB Gerry Morn sprinted 50-yards for a TD and then passed to Mike Knodle for a 30-yard bomb, as the offensive unit of Bill Ney, Mike Cimo, John Altenbern and Dwayne Derzinger played a great game. Not to be outdone was the defensive charge of Pat Carrico, Greg Granzier and Delmar Kosyla who led the way for the shutout.

Jets 19, Redskins 0

The red hot Jets blasted to another win as halfbacks Maher and Iwanski swept and crossed their way to TD's. J. Koepke added the extra point. The offense of Prawitt, Russo looked great.

Falcons 7, Eagles 2

The Falcon red defense of Kevin Latham, Mike O'Malley, John Pargolski, Brett Gorgol, Ron Teufel, Joe Dowejko, Scott Burton, Ken Paisley, Jim Freko, Bill Nikolich, Steve Cain and Ken Uanisisi stopped the unbeaten Eagles. The big upset got underway when tailback Jim Freko outraced everyone on a 5 yd. run for the TD. Ken Paisley added the extra point on a pass from Ed Czapla.

Raiders 19, Browns 0

The Raiders moved into sole possession of first place. Mike Stathakis took the opening kick-off for the score and added the second on a 48-hard sweep. Ron Anderskow caught one of Ernie Kuehl's fine passes for the final tally.

Cowboys 18, 49ers 0

The Cowboy offense came to life with sprints to the outside and smashes to the inside by John Sersen and Dave Klop. The defense also sparkled with a fumble recovery by Jeff Klop and tackles by Bob Gawell, Bill Hubly, John Sersen, Joe Hutcheson and Dave Koziol.

Chiefs 20, Steelers 0

The Chiefs stunned the Steelers from the opening play as Gus Vivorito completed a 43 yard pass to Robert Anderson from his end zone. Kevin Maloney behind the blocking of Jim Gusky, Dannie Vivorito and John McDermott scored two TD's on runs of 5 and 8-yards.

BANTAMS
Wolverines 7, Badgers 0

The hard running of Wolverine Craig Moburg for a 3rd quarter TD was the key to victory behind the blocking of Jay Koziol, Mike Sersen and Mike Olandese. The defense of Caffaro, Foloky, Wilcox and Koziol in a super effort stopped the hard charging redmen at the goal line.

Spartans 12, Hoosiers 7

The Spartans played another tough game scoring on a 40-yard pass from Gary O'Brill to Joe Hafertepe and a two yard plunge by Mark Predovich. Fumble recoveries by Darren Hansen and Dan Dekoster, an interception by Predovich and hard tackling by the entire defense was excellent.

Tigers 13, Boilermakers 0

Sam Mangiamele and Rick Teufel each grabbed TD passes from Kevin Zlotkowski and Kurt Paisley led the running attack for the red hot Tigers. The offensive line of Hansen, Daughterty, Hammer, McCue and Scott Skiple led the way. Offensive Tiger power was supplied by the running of Tony Mintrup and Greg Wojciechowski.

Illini 31, Bruins 0

The Illini scored in every period as Ken Gavre (1-yard and 20-yard pass), Matt Boyle (5-yard run), Randy Strandquist (28-yard run) and Bob Matthias (14-yard run) kept the Illini in 1st place. The squirt team led by Matt Dolan, Bernie Mullen, John Caulfied and two blocked punts by Tim D'Uver were outstanding.

Buckeyes 6, Wildcats 0

Outftanding line blocking by Bob Savage, Ed Wojdyla and Tom Cederholm opened gaping holes as Matt Boziok and Blair Anderson ran for daylight. After tough defensive hitting by John Vogt, Dave Jostock and Scott Brice, Blair Anderson battled his way into the end zone for a 1-yard TD.

Hawkeyes 19, Gophers 0

All-star Ed Cheatham hauled in a 22-yard TD pass and returned a punt for another TD as the Hawkeyes powered their way to victory. The blocking of Steve Freeze, Jeff Antonson and Jeff Prendergast opened holes and blocked well as Owen Hurd grabbed a Rick Haaland aerial for another score.

Buffalo Grove

It was another strong weekend of football in Buffalo Grove as all four junior football teams recorded victories. The Bills pee-wee and lightweight teams remained unbeaten with identical 7-0-0 marks. The pee-wee Bisons are one game behind the Bills at 5-1-0. The Bills' heavyweights moved a step closer to the showdown game with the Flames on Nov. 2nd with a 12-0 win over the Packers. The Widget Americans remained in a tie for first place in the north division. This weekend, the three Bills teams travel to Lake Zurich for contests with the Flames beginning at 11 a.m., Sunday.

BISONS 13, MUSTANGS 0

Fullback Joe Malloy Scored both the Bison TDs and rushed for 118 yards in leading th Bisons to their fifth win of the year. Molloy's effort earned him player of the game. Halfback Kevin Luthringshausen rushed for 117 yards and scored the only extra point. The Bisons totaled 306 offensive yards behind the offensive play of Steve Lucas, Kevin Martin and Ayers. The defensive unit was led by Scot DuVal, Molloy, Jim McNeely, Bill Sykstus, Mark Harrison and Brett Hardt. The Bisons have two games this weekend. On Saturday, they battle the Colts at Grayslake. At 11 a.m. Sunday, the Bisons visit the Flames at Lake Zurich High School.

PEE-WEE BILLS 65, GAGEWOOD 0

It was no contest in the Bills' 65-0 win over Gagewood at Arlington High School last Saturday night. Following Jim Burnetti's 52-yard TD run on the first play, nine additional TDs were scored. Burnetti intercepted a pass and raced 49 yards for his second TD. Halfback Mike Kozemzak scored four Bills TDs on runs of five, 30 and 32 yards plus a 61-yard pass interception return. Joel Fish scored on 60 and 33-yard runs plus a 30-yard punt return. The defensive play of Frank Hayes, Burnetti, Donnie Triplett, and Mike Hutchings was impressive. The pee-wee Bills meet the Gagewood Packers at 8:30 p.m. Friday, at Gagewood.

LIGHTWEIGHT BILLS 45, PACKERS 0

The lightweight Bills crushed the visiting Gagewood Packers 45-0 at Arlington High School, also Saturday night. The defensive unit held Gagewood to just two first downs the entire game. Halfback Marc Kroll led the Bills with four TDs. Halfback Dean Nelson scored twice, both in the first half, and led all rushers with 77 yards. Jeff Liljeberg scored the final Bills' TD on a 28-yard option midway in the fourth quarter. The offensive line of Mark Kiraly, Todd Consoer, Tom Zeien, Kevin Gurley and Dave Depkon excelled. Linebacker Doug Nelson led all tacklers with 11. Other defensive stars were Gary Johnson, Dan Triplett, Mike Quinlan, and Don Thorp. The Bills battle the Flames at 12:45 p.m. Sunday, at Lake Zurich High School.

HEAVYWEIGHT BILLS 12, PACKERS 0

The Bills heavyweights remained one game out of first place with a 12-0 win over the Gagewood Packers. The Bills will have another shot at league leading North Chicago on Sunday, Nov. 2. Arnie Richter scored both Bills' TDs on runs of 14 and five yards. Richter received blocks from Randy Lahrman, Jim Doyle and Glen Proesel. Halfbacks Dave Grant and Mark Bouska rushed for 105 yards. Along with Richter's 56 yards, the Bills totaled 181 rushing yards. Lahrman, Doyle, Richter, Bill Vaile and Ron Sykstus helped keep the Packers to 46 total yards. The Bills travel to Lake Zurich for a 2 p.m. Sunday game with the Flames.

JUNIOR LEAGUE

The Cowboys lost this close decision, 8-6, to the Cardinals. Cowboy offensive stars were Larry Alice, Doug Sanders, Ross Berone, Bob Veternik, Jason Goedroic, John Amttmann, Alan Zakomski and David Potter. Cowboy defensive stars were Pat Rorig, Jim Robler and Pete Barys. The Cowboys won the preliminary game, 14-0.

Falcons 22, Packers 0

Oakley opened the scoring on a 12-yard run behind blocks from Weber and MacDonald. Pearson added the extra point. Mahon scored the second touchdown behind Eichelman's block. Pearson scored the final touchdown on a four-yard sweep. Devero added the extra point. The Falcon defense headed by Kurtz, Lindskoog, Zablotngy and Weber did not allow the Packers a first down.

The Packers won the "B" game, 8-0, in spite of nice gains by Falcon runners Clerkin and Rossdeutcher. Just, Lunch, Kalberg and LaVeau played well defensively.

Colts 8, Bears 0

Doug Brown ran 23 yards to score and Chris Fantuzzi added the extra point as the Colts beat the Bears, 8-0. Colts' offensive stars included Mike Griffith, Mike Hills and Dave Kangas. Defensive stars included Jim Kubik, Gary Berman, Mike More and Fred O'Connor.

Bears' offensive standouts were Tim

Where have you gone, Don Schollander?

LAKE OSWEGO, Ore. (UPI) — Don Schollander was just 18 years old, an athletic kid from Oregon, when he made the 1964 U.S. Olympic team.

At the games in Tokyo that year, he won four gold medals in swimming events.

He was voted the world's best athlete of the year by a group of sports writers representing five continents. He won the 100 and 400 meter freestyle races and led the American team to gold medals in two freestyle relay events.

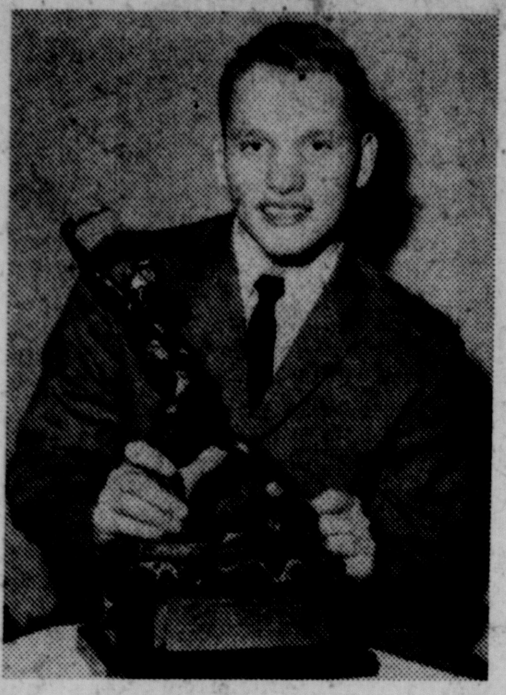
The honors continued. He won the Sullivan award as the nation's outstanding amateur athlete of 1964. A UPI poll named him sportsman of the year.

After the Olympics, Schollander enrolled at Yale University. In the summer of 1965, he went to a swim meet in Switzerland. There he caollapsed, and it was found he was suffering from mononucleosis.

The doctors sent him back home to Lake Oswego. On his recovery he returned to Yale, earned a degree in economics, and went to work in finance. He spent some time on Wall Street and then worked in California. In 1970, he returned to Oregon to start his own business.

Recently he opened a financial consulting business in downtown Portland, and he and his wife are building a new home in this nearby community.He covers major swimming events for television and sometimes shares the microphone with another superswimmer, Mark Spitz. He also sponsors a summer swim camp for youngsters.

Schollander says he expects from now on to devote less time to swimming and more to his business career.



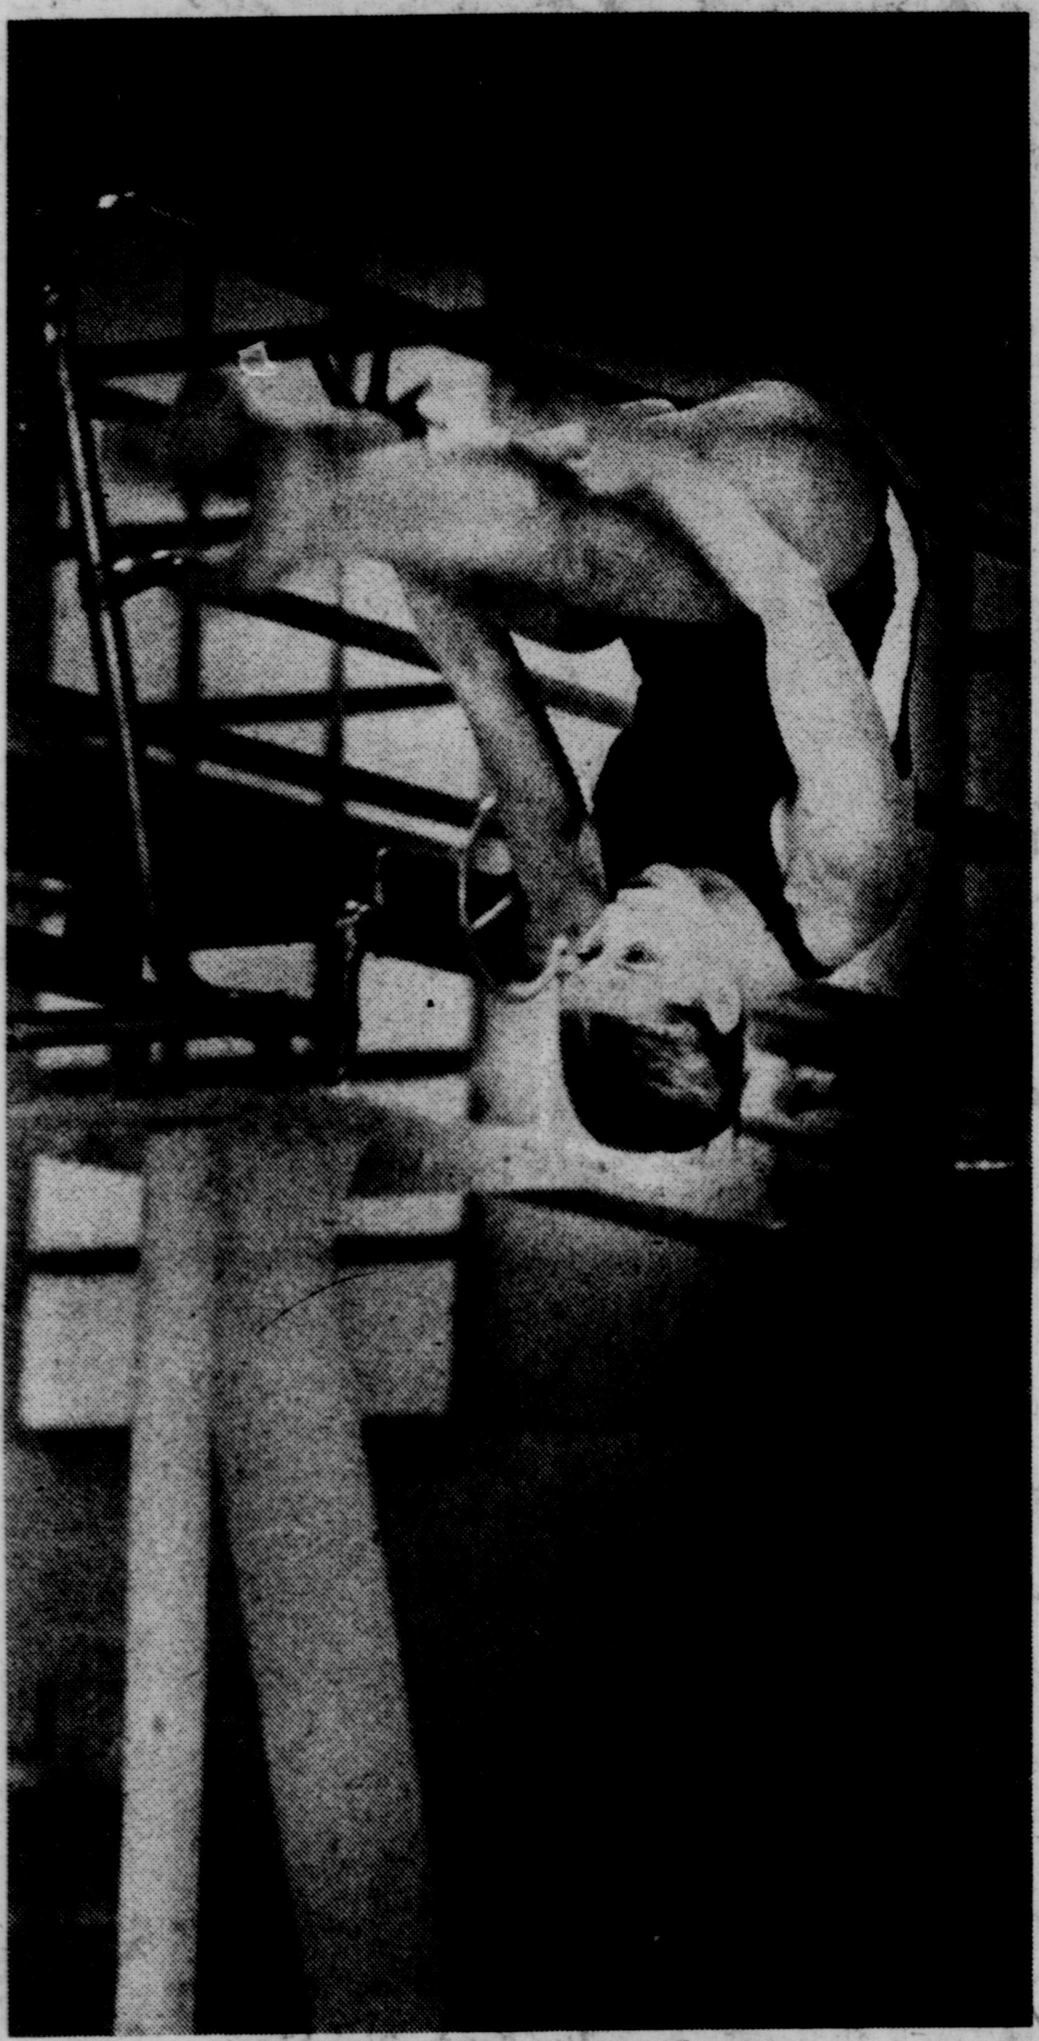
DON SCHOLLANDER was just 18 years old when he made the United States Olympic team in gold medals in swimming events. The honors continued as he was 1964 and went on to win four presented with the James E. Sullivan Award (above) as outstanding amateur athlete of the year.

Laura rides again

Laura Stern, 13, of 219 W. Appletree, Arlington Heights attended the Aid-to-the-Zoo Horse Show with a team of riders and horses from Northwestern Stables of Morton Grove. The show, rated National-A by the American Horse Show Assn., was held in St. Paul, Minn.

In a jump-off to decide the Open Jumper Championship, Laura, riding Frank M. Jayne, Jr.'s horse "Main Ingredient," took top honors, winning the second jump-off by ¾ of a second.

Laura was also named Open Jumper Leading Rider and was awarded both the sash and the perpetual trophy for this event. Riding



UPSIDE DOWN LOOK. Kelly Holland, Arlington's Mid-Suburban Conference diving champion, gets a chance for district honors on Saturday at Olympic Pool. Diving begins at 9:30 a.m. with swimming at 2 p.m. State finals are Oct. 31-Nov. 1 at New Trier East.

Other Lions' standouts were Jay Behn, Jim Holdridge, Andre Colville and Dan Makeever. Redskins' stars were Ed Williams, Jeff Wolfe, Steve Munson, Mark Domagala and Stu Pickard.

Rams 34, Forty-Niners 12

The league champion Rams finished their season undefeated as they rolled over the Forty-Niners, 34-12. Jerry Kafka of the Rams opened scoring with a 59-yard run. The Rams responded with Gerry Andejeski's 18-yard TD run, Dan Bergeren scoring the extra point. Dave Loch passed to Scott Bastable for the Rams' second touchdown.

In the second half, Andejeski ran 61 yards to score, then threw a 21-yard touchdown pass to David Janney. The Forty-Niners' last score came on Jeff Asbury's 49-yard pass to Mike Duro. The Rams' Bastable carried one yard for their fifth touchdown, Brec Pterson adding the extra point.

Peterson, Bergren, Dan Whiteside, Dan Ellsworth and Jeff Kessner were Ram defensive stars while Chris Kaiser, Glen Dacy, Mark Chauncey and Bob Shanahan played well defensively for the Forty-Niners.

VARSITY LEAGUE

Vikings 16, Eagles 0

The Vikings broke a scoreless tie after receiving the second half kickoff when Scott Grundberg plunged one yard. Kip Sharp carried for the two-point conversion.

Tom Dixon's pass interception set up the Vikings' second touchdown. Sharp carried the last five yards and Dixon caught a pass from Grunberg for the extra points.

Viking defensive stars were Ed Haymond, Bill Mitchell, Jeff Bruns and Tom Kirkpatrick. Jim Gibaldo intercepted two passes. Doug Tichenor, Bob Moynihan and Mark McCall each played well.

In the preliminary, the Vikings and Eagles tied, 6-6. Scott Kappler scored the Viking touchdown on an eight-yard run. Viking stars were Dave Gibler, Kevin Finnery and Tom Sadowski offensively plus Steve Stautzenback and Dave Peatrowsky defensively.

Giants 8, Saints 0

Myles Naughton recovered a Saints' fumble which set up Peter Thompson's 23-yard run for the game's only touchdown. Jeff Crouch scored the extra points for an 8-0 Giants' decision.

Giants' stars included Bob McCabe offensively plus Paul Paynter, Dario SanMguel, Danny Campbell and Naughton defensively.

Browns 12, Steelers 0

The Browns defeated the Steelers, 12-0, in playoff action to finish an unbeaten season. John Cywinski and Jim Jauch scored touchdowns as the Browns totaled 12 first downs. Brian Jauch, Mike Johlie and Rich Manuili helped combine for 208 yards offense. Defensive stars included Jerry Coughlin, Johlie, Tom More and Tom Reilly.

In the preliminary game, the Browns defeated the Steeler Holy Terrors, 12-0. Clark Poland returned a pass interception and Dan Humbert ran a kickoff back 65 yards for the second score. Dough Wisby, Kurt Thome, Kraig Thome and Phil Sammons were defensive stars.

Both Browns teams, the "A" and "B" squads, were undefeated this season and did not yield a single point. The "A" club scored 152 points and the "B" team had 70.

You simply can't get a better whiskey at any price.

You can get more expensive whiskey. You can get less expensive whiskey. But the only way you can get the rich, smooth taste of 7 Crown is in a bottle of 7 Crown. Which explains why, since 1947, Seagram's 7 Crown has been the most popular whiskey of them all.

Say Seagram's and Be Sure.

State golf tournament

In the Centennial meet early in October in which the best squads in Illinois gather under near-state tourney conditions, the Knights were first at 384 and Guilford came in fifth at 392. Ironically, the three teams sandwiched between them — all excellent outfits (Barrington, Waukegan and Pekin) — are watching the finals from the sidelines.

The Vikings were also edged out earlier this year by Belleville Althoff at the Quincy Invitational although Guilford later did pick up the top hardware at Sterling's Invite meet. Rockford also produced the top sectional qualifying performance (311) at Fox Bend Golf Course in Oswego as coach Roger Lindeman's senior-dominated group captured the Aurora East sectional.

A total of 17 school squads of six players plus 18 individual qualifiers will begin teeing off at 9 a.m. Friday over the 36-hole Savoy layout. In computing team scores each day, only the top four rounds (regardless of course played) will be counted in the team competition. Each golfer will play the par 36-36—72 Orange Course one day and the easier par 36-37—73 Blue Course the other day.

Other teams qualifying for the Class AA series are Aurora West, Bellevilles Althoff and West, Cary Grove, Lane Tech, Bloom, Decatur MacArthur, Freeport, Homewood-Floosmoor, Proviso West, Hinsdale Central, Benet, Carmel, New Trier West and Niles North.

"We definitely feel good about our chances," Bork commented of his Knight entry, adding, "Although the kids fully realize how tough the competition is going to be out there. Win or lose this has been a super bunch of kids to coach this year. I've enjoyed the season tremendously."

Bork feels that West Aurora, Hinsdale Central and Homewood-Flossmoor in addition to Althoff and Guilford will be the teams to beat this weekend.

YMCA offers boating course

Learn the fundamentals of the exciting and popular sport of Whitewater boating. Experienced instructors from the Chicago Whitewater Association will teach the basic techniques needed to maneuver Kajaks and Whitewater canoes over and around obstacles like rocks and logs in the fast, babbling water known as Whitewater.

The course will be offered on Thursdays from 7:00-9:00 p.m. for seven weeks at the Northwest Suburban YMCA, 300 E. Northwest Hwy., Des Plaines, Ill. 60016. Minimum age is 13 years and the cost of the materials needed are included in the fee.

The course begins Thursday, Oct. 30th and class size is limited so register early for this exciting class in Whitewater boating.

St. Viator to host basketball clinic

St. Viator High School's basketball coaching staff will sponsor a free basketball clinic for junior high and grade school coaches Saturday, Nov. 8 at the high school gym.

An outstanding lineup of coaches will be featured, including Eldon Miller of Western Michigan University who will lecture on shooting, and former St. Viator head coach Steve Antrim who will speak on the art of rebounding. Antrim is now head coach at Lake Forest College.

Other speakers will include coach Tony Barone of St. Rita and St. Viator assistant coach Bill Probst.

The clinic, scheduled to begin at 9 a.m., also includes free lunch and a beer bust for the coaches.

Clinic chairmen are Probst and new St. Viator head coach Ron Cregier.

Barrington to host women's cage clinic

Kodak's Women's National Basketball Coaches Clinic will be hosted at Barrington High School Friday and Saturday with Barrington's Pam Devins serving as local coordinator.

The 1975 clinic features Jill Hutchison, a former great AAU player, Illinois State coach and sought-after speaker, who will dwell on the zone press and defensive fundamentals.

Maryalyce Jeremiah, Cedarville College coach, will speak on man-to-man offense and rebounding.

DePaul University coach Ray Meyer will cover zone offense and Debbie Wilson, coach of two-time state champion Ohio State, is also on the staff.

Registrations will be taken at the door on Friday night or Saturday morning.

Where have you gone, Don Schollander?

LAKE OSWEGO, Ore. (UPI) — Don Schollander was just 18 years old, an athletic kid from Oregon, when he made the 1964 U.S. Olympic team.

At the games in Tokyo that year, he won four gold medals in swimming events.

He was voted the world's best athlete of the year by a group of sports writers representing five continents. He won the 100 and 400 meter freestyle races and led the American team to gold medals in two freestyle relay events.

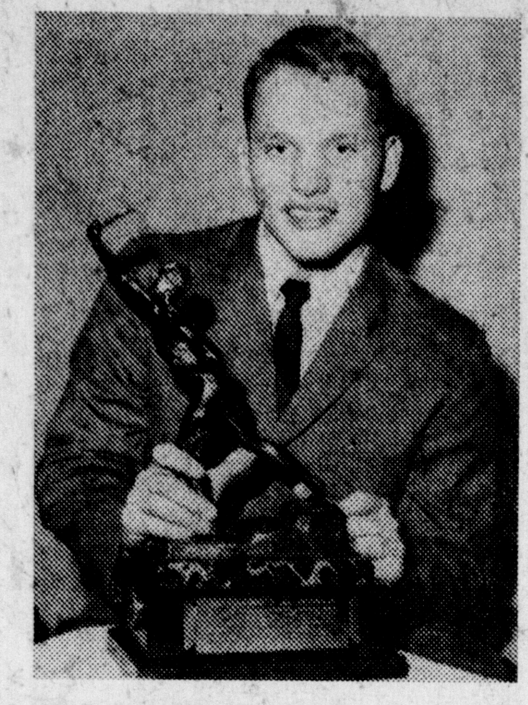
The honors continued. He won the Sullivan award as the nation's outstanding amateur athlete of 1964. A UPI poll named him sportsman of the year.

After the Olympics, Schollander enrolled at Yale University. In the summer of 1965, he went to a swim meet in Switzerland. There he caollapsed, and it was found he was suffering from mononucleosis.

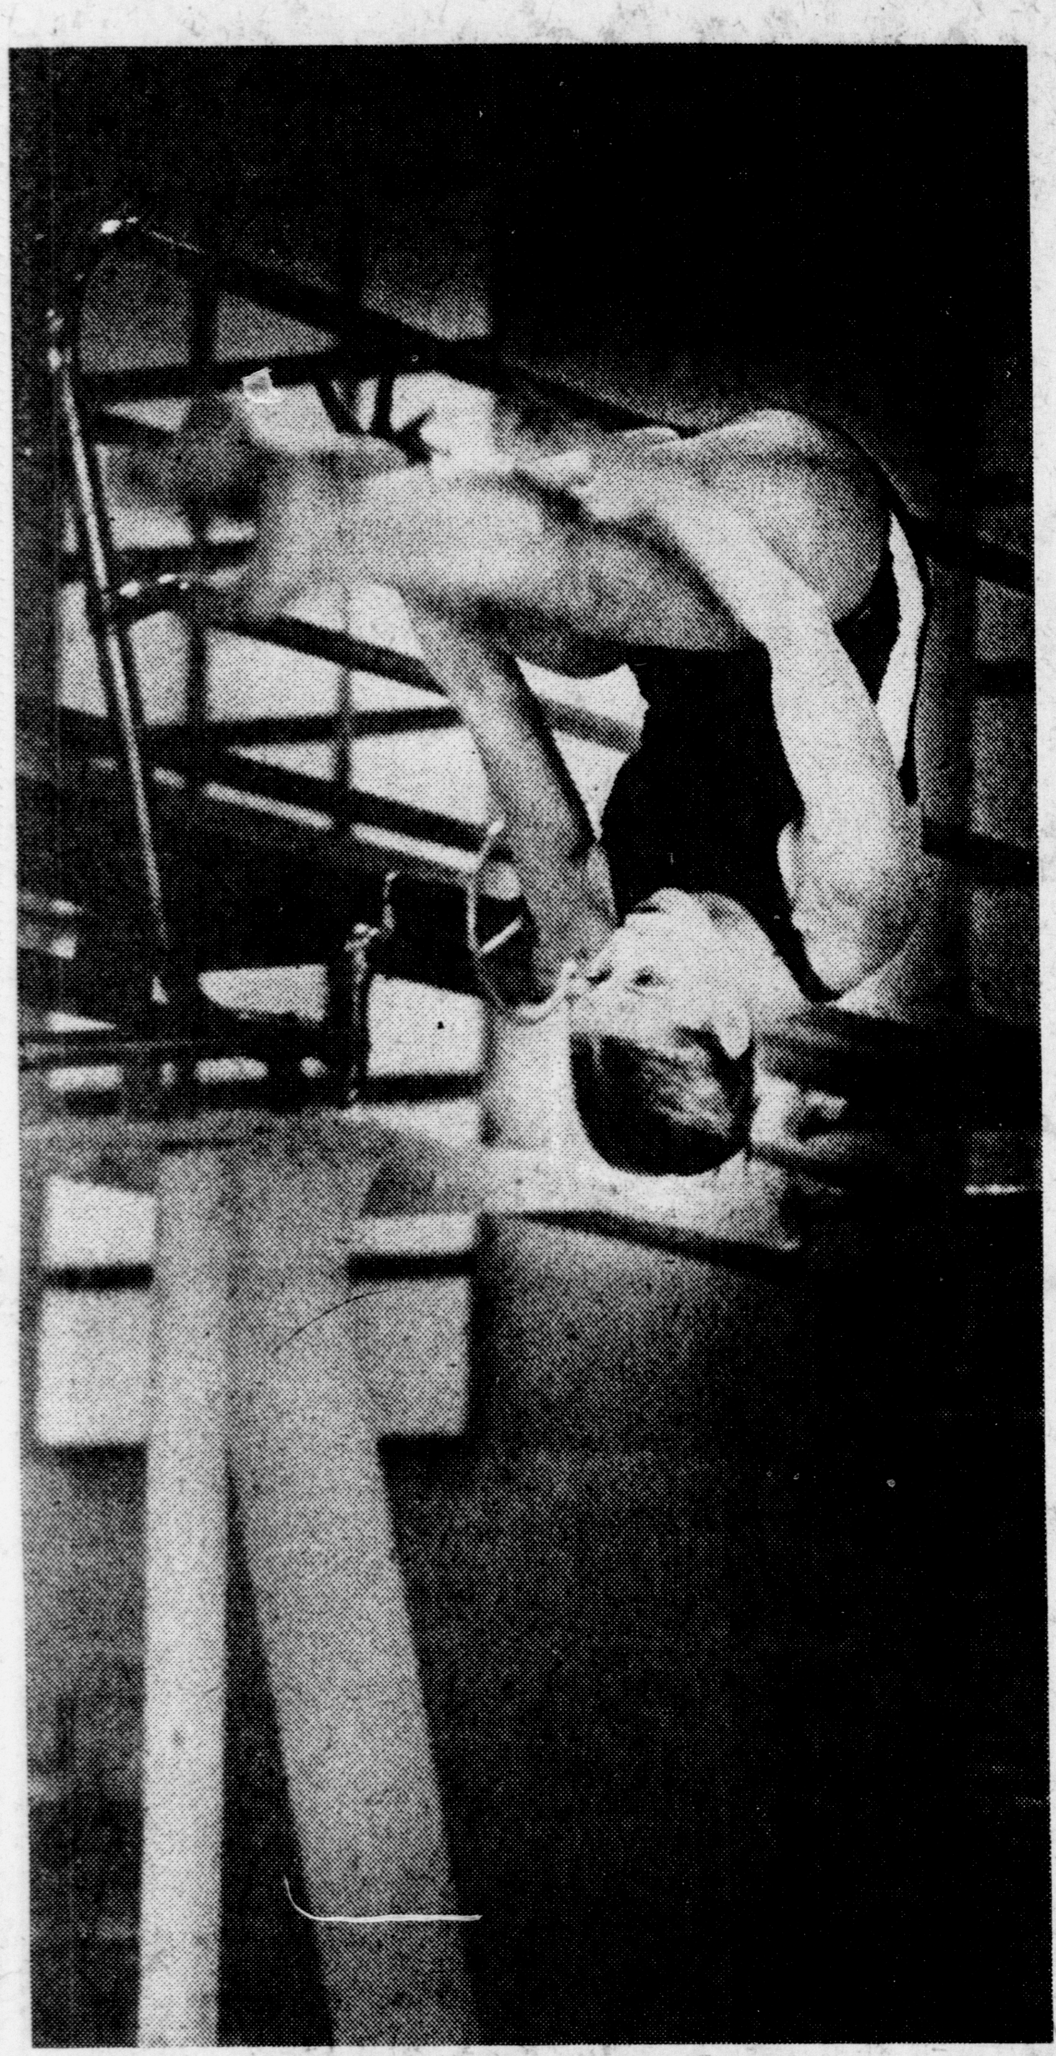
The doctors sent him back home to Lake Oswego. On his recovery he returned to Yale, earned a degree in economics, and went to work in finance. He spent some time on Wall Street and then worked in California. In 1970, he returned to Oregon to start his own business.

Recently he opened a financial consulting business in downtown Portland, and he and his wife are building a new home in this nearby community.He covers major swimming events for television and sometimes shares the microphone with another superswimmer, Mark Spitz. He also sponsors a summer swim camp for youngsters.

Schollander says he expects from now on to devote less time to swimming and more to his business career.



DON SCHOLLANDER was just 18 years old when he made the United States Olympic team in gold medals in swimming events. The honors continued as he was 1964 and went on to win four presented with the James E. Sullivan Award (above) as outstanding amateur athlete of the year.



UPSIDE DOWN LOOK. Kelly Holland, Arlington's Mid-Suburban Conference diving champion, gets a chance for district honors on Saturday at Olympic Pool. Diving begins at 9:30 a.m. with swimming at 2 p.m. State finals are Oct. 31-Nov. 1 at New Trier East.

Laura rides again

Laura Stern, 13, of 219 W. Appletree, Arlington Heights attended the Aid-to-the-Zoo Horse Show with a team of riders and horses from Northwestern Stables of Morton Grove. The show, rated National-A by the American Horse Show Assn., was held in St. Paul, Minn.

In a jump-off to decide the Open Jumper Championship, Laura, riding Frank M. Jayne, Jr.'s horse "Main Ingredient," took top honors, winning the second jump-off by ¾ of a second.

Laura was also named Open Jumper Leading Rider and was awarded both the sash and the perpetual trophy for this event. Riding

In the Centennial meet early in October in which the best squads in Illinois gather under near-state tourney conditions, the Knights were first at 384 and Guilford came in fifth at 392. Ironically, the three teams sandwiched between them — all excellent outfits (Barrington, Waukegan and Pekin) — are watching the finals from the sidelines.

The Vikings were also edged out earlier this year by Belleville Althoff at the Quincy Invitational although Guilford later did pick up the top hardware at Sterling's Invite meet. Rockford also produced the top sectional qualifying performance (311) at Fox Bend Golf Course in Oswego as coach Roger Lindeman's senior-dominated group captured the Aurora East sectional.

A total of 17 school squads of six players plus 18 individual qualifiers will begin teeing off at 9 a.m. Friday over the 36-hole Savoy layout. In computing team scores each day, only the top four rounds (regardless of course played) will be counted in the team competition. Each golfer will play the par 36-36—72 Orange Course one day and the easier par 36-37—73 Blue Course the other day.

Other teams qualifying for the Class AA series are Aurora West, Bellevilles Althoff and West, Cary Grove, Lane Tech, Bloom, Decatur MacArthur, Freeport, Homewood-Floosmoor, Proviso West, Hinsdale Central, Benet, Carmel, New Trier West and Niles North.

"We definitely feel good about our chances," Bork commented of his Knight entry, adding, "Although the kids fully realize how tough the competition is going to be out there. Win or lose this has been a super bunch of kids to coach this year. I've enjoyed the season tremendously."

Bork feels that West Aurora, Hinsdale Central and Homewood-Flossmoor in addition to Althoff and Guilford will be the teams to beat this weekend.

YMCA offers boating course

Learn the fundamentals of the exciting and popular sport of Whitewater boating. Experienced instructors from the Chicago Whitewater Association will teach the basic techniques needed to maneuver Kajaks and Whitewater canoes over and around obstacles like rocks and logs in the fast, babbling water known as Whitewater.

The course will be offered on Thursdays from 7:00-9:00 p.m. for seven weeks at the Northwest Suburban YMCA, 300 E. Northwest Hwy., Des Plaines, Ill. 60016. Minimum age is 13 years and the cost of the materials needed are included in the fee.

The course begins Thursday, Oct. 30th and class size is limited so register early for this exciting class in Whitewater boating.

St. Viator to host basketball clinic

St. Viator High School's basketball coaching staff will sponsor a free basketball clinic for junior high and grade school coaches Saturday, Nov. 8 at the high school gym.

An outstanding lineup of coaches will be featured, including Eldon Miller of Western Michigan University who will lecture on shooting, and former St. Viator head coach Steve Antrim who will speak on the art of rebounding. Antrim is now head coach at Lake Forest College.

Other speakers will include coach Tony Barone of St. Rita and St. Viator assistant coach Bill Probst.

The clinic, scheduled to begin at 9 a.m., also includes free lunch and a beer bust for the coaches.

Clinic chairmen are Probst and new St. Viator head coach Ron Cregier.

Barrington to host women's cage clinic

Kodak's Women's National Basketball Coaches Clinic will be hosted at Barrington High School Friday and Saturday with Barrington's Pam Devins serving as local coordinator.

The 1975 clinic features Jill Hutchison, a former great AAU player, Illinois State coach and sought-after speaker, who will dwell on the zone press and defensive fundamentals.

Maryalyce Jeremiah, Cedarville College coach, will speak on man-to-man offense and rebounding.

DePaul University coach Ray Meyer will cover zone offense and Debbie Wilson, coach of two-time state champion Ohio State, is also on the staff.

Registrations will be taken at the door on Friday night or Saturday morning.

Solar heating, cooling no longer a dream

by KAREN BLECHA

Heating a house with rays of the sun? In dark, cloudy Chicago? Sounds like something out of Buck Rogers.

Skeptics, don't laugh. Remember, they laughed at air-conditioning.

Solar energy — even in the Chicago area where the sun doesn't always shine — is no longer a distant pipe-dream. The equipment, ranging from $3,000 to $15,000, for heating and cooling a house with the sun is already on the market shelf, ready for the builder. Energy experts predict that in not too many years, homeowners from California to New England will be warming up with the sun.

"SOLAR ENERGY is the only alternative to the energy crisis," said George Szego, president of Inter-Technology Corp., Virginia, and an expert on alternate energy systems. "How much of it is there? More than twice as much solar energy falls on Saudi Arabia than could be provided by all the world's oil reserves."

Szego and other energy experts spoke at a press conference Monday sponsored by the National Building Show at McCormick Place this week.

The experts agreed the world is nearing an end to the fossil — fuel petroleum, coal, natural gas — era. They said the U.S., which consumes 6 per cent of the world's energy, will run out of fossil fuel in 15 years and at present consumption rates, the world will run dry in 35 to 40 years.

Szego said that in the next 25 years man will consume as much energy as he did in the last 5,000 years. He and the other experts pointed to the sun, which could provide twice as much energy as needed by 1985, as the only answer.

"The technology is at hand for heating and cooling by solar energy," Szego said. "What is lacking is a solar energy industry, but there are plans for that by 1985."

Solar energy is not new. It has been used in the U.S. as early as 1923 to heat water in Florida. In 1930 the Massachusetts Institute of Technology built a solar-heated home and a solar house has been operating continuously in the U.S. since 1957.

In 1947, there were 136 buildings in 33 states heated with solar energy. Experts predict that by 1980, at least 500,000 buildings in the country will be solar-equipped. Scientists have found the way to convert solar energy into electricity but currently the cost is too prohibitive for individual homes.

THE BASIC PROCESS in which solar energy is harnessed for heating, cooling and providing hot water is surprisingly simple. Water is heated by the sun. The hot water is then used either for domestic purposes or to warm a heating coil or to power an air-conditioning unit on the same principle as gas flame was used in old refrigerators.

The heart of the system is a solar collector, which can be placed on a roof, parking lot, the ground or the garage. The collector has an insulation backing with a black surface. As the sun beats down on the collector, the dark backing draws and retains heat. The heat is then transferred to the water which can be used immediately or stored in a tank. Some systems use air as the medium through which the heat is transferred.

Solaron Corp. of Denver, Colo., is one company trying to get in on the ground floor of solar energy industry. The company manufactures a solar energy system that is used both in residences and commercial buildings.

"Before the energy crisis of 1973 solar systems didn't compete economically with cheap fossil fuels," said John C. Bayless, president of Solaron. "Now the building owner can save the cost of the system within 10 years plus increase the resale value of his home if he heats with solar energy."

Bayless said a Solaron system for small houses costs about $4,000 per 1,000 square feet of heated space. He said his company has made solar energy systems for residential use for as little as $3,000 and as much as $15,000. He said systems for commercial buildings, like small-town banks, usually run between $40,000 to $80,000, and have been as high as $300,000. Once the equipment is in, operating and maintaining it cost about $4 a month.

BAYLESS SAID the more rays a house can collect, the cheaper its system will be. "It would be cheaper to heat a house with solar energy in Denver, which gets a lot of sun, say than a house in Columbus, Ohio, or New England," he said. He added that solar systems are installed in only new buildings and that installation in an existing structure would involve remodeling costs.

Solar energy cannot provide all the energy that is needed, he said. He said a backup system would also have to be installed.

"Solar energy can provide maybe one-half to three-fourths of what is needed," Baylass said. "Our system lasts the life of the building and saves the owner in the long run."

Bayless and Szego said the federal government has committed funds to help the solar energy industry get started. Once solar energy catches on with the public, the industry will have to exist on its own.

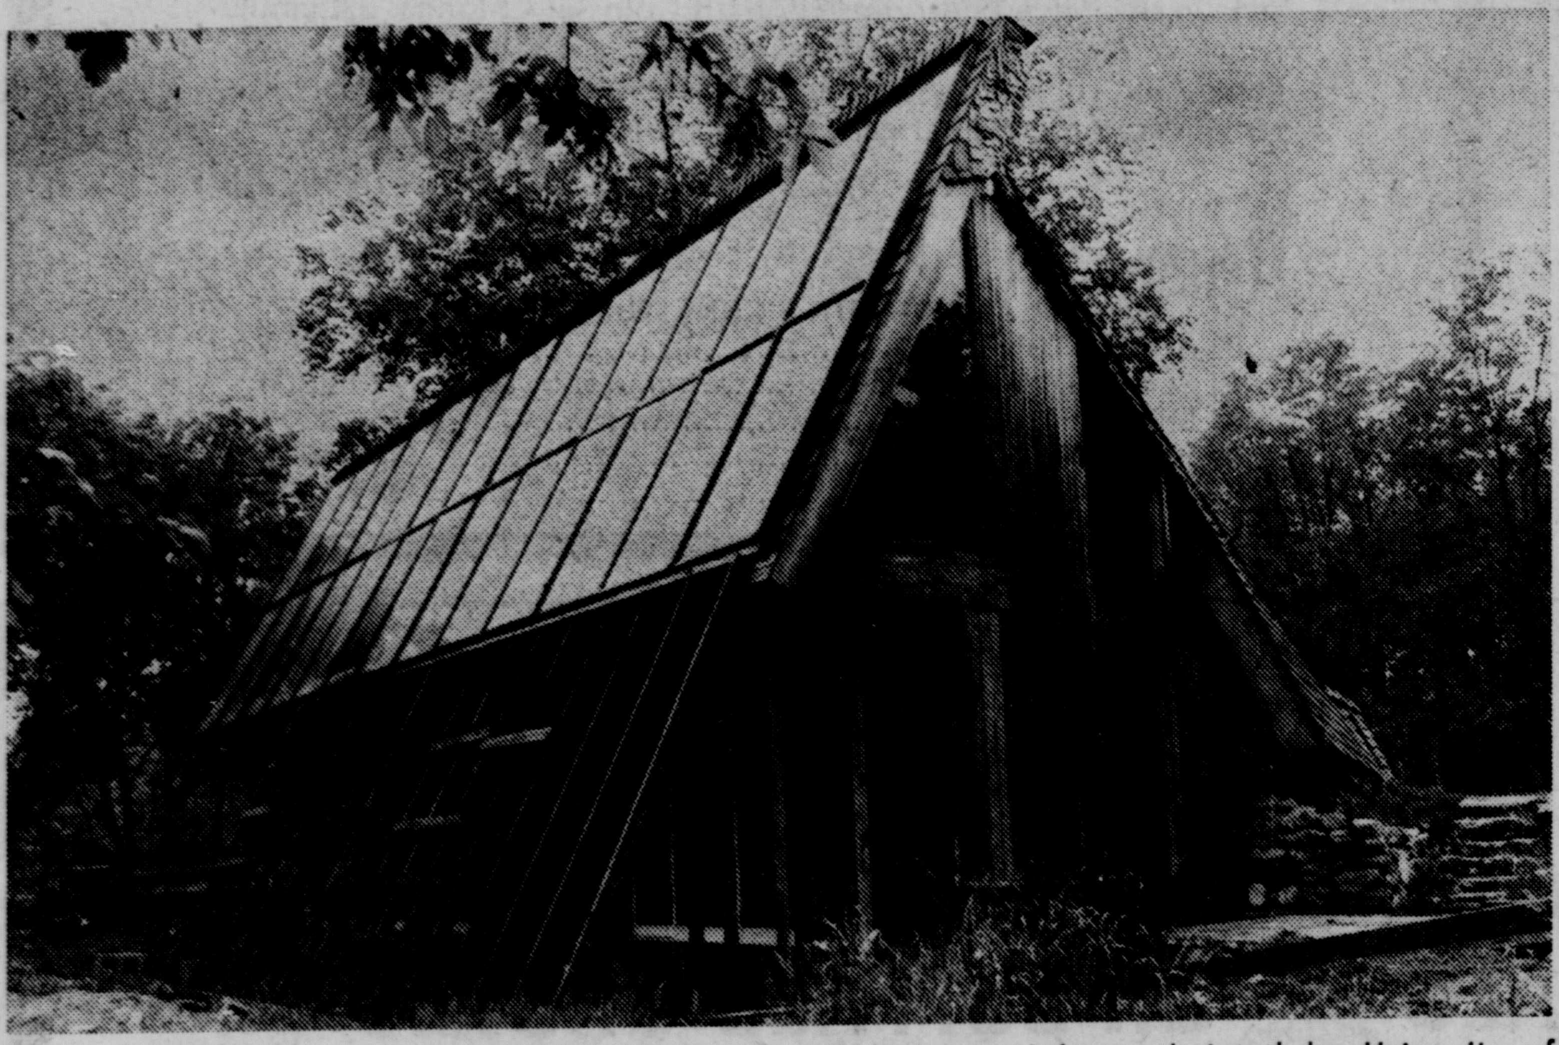
The experts are not sure how long it will take the public to adopt solar energy.

"Take a look at how long it took to introduce electric heating and air-conditioning to homes," Bayless said.

Suggested incentives to promote solar energy systems include tax rebates, special insurance rates, and availability of mortgage money at a lower rate to those who buy homes heated with the sun.

If the public decides solar energy is the way to go, the experts say they will be making the right decision.

"We are in the right place in the northern hemisphere where solar energy is the cheapest," said Szego. "There is not just an abundance of rays — there is an abundance of rays in the tropics. There is also a large need for the energy."



SOLAR PLATE collector faces south to maximize collection of the sun's energy in Project Ouroboros, an experimental house designed by University of Minnesota students.

House conserves energy in students' experiment

A solar heating system, an indoor conversion system that composts waste into garden fertilizer and a wind generator are energy-saving features of an experimental house designed by University of Minnesota architecture students.

The sod-roofed structure is called "Project Ouroboros" in honor of a mythological dragon that survived by eating its tail and regenerating itself.

The project "was initially an exercise in design, not in construction," said Dennis Holloway, assistant professor of architecture.

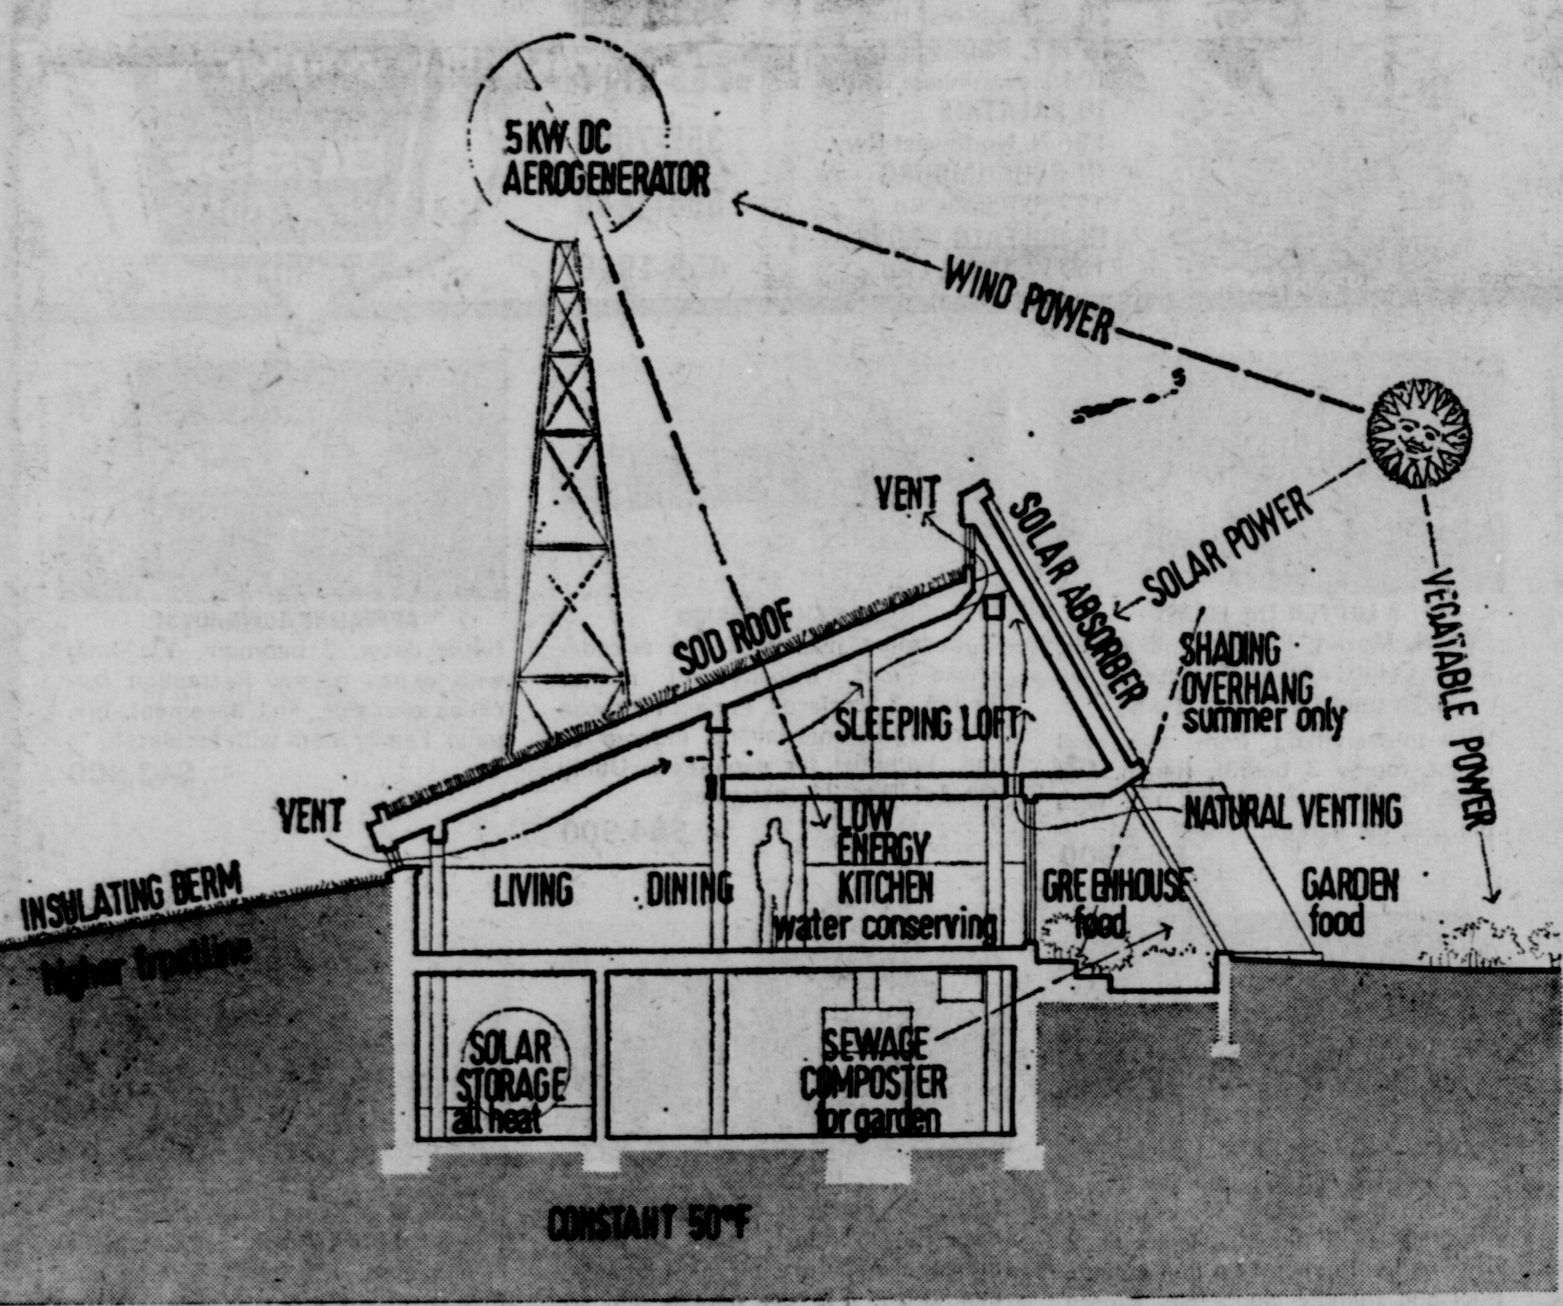
Some 300 students worked on the plans for the energy conservation house at Rosemount, Minn. The students later decided to build the house as "a learning experience a hundredfold greater than the students could get in a lecture hall," Holloway said.

THE STRUCTURE is a trapezoid, a four-sided figure in which two sides are parallel. The largest wall faces south for maximum collection of the sun's energy by windows and a 700-square-foot solar collector. Six inches of insulation lie below the solar collector plates. The plates are made from corrugated galvanized steel and coated with a special black paint to absorb solar energy.

Water is pumped to the top of the collector units and absorbs heat as it runs down the corrugations. The heated water is collected in 1,000-gallon basement storage tanks. For space heating, a forced air fan system circulates air through rock surrounding the tanks and distributes it to the rooms upstairs.

The side walls of the house taper back to a small northern wall to reduce heat gain in the summer and heat loss during winter. Earth removed for the basement excavation was pushed against the north, west and east sides of the house to reduce exposure. A sod covering on the northern roof helps insulate the house.

Among the mechanical components of the house is an aerogenerator, resembling an old-fashioned windmill. The house also features a composting toilet. It employes aerobic bacteria to break down human and other organic wastes.



SOD-ROOFED and trapezoid-shaped, a house designed by University of Minnesota students features a solar heating system and an indoor conversion system that composts waste into garden fertilizer. A solar collector is on the home's southside.

U.S. Mortgage market threatened, banker says

The existence of the nationwide mortgage market is threatened by federal legislation and regulation, said William Ezzell, retiring president of the Mortgage Bankers Assn. of America (MBA). Ezzell spoke Tuesday at an MBA annual convention session in Chicago.

"Recent 'good faith' efforts of the federal government to remedy the perceived shortcomings of the private system have frequently translated into laws that, no matter how well intentioned, turned out to be harmful to the system they were meant to strengthen," Ezzell said.

He cited difficulties created for the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) 203(b) program. Ezzell said the program pays its own way and has built up more than $1.5 billion in its mutual mortgage insurance reserves. He said Congress seeks to reactivate subsidized programs, rather than economically sound programs, however.

Ezzell said he is disturbed by efforts to curb "redlining" practices. He said the government is using the issue as a scapegoat for its failure to solve housing problems in U.S. cities.

Energy advice for cold weather

Now is the time to get homes ready for the coming winter, says the National Bureau of Standards. The agency cites the increasing price of oil, electricity and natural gas as an incentive for energy conservation.

Suggestions for homeowners interested in curbing energy use are offered by the bureau in a new booklet, "Making the Most of Your Energy Dollar."

Copies of "Making the Most of Your Energy Dollar" may be obtained by writing Consumer Information, Dept. 61, Pueblo, Colo. 81009. The cost is 70 cents.

THE TAX-DEDUCTIBLE SAVINGS ACCOUNT IS HERE!

If you are presently employed and are not covered by a qualified pension or profit sharing plan, then you may be eligible for a tax-exempt Individual Retirement Account. The Pension Reform Act of 1974 allows you to make deposits to a special savings account and to deduct the amount up to $1,500 per year or 15% of gross income (which ever is less) from your income taxes. And the interest you earn or the funds are not taxed until withdrawn. This allows you an additional tax savings now, while you are working and while you are in a higher tax bracket than you will be when you retire.

First Federal Savings can help. One of our experienced savings counselors will assist you in setting up an Individual Retirement Account and explain all the details...the substantial growth potential provided by the compounding of interest...how your savings account will not be subject to market fluctuations...and your funds will earn from the day of deposit until you begin to withdraw them. Naturally, your IRA account will be insured safe to $40,000 by the FSLIC and the substantial reserves of First Federal.

So if you are not presently covered by a pension or profit sharing plan where you work, call our office for complete information or fill out the coupon and send it to First Federal. We will send you a brochure describing the plan and its benefits. Do it today for tomorrow comes too soon.

What kind of money manager are you?

Why is it that some people seem to have a natural ability to manage money and live within their income, while others who have the same income struggle to make ends meet and are seemingly forever in debt?

The answer is money management, which in turn is related to a person's upbringing, his or her values in life and self-discipline, according to Penny Scott, family financial advisor to Oak Park Federal Savings & Loan Association.

''Some persons are fortunate enough to have been brought up in a family where sound money management is practiced and taught to children, while others have acquired this ability on their own,'' she said.

"The unfortunate aspect is that people who don't know how to manage money don't recognize this as the cause of their problems, and instead blame everything on bad luck or not having enough income."

If you suspect that your own money management abilities could stand upgrading, you might want to consider the characteristics of a good money manager, based on factors developed by a business psychologist.
manager, based on factors developed

How many of the items apply to you on the list that follows:

You always shop around and compare prices before buying.

You spend time planning your income and expenses.

You never buy things on impulse or to raise your spirits.

You pay your bills and debts promptly.

You never have an overdraft in your checking account.

You have a plan for financial security in your old age.

As a child you were given an allowance.

You regularly saved money when you were a child.

You have no trouble living within your income.

You never borrow small amounts of money.

You spend time planning for financial security.

You don't gamble or take chances with money.

You have an emergency fund.

If you're the breadwinner, you carry life insurance.

You have no trouble making your checkbook balance.

You never loan money without collateral.

You never have arguments with family members about money.

Your parents and friends consider you thrifty.

You seldom daydream about having more money to do all the things you'd like to do.

You've worked evenings or weekends to supplement your income or allowance.

You have enough money beyond your present needs.

People ask you for financial advice.

You give regularly to charitable causes.

You are considered good in arithmetic.

You have no expensive habits.

The more of these items you checked, the better a money manager you are. If you checked all 25, consider yourself superior; 24 to 19, excellent; 14 to 18, average; 9 to 13, fair; and below nine, you can stand improvement.

First Federal of Des Plaines announces art poster contest

First Federal Savings is participating in art poster contests sponsored by the Chicago Area Council of Savings Associations and the Illinois Savings and Loan League. First Federal Savings maintains membership in both organizations.

The posters submitted to First Federal will be forwarded to the Chicago Area Council for competition amongst four categories for $1,250 in prize money, with first place winners in each category competing at the state level for cash awards of $1,300. Winners will be determined at the Chicago Area Council contest in December while the state-wide awards will be made next spring.

The four contest categories are third and fourth grades, fifth and sixth grades, seventh and eighth grades and high school. The theme of this year's contest is "Make thrift your American tradition." The theme relates to the current historical interest in the American Bicentennial and to the 125th anniversary next year of the chartering of the first savings and loan in Illinois, the same year in which First Federal Savings of Des Plaines will mark 42 years of service to the community.

"We are pleased to participate in this contest and were particularly gratified that a Des Plaines student won the first prize at the area level and the third prize at the state level in last year's contest," John Eagleson, president of First Federal Savings said.

Applications to enter the contest may be obtained at the offices of First Federal Savings at 749 Lee St. in Des Plaines.

Two associates hit million mark

Century 21-Arlington Realty announced two more sales associates have qualified for the 1975 Million Dollar Sales Club.

Nora Walther, Palatine office and Dorothy Jacobs, North Arlington office, became the sixth and seventh sales associates to qualify for the honor. Both will be given further recognition at the company's annual awards luncheon early next year.

Mrs. Walther has gained the honor in her first full year in real estate sales, according to Terry Leighty, Palatine area manager.

Mrs. Jacobs is a repeat performer, having qualified with million dollar sales in 1974 as well. Mrs. Jacobs is an 11 year veteran with Arlington Realty and her honors include a G.R.I. designation earned over a three year period in a concentrated course of study covering all phases of the real estate profession.

Dorothy Jacobs

Bob Anderson, sales manager of the North Arlington office at 1635 N. Arlington Heights Road, made the announcement for the firm. Mrs. Jacobs is the fifth sales associate from the firm's North Arlington office to reach the million dollar figure and the seventh to qualify for the entire firm consisting of four area offices.

Others who have qualified earlier in the year are: Lillian Marshall Kurz, Edward Joyce, Carol Grimm, Evelyn Hines, (all with North Arlington office) and Stella Veliotis with the company's South Arlington Heights office.

Arlington Realty joined the nationwide network of Century 21 Brokers one year ago, and are members of MAP Multiple Listing Service.

Solar heating, cooling no longer a dream

by KAREN BLECHA

Heating a house with rays of the sun? In dark, cloudy Chicago? Sounds like something out of Buck Rogers.

Skeptics, don't laugh. Remember, they laughed at air-conditioning.

Solar energy — even in the Chicago area where the sun doesn't always shine — is no longer a distant pipedream. The equipment, ranging from $3,000 to $15,000, for heating and cooling a house with the sun is already on the market shelf, ready for the builder. Energy experts predict that in not too many years, homeowners from California to New England will be warming up with the sun.

"SOLAR ENERGY is the only alternative to the energy crisis," said George Szego, president of Inter-Technology Corp., Virginia, and an expert on alternate energy systems. "How much of it is there? More than twice as much solar energy falls on Saudi Arabia than could be provided by all the world's oil reserves."

Szego and other energy experts spoke at a press conference Monday sponsored by the National Building Show at McCormick Place this week.

The experts agreed the world is nearing an end to the fossil — fuel petroleum, coal, natural gas — era. They said the U.S., which consumes 6 per cent of the world's energy, will run out of fossil fuel in 15 years and at present consumption rates, the world will run dry in 35 to 40 years.

Szego said that in the next 25 years man will consume as much energy as he did in the last 5,000 years. He and the other experts pointed to the sun, which could provide twice as much energy as needed by 1985, as the only answer.

"The technology is at hand for heating and cooling by solar energy," Szego said. "What is lacking is a solar energy industry, but there are plans for that by 1985."

Solar energy is not new. It has been used in the U.S. as early as 1923 to heat water in Florida. In 1930 the Massachusetts Institute of Technology built a solar-heated home and a solar house has been operating continuously in the U.S. since 1957.

In 1947, there were 136 buildings in 33 states heated with solar energy. Experts predict that by 1980, at least 500,000 buildings in the country will be solar-equipped. Scientists have found the way to convert solar energy into electricity but currently the cost is too prohibitive for individual homes.

THE BASIC PROCESS in which solar energy is harnessed for heating, cooling and providing hot water is surprisingly simple. Water is heated by the sun. The hot water is then used either for domestic purposes or to warm a heating coil or to power an air-conditioning unit on the same principle as gas flame was used in old refrigerators.

The heart of the system is a solar collector, which can be placed on a roof, parking lot, the ground or the garage. The collector has an insulation backing with a black surface. As the sun beats down on the collector, the dark backing draws and retains heat. The heat is then transferred to the water which can be used immediately or stored in a tank. Some systems use air as the medium through which the heat is transferred.

Solaron Corp. of Denver, Colo., is one company trying to get in on the ground floor of solar energy industry. The company manufactures a solar energy system that is used both in residences and commercial buildings.

"Before the energy crisis of 1973 solar systems didn't compete economically with cheap fossil fuels," said John C. Bayless, president of Solaron. "Now the building owner can save the cost of the system within 10 years plus increase the resale value of his home if he heats with solar energy."

Bayless said a Solaron system for small houses costs about $4,000 per 1,000 square feet of heated space. He said his company has made solar energy systems for residential use for as little as $3,000 and as much as $15,000. He said systems for commercial buildings, like small-town banks, usually run between $40,000 to $80,000, and have been as high as $300,000. Once the equipment is in, operating and maintaining it cost about $4 a month.

BAYLESS SAID the more rays a house can collect, the cheaper its system will be. "It would be cheaper to heat a house with solar energy in Denver, which gets a lot of sun, say than a house in Columbus, Ohio, or New England," he said. He added that solar systems are installed in only new buildings and that installation in an existing structure would involve remodeling costs.

Solar energy cannot provide all the energy that is needed, he said. He said a backup system would also have to be installed.

"Solar energy can provide maybe one-half to three-fourths of what is needed," Baylass said. "Our system lasts the life of the building and saves the owner in the long run."

Bayless and Szego said the federal government has committed funds to help the solar energy industry get started. Once solar energy catches on with the public, the industry will have to exist on its own.

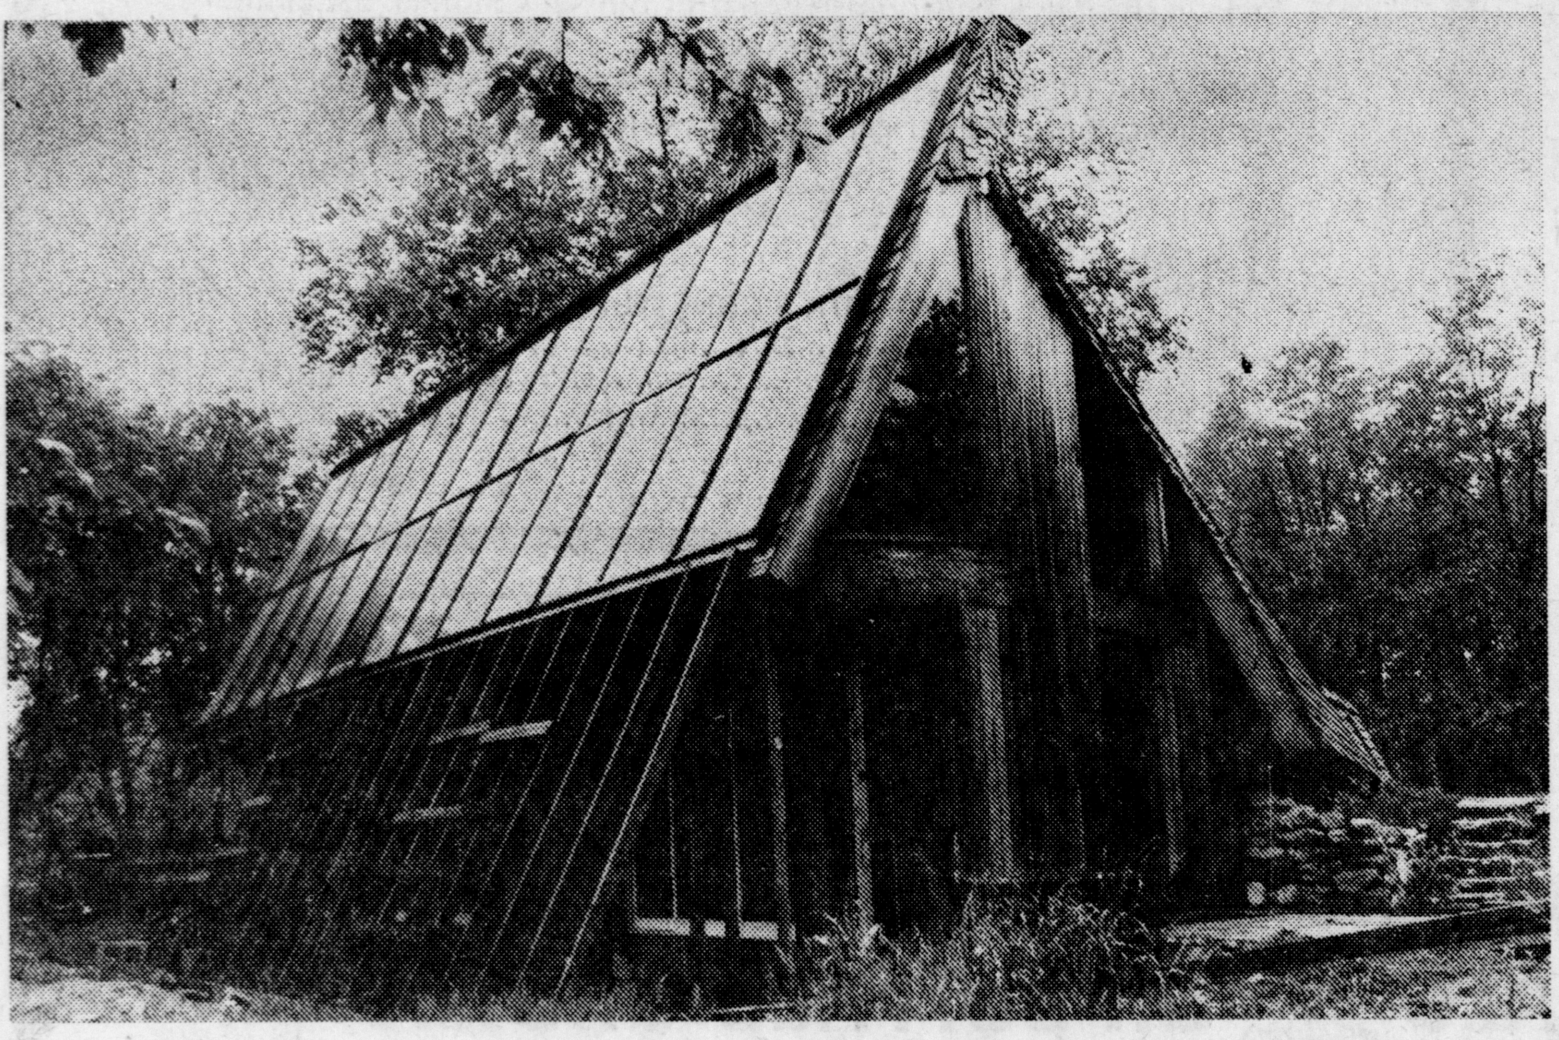
The experts are not sure how long it will take the public to adopt solar energy.

"Take a look at how long it took to introduce electric heating and air-conditioning to homes," Bayless said.

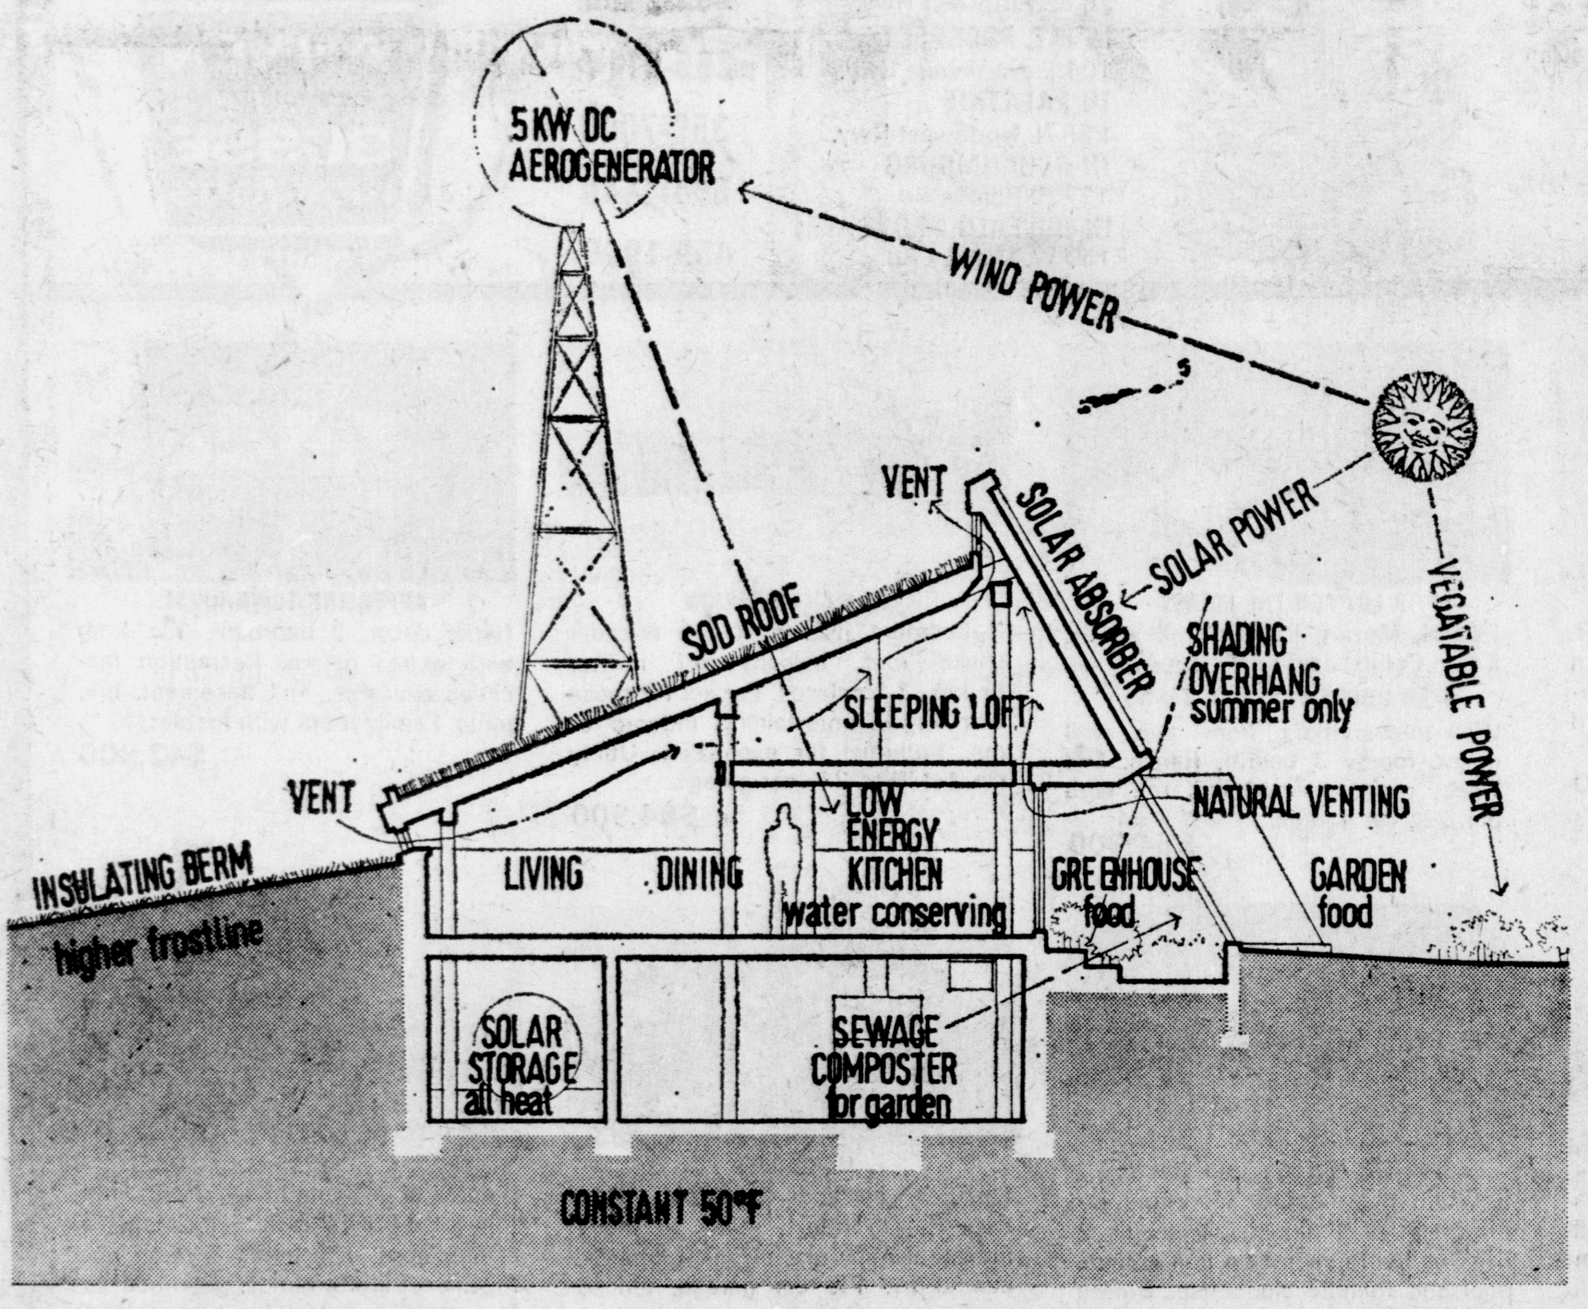
Suggested incentives to promote solar energy systems include tax rebates, special insurance rates, and availability of mortgage money at a lower rate to those who buy homes heated with the sun.

If the public decides solar energy is the way to go, the experts say they will be making the right decision.

"We are in the right place in the northern hemisphere where solar energy is the cheapest," said Szego. "There is not just an abundance of rays — there is an abundance of rays in the tropics. There is also a large need for the energy."



SOLAR PLATE collector faces south to maximize collection of the sun's energy in Project Ouroboros, an experimental house designed by University of Minnesota students.



SOD-ROOFED and trapezoid-shaped, a house designed by University of Minnesota students features a solar heating system and an indoor conversion system that composts waste into garden fertilizer. A solar collector is on the home's southside.

House conserves energy in students' experiment

A solar heating system, an indoor conversion system that composts waste into garden fertilizer and a wind generator are energy-saving features of an experimental house designed by University of Minnesota architecture students.

The sod-roofed structure is called "Project Ouroboros" in honor of a mythological dragon that survived by eating its tail and regenerating itself.

The project "was initially an exercise in design, not in construction," said Dennis Holloway, assistant professor of architecture.

Some 300 students worked on the plans for the energy conservation house at Rosemount, Minn. The students later decided to build the house as "a learning experience a hundredfold greater than the students could get in a lecture hall," Holloway said.

THE STRUCTURE is a trapezoid, a four-sided figure in which two sides are parallel. The largest wall faces south for maximum collection of the sun's energy by windows and a 700-square-foot solar collector. Six inches of insulation lie below the solar collector plates. The plates are made from corrugated galvanized steel and coated with a special black paint to absorb solar energy.

Water is pumped to the top of the collector units and absorbs heat as it runs down the corrugations. The heated water is collected in 1,000-gallon basement storage tanks. For space heating, a forced air fan system circulates air through rock surrounding the tanks and distributes it to the rooms upstairs.

The side walls of the house taper back to a small northern wall to reduce heat gain in the summer and heat loss during winter. Earth removed for the basement excavation was pushed against the north, west and east sides of the house to reduce exposure. A sod covering on the northern roof helps insulate the house.

Among the mechanical components of the house is an aerogenerator, resembling an old-fashioned windmill. The house also features a composting toilet. It employes aerobic bacteria to break down human and other organic wastes.

U.S. Mortgage market threatened, banker says

The existence of the nationwide mortgage market is threatened by federal legislation and regulation, said William Ezzell, retiring president of the Mortgage Bankers Assn. of America (MBA). Ezzell spoke Tuesday at an MBA annual convention session in Chicago.

"Recent 'good faith' efforts of the federal government to remedy the perceived shortcomings of the private system have frequently translated into laws that, no matter how well intentioned, turned out to be harmful to the system they were meant to strengthen," Ezzell said.

He cited difficulties created for the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) 203(b) program. Ezzell said the program pays its own way and has built up more than $1.5 billion in its mutual mortgage insurance reserves. He said Congress seeks to reactivate subsidized programs, rather than economically sound programs, however.

Ezzell said he is disturbed by efforts to curb "redlining" practices. He said the government is using the issue as a scapegoat for its failure to solve housing problems in U.S. cities.

Energy advice for cold weather

Now is the time to get homes ready for the coming winter, says the National Bureau of Standards. The agency cites the increasing price of oil, electricity and natural gas as an incentive for energy conservation.

Suggestions for homeowners interested in curbing energy use are offered by the bureau in a new booklet, "Making the Most of Your Energy Dollar."

Copies of "Making the Most of Your Energy Dollar" may be obtained by writing Consumer Information, Dept. 61, Pueblo, Colo. 81009. The cost is 70 cents.

THE TAX-DEDUCTIBLE SAVINGS ACCOUNT IS HERE!

If you are presently employed and are not covered by a qualified pension or profit sharing plan, then you may be eligible for a tax-exempt Individual Retirement Account. The Pension Reform Act of 1974 allows you to make deposits to a special savings account and to deduct the amount up to $1,500 per year or 15% of gross income (which ever is less) from your income taxes. And the interest you earn or the funds are not taxed until withdrawn. This allows you an additional tax savings now, while you are working and while you are in a higher tax bracket than you will be when you retire.

First Federal Savings can help. One of our experienced savings counselors will assist you in setting up an Individual Retirement Account and explain all the details...the substantial growth potential provided by the compounding of interest...how your savings account will not be subject to market fluctuations...and your funds will earn from the day of deposit until you begin to withdraw them. Naturally, your IRA account will be insured safe to $40,000 by the FSLIC and the substantial reserves of First Federal.

So if you are not presently covered by a pension or profit sharing plan where you work, call our office for complete information or fill out the coupon and send it to First Federal. We will send you a brochure describing the plan and its benefits. Do it today for tomorrow comes too soon.

What kind of money manager are you?

Why is it that some people seem to have a natural ability to manage money and live within their income, while others who have the same income struggle to make ends meet and are seemingly forever in debt?

The answer is money management, which in turn is related to a person's upbringing, his or her values in life and self-discipline, according to Penny Scott, family financial advisor to Oak Park Federal Savings & Loan Association.

"Some persons are fortunate enough to have been brought up in a family where sound money management is practiced and taught to children, while others have acquired this ability on their own," she said.

"The unfortunate aspect is that people who don't know how to manage money don't recognize this as the cause of their problems, and instead blame everything on bad luck or not having enough income."

If you suspect that your own money management abilities could stand upgrading, you might want to consider the characteristics of a good money manager, based on factors developed by a business psychologist.

manager, based on factors developed

How many of the items apply to you on the list that follows:

You always shop around and compare prices before buying.

You spend time planning your income and expenses.

You never buy things on impulse or to raise your spirits.

You pay your bills and debts promptly.

You never have an overdraft in your checking account.

You have a plan for financial security in your old age.

As a child you were given an allowance.

You regularly saved money when you were a child.

You have no trouble living within your income.

You never borrow small amounts of money.

You spend time planning for financial security.

You don't gamble or take chances with money.

You have an emergency fund.

If you're the breadwinner, you carry life insurance.

You have no trouble making your checkbook balance.

You never loan money without collateral.

You never have arguments with family members about money.

Your parents and friends consider you thrifty.

You seldom daydream about having more money to do all the things you'd like to do.

You've worked evenings or weekends to supplement your income or allowance.

You have enough money beyond your present needs.

People ask you for financial advice.

You give regularly to charitable causes.

You are considered good in arithmetic.

You have no expensive habits.

The more of these items you checked, the better a money manager you are. If you checked all 25, consider yourself superior; 24 to 19, excellent; 14 to 18, average; 9 to 13, fair; and below nine, you can stand improvement.

First Federal of Des Plaines announces art poster contest

First Federal Savings is participating in art poster contests sponsored by the Chicago Area Council of Savings Associations and the Illinois Savings and Loan League. First Federal Savings maintains membership in both organizations.

The posters submitted to First Federal will be forwarded to the Chicago Area Council for competition amongst four categories for $1,250 in prize money, with first place winners in each category competing at the state level for cash awards of $1,300. Winners will be determined at the Chicago Area Council contest in December while the state-wide awards will be made next spring.

The four contest categories are third and fourth grades, fifth and sixth grades, seventh and eighth grades and high school. The theme of this year's contest is "Make thrift your American tradition." The theme relates to the current historical interest in the American Bicentennial and to the 125th anniversary next year of the chartering of the first savings and loan in Illinois, the same year in which First Federal Savings of Des Plaines will mark 42 years of service to the community.

"We are pleased to participate in this contest and were particularly gratified that a Des Plaines student won the first prize at the area level and the third prize at the state level in last year's contest," John Eagleson, president of First Federal Savings said.

Applications to enter the contest may be obtained at the offices of First Federal Savings at 749 Lee St. in Des Plaines.

Nora Walther

Two associates hit million mark

Century 21-Arlington Realty announced two more sales associates have qualified for the 1975 Million Dollar Sales Club.

Nora Walther, Palatine office and Dorothy Jacobs, North Arlington office, became the sixth and seventh sales associates to qualify for the honor. Both will be given further recognition at the company's annual awards luncheon early next year.

Mrs. Walther has gained the honor in her first full year in real estate sales, according to Terry Leighty, Palatine area manager.

Mrs. Jacobs is a repeat performer, having qualified with million dollar sales in 1974 as well. Mrs. Jacobs is an 11 year veteran with Arlington Realty and her honors include a G.R.I. designation earned over a three year period in a concentrated course of study covering all phases of the real estate profession.

Dorothy Jacobs

Bob Anderson, sales manager of the North Arlington office at 1635 N. Arlington Heights Road, made the announcement for the firm. Mrs. Jacobs is the fifth sales associate from the firm's North Arlington office to reach the million dollar figure and the seventh to qualify for the entire firm consisting of four area offices.

Others who have qualified earlier in the year are: Lillian Marshall Kurz, Edward Joyce, Carol Grimm, Evelyn Hines, (all with North Arlington office) and Stella Veliotis with the company's South Arlington Heights office.

Arlington Realty joined the nationwide network of Century 21 Brokers one year ago, and are members of MAP Multiple Listing Service.

Brentwood North opens

Brentwood North, a one-floor skilled nursing center on the North Shore, is now open.

William J. Kirby, president, states that its purpose is "to provide the finest in skilled nursing and rehabilitation care with compassion and a respect for human dignity, while assuring each of our residents much of the familiarity and comfort of their own homes."

This newest facility of its kind is located at 3705 Deerfield Road, just west of the Illinois Tollway (I-94), in Riverwoods. The administrator is James E. Willcox, a graduate of Notre Dame University and Lake Forest resident. Willcox was formerly with Brentwood Nursing and Convalescent Home in Oak Lawn.

Brentwood North offers large, individually temperature-controlled private or semi-private rooms and dining and lounge areas; an activity room at the front of the building allows residents to be a part of all that is happening. The bay windows in each room provide a view of the wooded surroundings. The building is fireproof and has an automatic sprinkler system.

There is 24-hour professional nursing service with all patient rooms within 60 feet of nursing stations. Meals are prepared under the direction of a licensed dietitian. Physician services are available. Brentwood North provides in-patient and out-patient physical therapy and employs a full time resident therapist. The facility is Medicare approved.

In addition, there are social services with individual counseling, religious services for all faiths and planned recreational programs. A gift center and a beauty and barber shop are on the premises.

Kirby stressed that he and his staff invite the public to visit this new nursing and rehabilitation center and that the staff be available for consultation daily between the hours of 9 a.m. and 8 p.m., or by special appointment.

Real estate facts

President, Northwest Suburban Board of REALTORS®

Colder weather and rising fuel expenses are just around the corner for those who live in many areas of the country. To counteract both, here are some energy conservation tips that can be easily incorporated into your existing interior decoration scheme.

Draw shades and draperies at night to reduce heat loss and shut out cold air, but open them wide on sunny winter days to capture solar heat. (In summer, keep shades and draperies closed. Keep storm windows closed, too, if the house is air conditioned.)

Use light colors and mirrors on walls to reflect and magnify natural and artificial light and heat.

Make sure furniture and curtains are kept clear of radiators, warm air heat vents and return grills and baseboard units so that your heating system can operate as efficiently as possible.

Install cabinets and bookcases on outside walls for insulating purposes as well as decoration and storage.

Add visual warmth and actual warmth underfoot by installed wall-to-wall carpeting.

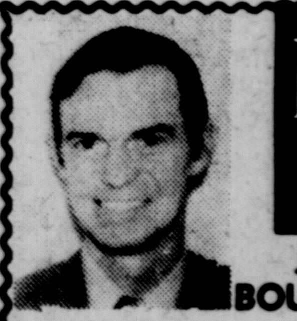
Decorate with living plants. They make attractive winter accessories and increase humidity, making rooms more comfortable at lower temperatures. (During the summer, put plants outside, if possible, to reduce the dehumidifying burden placed on an air conditioner.)

Use a humidifier — either a separate appliance or an attachment to a central heating system. This can be a money-saving investment in winter, when increased humidity will allow you to lower thermostats, yet still feel comfortable. And, of course, lowered thermostats mean reduced heating bills.

Apply sun-controlling, aluminized polyester film to wide, west-facing windows. These "sunglasses" reflect winter warmth into rooms, reduce glare from sun and snow and screen out heat in summer. In addition, they block out 95 per cent of the sun's fabric-fading ultra-violet rays. And, while they have no effect on window transparency from indoors, they add to interior privacy from outside.

Make sure the damper on your fireplace closes completely when there's no fire burning. Be certain, too, that the draft works properly to avoid wasting heat.

Consider using fluorescent lights, which produce five times more light and last 10 times longer than incandescent bulbs. While, at one time, fluorescent bulbs weren't used in homes because of their strange effect on skin and decorating colors, they're now available in flattering warm and cool whites.



LET'S TALK IT OVER
JERRY BOUSCHARD

Some people are frightened into staying in a house which they have outgrown by thoughts of the taxes they might have to pay if they sold. In some cases, such fears are unfounded.

In the first place, permanent improvements to your home are treated as an addition to your cost. If you add a room, install a swimming pool or an additional bathroom, your cost for such improvement is added to what you paid for the house in determining your total cost for the purpose of determining your capital-gains tax. Painting and other ordinary maintenance expense is not considered as an "improvement" and does not affect the cost basis.

We're Real Estate experts, not tax experts, but we can give you some ideas on what to ask your tax advisor . . . it could save you money and our advice costs you nothing! Stop in and "Talk it Over," anytime!

Brentwood North opens

Brentwood North, a one-floor skilled nursing center on the North Shore, is now open.

William J. Kirby, president, states that its purpose is "to provide the finest in skilled nursing and rehabilitation care with compassion and a respect for human dignity, while assuring each of our residents much of the familiarity and comfort of their own homes."

This newest facility of its kind is located at 3705 Deerfield Road, just west of the Illinois Tollway (I-94), in Riverwoods. The administrator is James E. Willcox, a graduate of Notre Dame University and Lake Forest resident. Willcox was formerly with Brentwood Nursing and Convalescent Home in Oak Lawn.

Brentwood North offers large, individually temperature-controlled private or semi-private rooms and dining and lounge areas; an activity room at the front of the building allows residents to be a part of all that is happening. The bay windows in each room provide a view of the wooded surroundings. The building is fireproof and has an automatic sprinkler system.

There is 24-hour professional nursing service with all patient rooms within 60 feet of nursing stations. Meals are prepared under the direction of a licensed dietitian. Physician services are available. Brentwood North provides in-patient and out-patient physical therapy and employs a full time resident therapist. The facility is Medicare approved.

In addition, there are social services with individual counseling, religious services for all faiths and planned recreational programs. A gift center and a beauty and barber shop are on the premises.

Kirby stressed that he and his staff invite the public to visit this new nursing and rehabilitation center and that the staff be available for consultation daily between the hours of 9 a.m. and 8 p.m., or by special appointment.

President, Northwest Suburban Board of REALTORS®

Colder weather and rising fuel expenses are just around the corner for those who live in many areas of the country. To counteract both, here are some energy conservation tips that can be easily incorporated into your existing interior decoration scheme.

Draw shades and draperies at night to reduce heat loss and shut out cold air, but open them wide on sunny winter days to capture solar heat. (In summer, keep shades and draperies closed. Keep storm windows closed, too, if the house is air conditioned.)

Use light colors and mirrors on walls to reflect and magnify natural and artificial light and heat.

Make sure furniture and curtains are kept clear of radiators, warm air heat vents and return grills and baseboard units so that your heating system can operate as efficiently as possible.

Install cabinets and bookcases on outside walls for insulating purposes as well as decoration and storage.

Add visual warmth and actual warmth underfoot by installed wall-to-wall carpeting.

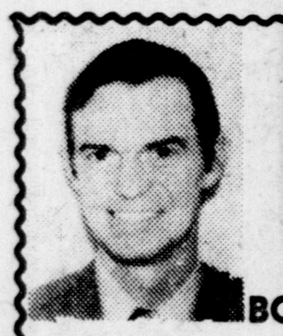
Decorate with living plants. They make attractive winter accessories and increase humidity, making rooms more comfortable at lower temperatures. (During the summer, put plants outside, if possible, to reduce the dehumidifying burden placed on an air conditioner.)

Use a humidifier — either a separate appliance or an attachment to a central heating system. This can be a money-saving investment in winter, when increased humidity will allow you to lower thermostats, yet still feel comfortable. And, of course, lowered thermostats mean reduced heating bills.

Apply sun-controlling, aluminized polyester film to wide, west-facing windows. These "sunglasses" reflect winter warmth into rooms, reduce glare from sun and snow and screen out heat in summer. In addition, they block out 95 per cent of the sun's fabric-fading ultra-violet rays. And, while they have no effect on window transparency from indoors, they add to interior privacy from outside.

Make sure the damper on your fireplace closes completely when there's no fire burning. Be certain, too, that the draft works properly to avoid wasting heat.

Consider using fluorescent lights, which produce five times more light and last 10 times longer than incandescent bulbs. While, at one time, fluorescent bulbs weren't used in homes because of their strange effect on skin and decorating colors, they're now available in flattering warm and cool whites.



LET'S TALK IT OVER

JERRY BOUSCHARD

Some people are frightened into staying in a house which they have outgrown by thoughts of the taxes they might have to pay if they sold. In some cases, such fears are unfounded.

In the first place, permanent improvements to your home are treated as an addition to your cost. If you add a room, install a swimming pool or an additional bathroom, your cost for such improvement is added to what you paid for the house in determining your total cost for the purpose of determining your capital-gains tax. Painting and other ordinary maintenance expense is not considered as an "improvement" and does not affect the cost basis.

We're Real Estate experts, not tax experts, but we can give you some ideas on what to ask your tax advisor . . . it could save you money and our advice costs you nothing! Stop in and "Talk it Over," anytime!

Apartment sharing on the rise

The way things are going, independence is one thing apartment renters are going to be enjoying less of as America celebrates its bicentennial.

Even though the average rent in the Chicago area will be up an average of 5.73 percent in October, the fact is that rents can't keep pace with the high costs of financing, construction and operating apartment buildings, stated William D. Sally, CPM, vice president of Baird & Warner, Inc., and general manager of its property management division.

This means that apartment construction is going into a tailspin and more renters will find apartment-sharing a practical necessity.

According to Advance Mortgage Co. of Detroit, there will be 12,000 rental apartments completed in Chicago in 1975, about half the number built in each of the last five years. In the first three months of this year, 1,307 apartment permits were issued in the Chicago area, the lowest one-quarter level in the last 15 years.

Even though apartments are still in good supply in some parts of the metropolitan area as a legacy of the pre-1973 building boom, that situation isn't expected to go on much beyond 1975 as the declining inventory is absorbed.

Government officials and real estate experts agree that dwindling supply and rising costs will precipitate a return to apartment-sharing, despite recent trends toward independence by both young and old.

And it raises a caution flag about shared responsibilities.

"Although sharing is not yet occurring at significant levels in the northwest suburban area, it probably won't be long before many people who once lived alone or had plans to will find it necessary to double up with friends or relatives," said Sally.

Indications are that the young — high school or new college graduates — and the elderly will be most affected. The Census Bureau reports that the number of young and elderly living alone has been one of the most pronounced trends in this country. Their studies show that people are marrying later and living alone until they do while retired people are choosing to live alone rather than with their children. But it seems that economic reality may stall that pattern.

Living at home with parents or children may be one alternative, and finding a roommate is another.

If you have to surrender the independence of living alone to share living expenses with a roommate you should also be aware that you will also be sharing responsibilities, advises the Baird & Warner executive.

"Practically every management company in Chicagoland requires that when unrelated people share an apartment, each must sign a joint lease. That makes him responsible for the full rent if his or her roomie splits," he cautions.

That's why management firms are required to check out each party to a joint lease.

Until Illinois lowered the age of legal responsibility to 18, persons under 21 couldn't sign any apartment lease; their parents had to sign for them, and then if the young person moved out, the parents were responsible for the rent payments.

"That's no longer true today," said Sally. "If we qualify the young person to sign the lease, we and the law hold him responsible for the rent. He can't escape any more on the grounds that he's a minor.

"In effect you are entering a legal partnership in which you are responsible for each others rental debts," observes Sally.

Because a person signing a joint lease for an apartment to be shared may be assuming responsibilith to pay thousands of dollars, depending on the length of the lease, he should be aware of his obligations and also of the problems of living with a roommate, he said.

Here are some things to think about:

How are you going to buy and pay for furnishings?

Are your interests compatible with those of your roommate? Or will you wind up trying to enjoy a serious novel while your roommate has the stereo going full blast?

Are your working hours compatible? Some times it's best if you have staggered hours, which permits you full use of the apartment while your roommate is away.

What about food? Who will do the buying, the cooking, the cleaning up? Do you have similar tastes?

Do you share the same circle of friends? Or at least are you willing to put up with your roommate's guests?

Are you on the same moral plane? Or are your roommate's preferences in sex, religion, drugs and similar matters vastly different from yours, or likely to lead to practices which offend you?

How much do you really know about your roommate's honesty and sense of responsibility? Is there a chance he or she will ask you to pay a month's rent, promise to pay you back later and then renege?

What advance arrangements have you made to pay the rent in case your roommate loses a job, moves to another city, leaves to get married or flies the coop?

How would you handle the security deposit if your roommate leaves? Since most leases require both you and your partner to pay half of the deposit, the agent cannot legally return the full deposit to you if your partner leaves. You must get a written note from your partner notifying the agent to return his portion of the deposit to you.

Is your roommate likely to stay in one place long? Changing roommates often can be expensive because some agents charge $50 or more for the lease revisions involved.

"Because of these and many other considerations, it's not good to rely on just a good feeling about your proposed roommate to see you through," the Baird & Warner executive said. "Take the time to investigate. And be aware that even though you share the rent, you may wind up with all of the responsibility for the lease on your shoulders."

Meadow Edge wins award

Meadow Edge, a 60-acre, $13 million townhouse community in Rolling Meadows, emerged as a major winner in the fifth annual home, apartment and condominium design competition sponsored by the Home Builders' of greater Chicago (H.B.A.C.), it was announced recently.

Called Design 75, the competition is considered the "Academy Awards" of the Chicago home building industry. It attracted entries from throughout the metropolitan area.

According to H.B.A.C. spokesmen, judging teams composed of newspaper editors, architects, builders and bankers personally visited each entry and judged it on the basis of quality, originality and value.

Meadow Edge entries won both top awards for townhomes priced between $50,000 and $75,000. The Gold Key first prize went to the Dartmoor, a three-bedroom, 2½-bath home priced at $55,500; and the Silver Key second prize was taken by the Kimberly, a three-bedroom, 2½-bath home priced at $56,600.

Located in the Plum Grove section of Rolling Meadows, the property is being enhanced by the development of a network of hilly greenbelts, heavily planted with hundreds of full-grown trees and thousands of shrubs.

Currently being developed are 225 luxury two-story townhomes, all with full basements, and a sophisticated $300,000 recreational complex which includes a 4,000 square foot California-designed clubhouse with resident lounge, dance floor, party room, fully-equipped kitchen and men's and women's locker rooms for the adjacent super-sized sun deck and heated swimming pool. Long-term plans call for the development of tennis courts and a large lake.

All home prices at Meadow Edge include a fenced and landscaped entryway, an attached one or two-car garage, automatic electric door opener, a full-width paved driveway, the earlier-mentioned full basement with laundry tub, patio area, central air conditioning, wall-to-wall carpeting, gas forced-air heating and electric-eye outdoor lights which turn on automatically as the sun sets to illuminate the front yard and street.

The community is being developed by the Meadow Edge Company, a joint venture of Zale Construction Company and First Savings Corporation, a subsidiary of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Chicago. It was designed by the architectural firm of The Berkus Group in Rosemont.

To visit Meadow Edge, take the Northwest Tollway to the Rolling Meadows exit (Route 53). Exit north and travel to the Euclid Avenue west exit. Go west a few blocks to Plum Grove Road. Turn left and go south on Plum Grove Road to Old Plum Grove Road. Turn right to the models. The furnished models are open from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. every day.

Northbrook McDonald's holds grand opening October 25

The new Northbrook McDonald's in Sanders Court will mark its grand opening on Saturday, Oct. 25. Owner Don Conley, who also owns the Wheeling McDonald's, will present a giant oversize check for $1,500 to the Northbrook Speed Skating Club. The money will benefit club skaters training for the 1976 Olympic trials. There will be a brief ceremony at 9:30 a.m. just prior to Ronald McDonald's appearances.

Ronald McDonald brings a complete show to the entire family at 10 a.m. to noon and 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

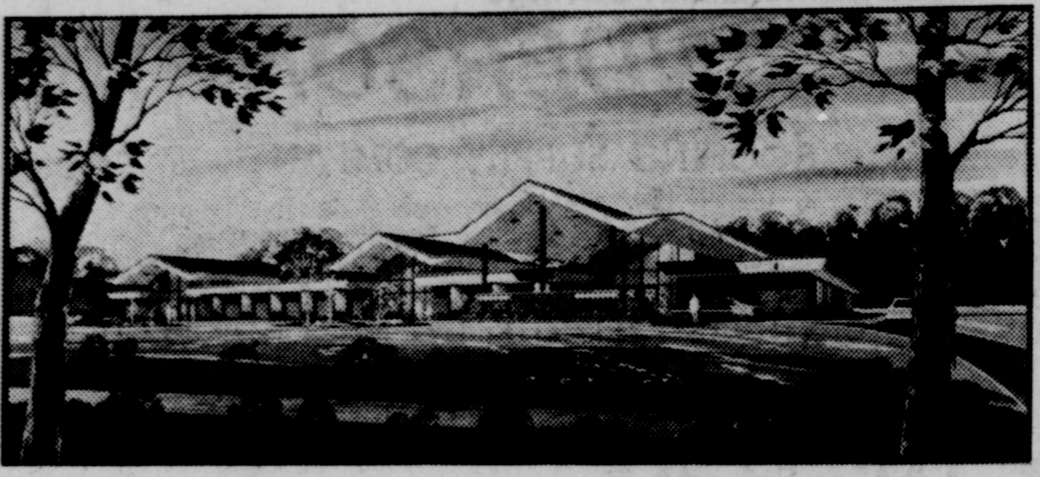
Conley's new McDonald's brings a new merchandising era to the McDonald's Corporation. A Blue Gazebo Room, large party room and Ronald McDonald Rumpus Room provide seating for 200. Tiffany type lighting, a more subdued McDonald motif, a totally electric kitchen and GTE electronic inventory control are only a few of the unique features.

Terence Spratt named manager

Terence Spratt of Glen Ellyn has been named manager of the new Thom McAn family shoe store which recently opened in the Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg.

Spratt, who has been with the company since 1966, has served as assistant manager and manager in the Schaumburg area and was most recently manager of the Thom McAn store in Berwyn.

The new store is the twentieth in the Chicago area and the forty-fifth in Illinois for the coast-to-coast retail shoe chain.



HERE IS the architect's rendering for Brentwood North Nursing and Rehabilitation Center located at 3705 Deerfield Road, just West of I-94, in Riverwoods, Illinois.

Apartment sharing on the rise

The way things are going, independence is one thing apartment renters are going to be enjoying less of as America celebrates its bicentennial.

Even though the average rent in the Chicago area will be up an average of 5.73 percent in October, the fact is that rents can't keep pace with the high costs of financing, construction and operating apartment buildings, stated William D. Sally, CPM, vice president of Baird & Warner, Inc., and general manager of its property management division.

This means that apartment construction is going into a tailspin and more renters will find apartment-sharing a practical necessity.

According to Advance Mortgage Co. of Detroit, there will be 12,000 rental apartments completed in Chicago in 1975, about half the number built in each of the last five years. In the first three months of this year, 1,307 apartment permits were issued in the Chicago area, the lowest one-quarter level in the last 15 years.

Even though apartments are still in good supply in some parts of the metropolitan area as a legacy of the pre-1973 building boom, that situation isn't expected to go on much beyond 1975 as the declining inventory is absorbed.

Government officials and real estate experts agree that dwindling supply and rising costs will precipitate a return to apartment-sharing, despite recent trends toward independence by both young and old.

And it raises a caution flag about shared responsibilities.

"Although sharing is not yet occurring at significant levels in the northwest suburban area, it probably won't be long before many people who once lived alone or had plans to will find it necessary to double up with friends or relatives," said Sally.

Indications are that the young — high school or new college graduates — and the elderly will be most affected. The Census Bureau reports that the number of young and elderly living alone has been one of the most pronounced trends in this country. Their studies show that people are marrying later and living alone until they do while retired people are choosing to live alone rather than with their children. But it seems that economic reality may stall that pattern.

Living at home with parents or children may be one alternative, and finding a roommate is another.

If you have to surrender the independence of living alone to share living expenses with a roommate you should also be aware that you will also be sharing responsibilities, advises the Baird & Warner executive.

"Practically every management company in Chicagoland requires that when unrelated people share an apartment, each must sign a joint lease. That makes him responsible for the full rent if his or her roomie splits," he cautions.

That's why management firms are required to check out each party to a joint lease.

Until Illinois lowered the age of legal responsibility to 18, persons under 21 couldn't sign any apartment lease; their parents had to sign for them, and then if the young person moved out, the parents were responsible for the rent payments.

"That's no longer true today," said Sally. "If we qualify the young person to sign the lease, we and the law hold him responsible for the rent. He can't escape any more on the grounds that he's a minor.

"In effect you are entering a legal partnership in which you are responsible for each others rental debts," observes Sally.

Because a person signing a joint lease for an apartment to be shared may be assuming responsibilith to pay thousands of dollars, depending on the length of the lease, he should be aware of his obligations and also of the problems of living with a roommate, he said.

Here are some things to think about:

How are you going to buy and pay for furnishings?

Are your interests compatible with those of your roommate? Or will you wind up trying to enjoy a serious novel while your roommate has the stereo going full blast?

Are your working hours compatible? Some times it's best if you have staggered hours, which permits you full use of the apartment while your roommate is away.

What about food? Who will do the buying, the cooking, the cleaning up? Do you have similar tastes?

Do you share the same circle of friends? Or at least are you willing to put up with your roommate's guests?

Are you on the same moral plane? Or are your roommate's preferences in sex, religion, drugs and similar matters vastly different from yours, or likely to lead to practices which offend you?

How much do you really know about your roommate's honesty and sense of responsibility? Is there a chance he or she will ask you to pay a month's rent, promise to pay you back later and then renege?

What advance arrangements have you made to pay the rent in case your roommate loses a job, moves to another city, leaves to get married or flies the coop?

How would you handle the security deposit if your roommate leaves? Since most leases require both you and your partner to pay half of the deposit, the agent cannot legally return the full deposit to you if your partner leaves. You must get a written note from your partner notifying the agent to return his portion of the deposit to you.

Is your roommate likely to stay in one place long? Changing roommates often can be expensive because some agents charge $50 or more for the lease revisions involved.

"Because of these and many other considerations, it's not good to rely on just a good feeling about your proposed roommate to see you through," the Baird & Warner executive said. "Take the time to investigate. And be aware that even though you share the rent, you may wind up with all of the responsibility for the lease on your shoulders."

Should you move or remodel?

A dilemma that perplexes homeowners during times of prosperity as well as the kind of economic uncertainty we have now is whether to move or remodel.

The problem generally pops when a family outgrows its home or when the arrangement of the existing space no longer fits the family's lifestyle.

On the one hand the home is full of warm memories, you've become intimate with every squeak and creak, you've cultivated some warm neighborhood friendships and you love the location.

On the other hand, the money you'd spend altering the house might be better invested in another house, perhaps in the same general area.

One of Chicago's top real estate experts, Robert G. Walters, senior vice president and general manager of the residential sales division of Baird & Warner, Inc., acknowledges that there are no quick or easy answers.

Walters suggests these key questions as the first steps to solving the puzzle.

Has the house grown too old to justify the investment in remodeling? Consider the physical condition of the structure and its mechanical systems. This involves inspecting the roof, foundation, floors, and framing. It also suggests a careful look at the heating and cooling systems, plumbing and electrical system.

"Certain types of remodeling have a way of multiplying expense," Walters pointed out. "For instance, if you add a room you may find the existing heating plant is not adequate to handle added volume. You might need a larger capacity furnace and cooling plant. Or you may find that you cannot properly extend the ductwork to a house addition. The answer may be an auxiliary unit."

A new room may also mean not only more electric outlets and switches but a totally larger service box to provide needed additional capacity. You may need completely new wiring. Extending or adding plumbing lines can also add expenses and headaches. But these are all things you have to figure out and plan ahead.

Is there a risk that the extra money you plow into the home will make it too expensive for the neighborhood and thereby difficult for you to recover the investment?

"Many homeowners are unaware that except for the general impact of inflation in raising the value of all property, there is an upper limit on how much a house will sell for in a neighborhood," Walters said. "For example, let's say that $40,000 is the most you can expect to get for your house in your neighborhood. Chances are that if you invested $20,000 in improvements to make your house worth $60,000 in comparison to other homes in the area, you'll never get $60,000 for it."

People shopping for $60,000 homes tend to look elsewhere because they know the long-term potential for appreciation for a home which is over-improved for its neighborhood is quite limited.

If you realize that you may not even recover your investment, much less profit by it, are you willing to spend the money for the additional comfort and livability you expect in return?

Once you have calculated the cost of remodeling, have you looked elsewhere, maybe in your own community, for another house that has the space and features that you are thinking about adding to your present house? A real estate broker can be of help in this.

"It's possible that instead of spending another $20,000 on a home now worth $40,000, you might be better off buying another house in the $60,000 price range," Walters observed. "That home might be newer, more functional, have better insulation and mechanical systems and have greater potential for future appreciation."

Location is still the number one factor in real estate value. If you are thinking about moving, you have to decide first and for yourself how much you value being in your present neighborhood, the availability of shopping, schools, transportation and other facilities, and whether these are still as important as they once were.

What are the possibilities that this may not be the last time you remodel? If you contemplate future changes to accommodate a new life-style or changing family situation, is your house sufficiently adaptable? Have you got the space for further changes? Should you take steps now, if you decide to remodel, that can help you cut corners for future alterations?

"You'd also better make certain you're on the right side of theiaw before you proceed to remodel," Walters suggested. "Easements, zoning laws and building codes might influence what you can do. You'd better learn about them in advance."

A review of your plot of survey will determine if the addition you are planning is, in fact, on your property. Zoning regulations tell you if there are restrictions on what you can or cannot do on your property. And your local building code, for better or worse, is something you have to live and comply with whatever changes you are contemplating.

"Consult a contractor or your local building department if you are uncertain," Walters said.

In the end, he concluded, you will have to weigh your values and priorities and do what you consider best.

TOLLWAY NATIONAL BANK

TOLLWAY ARLINGTON National Bank, located at the intersection of Arlington Heights and Algonquin Rds. in Arlington Heights, moved into its new five story modern glass and aluminum building Oct. 14. U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, left, Harold Harvey, bank president, center, and Carl Ewert, vice president and director of the bank, participated in the ribbon cutting and official dedication. The bank is celebrating its opening with a special premium program. Three Millionaire-For-A-Day drawings will highlight the grand opening celebration with each winner receiving the interest on one million dollars at 7¼ per cent interest for one day.

Pre-license courses to begin

Under current State of Illinois requirements, a person who is interested in becoming a real estate salesman in the State of Illinois must complete a 30-hour Basic Real Estate Transactions course from an approved school in order to be eligible to take the state real estate salesman's license examination. D'Ann McClain, Director of Training and Administration, Real Estate Education Company, has released the schedule of classes to meet these requirements.

The course, approved by both the Department of Registration and Education and the State of Illinois Office of Education, consists of 30 classroom hours of training in compliance with the state requirements. Of the students of Real Estate Education Company who successfully completed this course, 92 per cent have passed the state licensing examination.

On Tuesday, November 4, at 8:30 p.m., evening courses will begin at the Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge, Northwest Hwy. and Route 53, Palatine.

Classes are conducted either one night a week for three hours or two nights a week for two hours each night. Classes are taught in this format in compliance with the rules and regulations covering real estate schools.

Meadow Edge wins award

Meadow Edge, a 60-acre, $13 million townhouse community in Rolling Meadows, emerged as a major winner in the fifth annual home, apartment and condominium design competition sponsored by the Home Builders' of greater Chicago (H.B.A.C.), it was announced recently.

Called Design 75, the competition is considered the "Academy Awards" of the Chicago home building industry. It attracted entries from throughout the metropolitan area.

According to H.B.A.C. spokesmen, judging teams composed of newspaper editors, architects, builders and bankers personally visited each entry and judged it on the basis of quality, originality and value.

Meadow Edge entries won both top awards for townhomes priced between $50,000 and $75,000. The Gold Key first prize went to the Dartmoor, a three-bedroom, 2½-bath home priced at $55,500; and the Silver Key second prize was taken by the Kimberly, a three-bedroom, 2½-bath home priced at $56,600.

Located in the Plum Grove section of Rolling Meadows, the property is being enhanced by the development of a network of hilly greenbelts, heavily planted with hundreds of full-grown trees and thousands of shrubs.

Currently being developed are 225 luxury two-story townhomes, all with full basements, and a sophisticated $300,000 recreational complex which includes a 4,000 square foot California-designed clubhouse with resident lounge, dance floor, party room, fully-equipped kitchen and men's and women's locker rooms for the adjacent super-sized sun deck and heated swimming pool. Long-term plans call for the development of tennis courts and a large lake.

All home prices at Meadow Edge include a fenced and landscaped entryway, an attached one or two-car garage, automatic electric door opener, a full-width paved driveway, the earlier-mentioned full basement with laundry tub, patio area, central air conditioning, wall-to-wall carpeting, gas forced-air heating and electric-eye outdoor lights which turn on automatically as the sun sets to illuminate the front yard and street.

The community is being developed by the Meadow Edge Company, a joint venture of Zale Construction Company and First Savings Corporation, a subsidiary of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Chicago. It was designed by the architectural firm of The Berkus Group in Rosemont.

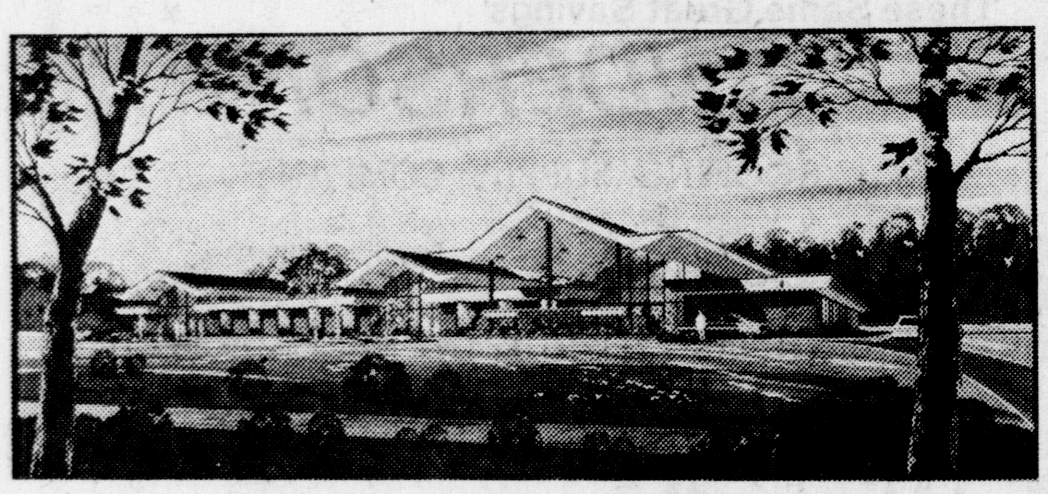
To visit Meadow Edge, take the Northwest Tollway to the Rolling Meadows exit (Route 53). Exit north and travel to the Euclid Avenue west exit. Go west a few blocks to Plum Grove Road. Turn left and go south on Plum Grove Road to Old Plum Grove Road. Turn right to the models. The furnished models are open from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. every day.

Northbrook McDonald's holds grand opening October 25

The new Northbrook McDonald's in Sanders Court will mark its grand opening on Saturday, Oct. 25. Owner Don Conley, who also owns the Wheeling McDonald's, will present a giant oversize check for $1,500 to the Northbrook Speed Skating Club. The money will benefit club skaters training for the 1976 Olympic trials. There will be a brief ceremony at 9:30 a.m. just prior to Ronald McDonald's appearances.

Ronald McDonald brings a complete show to the entire family at 10 a.m. to noon and 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Conley's new McDonald's brings a new merchandising era to the McDonald's Corporation. A Blue Gazebo Room, large party room and Ronald McDonald Rumpus Room provide seating for 200. Tiffany type lighting, a more subdued McDonald motif, a totally electric kitchen and GTE electronic inventory control are only a few of the unique features.



HERE IS the architect's rendering for Brentwood North Nursing and Rehabilitation Center located at 3705 Deerfield Road, just West of I-94, in Riverwoods, Illinois.

Terence Spratt named manager

Terence Spratt of Glen Ellyn has been named manager of the new Thom McAn family shoe store which recently opened in the Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg.

Spratt, who has been with the company since 1966, has served as assistant manager and manager in the Schaumburg area and was most recently manager of the Thom McAn store in Berwyn.

The new store is the twentieth in the Chicago area and the forty-fifth in Illinois for the coast-to-coast retail shoe chain.

Grand opening days begin today

A new branch office of Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Association will open in Elk Grove Village. "Grand Opening Days" are scheduled for today, Friday and Saturday in the Arlington Federal office at 1016 Grove Mall in the Grove Mall shopping center.

Those who visit the office during the grand opening period and register will become eligible for prizes worth $2,000. Five Arlington Federal passbook accounts with $100 deposits will be awarded each of the three days. Twenty $25 gift certificates redeemable with Grove Mall merchants will be drawn on October 31. Visitors may register for these prizes during the week preceding the drawing.

Those who visit the Grove Mall office October 23-25 will also receive free giveaways as mementoes of the grand opening.

The association is currently offering English Ironstone Dinnerware as a premium for saving. A deposit of $100 or more earns the first four-piece setting free. Thereafter deposits of $50 or more permit the acquisition of additional four-piece settings (or a choice of other pieces) at $3.95 each. A deposit of $500 or more permits the depositor to acquire the complete 61-piece service for eight at a cost of $64.95.

The Elk Grove Village office becomes the fourth to be opened by Arlington Federal. Permission has also been received from Federal authorities to establish a fifth office in Mount Prospect.

Other offices, in addition to the headquarters at Campbell and Evergreen in downtown Arlington Heights, include those at 6 East Rand Rd. in North Arlington Heights and at 400 South Old Rand Road in Lake Zurich.

"We were gratified to be able to open an Arlington Federal office in Elk Grove Village," Donald F. Morton, president, said, "especially for the more than 2,000 Arlington Federal savers who reside in the Elk Grove Village area. We are confident that the convenience of conducting their financial business in the Grove Mall will prompt many more Elk Grove Village residents to join them."

Persin and Robbin to display American Indian jewelry exhibit

A special display of handmade Southwest American Indian jewelry will be shown at Persin & Robbin Jewelers of Arlington Heights on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Oct. 30, 31 and Nov. 1. The collection of bracelets, beads, rings, pins and accessory pieces will be personally described by Charles Toops, of Artesanos, a jewelry expert from New Mexico and one of the country's most renowned Indian jewelry traders.

Featured at the exhibit will be hundreds of specially designed jewelry pieces featuring hand crafted silver and semi-precious stones of turquois and coral. Toops will personally describe the creations and the history and background of the various Southwest American tribes that produce the pieces.

Should you move or remodel?

A dilemma that perplexes homeowners during times of prosperity as well as the kind of economic uncertainty we have now is whether to move or remodel.

The problem generally pops when a family outgrows its home or when the arrangement of the existing space no longer fits the family's lifestyle.

On the one hand the home is full of warm memories, you've become intimate with every squeak and creak, you've cultivated some warm neighborhood friendships and you love the location.

On the other hand, the money you'd spend altering the house might be better invested in another house, perhaps in the same general area.

One of Chicago's top real estate experts, Robert G. Walters, senior vice president and general manager of the residential sales division of Baird & Warner, Inc., acknowledges that there are no quick or easy answers.

Walters suggests these key questions as the first steps to solving the puzzle.

Has the house grown too old to justify the investment in remodeling? Consider the physical condition of the structure and its mechanical systems. This involves inspecting the roof, foundation, floors, and framing. It also suggests a careful look at the heating and cooling systems, plumbing and electrical system.

"Certain types of remodeling have a way of multiplying expense," Walters pointed out. "For instance, if you add a room you may find the existing heating plant is not adequate to handle added volume. You might need a larger capacity furnace and cooling plant. Or you may find that you cannot properly extend the ductwork to a house addition. The answer may be an auxiliary unit."

A new room may also mean not only more electric outlets and switches but a totally larger service box to provide needed additional capacity. You may need completely new wiring. Extending or adding plumbing lines can also add expenses and headaches. But these are all things you have to figure out and plan ahead.

Is there a risk that the extra money you plow into the home will make it too expensive for the neighborhood and thereby difficult for you to recover the investment?

"Many homeowners are unaware that except for the general impact of inflation in raising the value of all property, there is an upper limit on how much a house will sell for in a neighborhood," Walters said. "For example, let's say that $40,000 is the most you can expect to get for your house in your neighborhood. Chances are that if you invested $20,000 in improvements to make your house worth $60,000 in comparison to other homes in the area, you'll never get $60,000 for it."

People shopping for $60,000 homes tend to look elsewhere because they know the long-term potential for appreciation for a home which is over-improved for its neighborhood is quite limited.

If you realize that you may not even recover your investment, much less profit by it, are you willing to spend the money for the additional comfort and livability you expect in return?

Once you have calculated the cost of remodeling, have you looked elsewhere, maybe in your own community, for another house that has the space and features that you are thinking about adding to your present house? A real estate broker can be of help in this.

"It's possible that instead of spending another $20,000 on a home now worth $40,000, you might be better off buying another house in the $60,000 price range," Walters observed. "That home might be newer, more functional, have better insulation and mechanical systems and have greater potential for future appreciation."

Location is still the number one factor in real estate value. If you are thinking about moving, you have to decide first and for yourself how much you value being in your present neighborhood, the availability of shopping, schools, transportation and other facilities, and whether these are still as important as they once were.

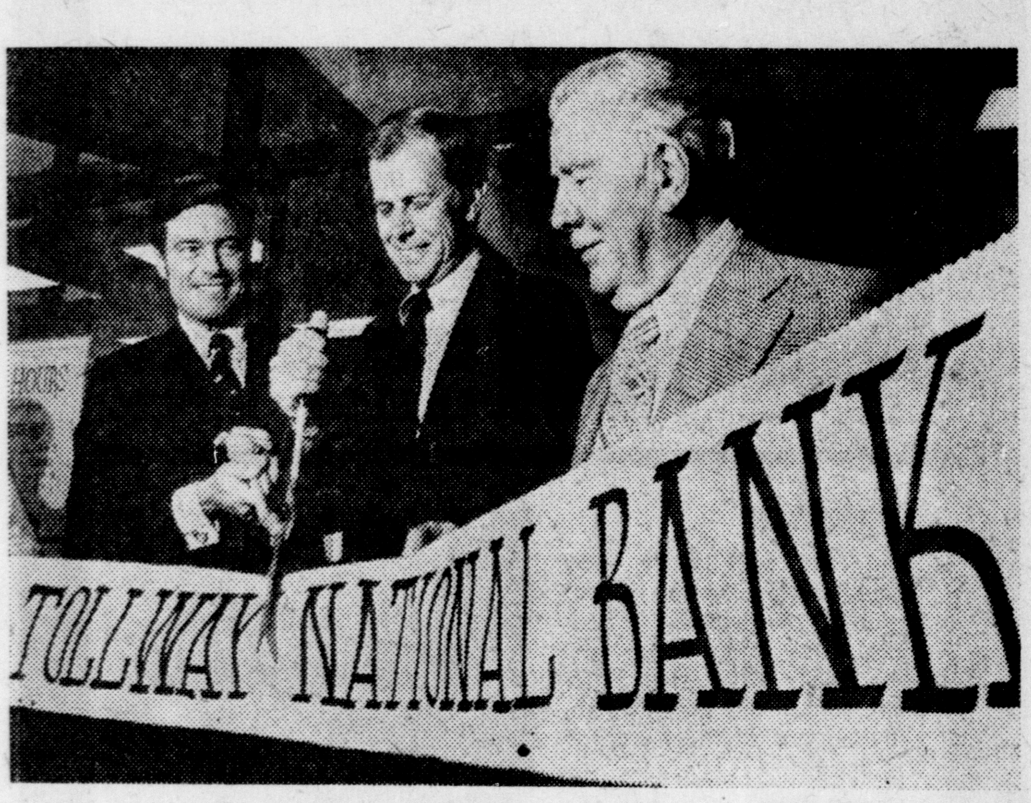
What are the possibilities that this may not be the last time you remodel? If you contemplate future changes to accommodate a new life-style or changing family situation, is your house sufficiently adaptable? Have you got the space for further changes? Should you take steps now, if you decide to remodel, that can help you cut corners for future alterations?

"You'd also better make certain you're on the right side of theiaw before you proceed to remodel," Walters suggested. "Easements, zoning laws and building codes might influence what you can do. You'd better learn about them in advance."

A review of your plot of survey will determine if the addition you are planning is, in fact, on your property. Zoning regulations tell you if there are restrictions on what you can or cannot do on your property. And your local building code, for better or worse, is something you have to live and comply with whatever changes you are contemplating.

"Consult a contractor or your local building department if you are uncertain," Walters said.

In the end, he concluded, you will have to weigh your values and priorities and do what you consider best.



TOLLWAY ARLINGTON National Bank, located at the intersection of Arlington Heights and Algonquin Rds. in Arlington Heights, moved into its new five story modern glass and aluminum building Oct. 14. U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, left, Harold Harvey, bank president, center, and Carl Ewert, vice president and director of the bank, participated in the ribbon cutting and official dedication. The bank is celebrating its opening with a special premium program. Three Millionaire-For-A-Day drawings will highlight the grand opening celebration with each winner receiving the interest on one million dollars at 7¼ per cent interest for one day.

Pre-license courses to begin

Under current State of Illinois requirements, a person who is interested in becoming a real estate salesman in the State of Illinois must complete a 30-hour Basic Real Estate Transactions course from an approved school in order to be eligible to take the state real estate salesman's license examination. D'Ann McClain, Director of Training and Administration, Real Estate Education Company, has released the schedule of classes to meet these requirements.

The course, approved by both the Department of Registration and Education and the State of Illinois Office of Education, consists of 30 classroom hours of training in compliance with the state requirements. Of the students of Real Estate Education Company who successfully completed this course, 92 per cent have passed the state licensing examination.

On Tuesday, November 4, at 8:30 p.m., evening courses will begin at the Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge, Northwest Hwy. and Route 53, Palatine.

Classes are conducted either one night a week for three hours or two nights a week for two hours each night. Classes are taught in this format in compliance with the rules and regulations covering real estate schools.

Grand opening days begin today

A new branch office of Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Association will open in Elk Grove Village. "Grand Opening Days" are scheduled for today, Friday and Saturday in the Arlington Federal office at 1016 Grove Mall in the Grove Mall shopping center.

Those who visit the office during the grand opening period and register will become eligible for prizes worth $2,000. Five Arlington Federal passbook accounts with $100 deposits will be awarded each of the three days. Twenty $25 gift certificates redeemable with Grove Mall merchants will be drawn on October 31. Visitors may register for these prizes during the week preceding the drawing.

Those who visit the Grove Mall office October 23-25 will also receive free giveaways as mementoes of the grand opening.

The association is currently offering English Ironstone Dinnerware as a premium for saving. A deposit of $100 or more earns the first four-piece setting free. Thereafter deposits of $50 or more permit the acquisition of additional four-piece settings (or a choice of other pieces) at $3.95 each. A deposit of $500 or more permits the depositor to acquire the complete 61-piece service for eight at a cost of $64.95.

The Elk Grove Village office becomes the fourth to be opened by Arlington Federal. Permission has also been received from Federal authorities to establish a fifth office in Mount Prospect.

Other offices, in addition to the headquarters at Campbell and Evergreen in downtown Arlington Heights, include those at 6 East Rand Rd. in North Arlington Heights and at 400 South Old Rand Road in Lake Zurich.

"We were gratified to be able to open an Arlington Federal office in Elk Grove Village," Donald F. Morton, president, said, "especially for the more than 2,000 Arlington Federal savers who reside in the Elk Grove Village area. We are confident that the convenience of conducting their financial business in the Grove Mall will prompt many more Elk Grove Village residents to join them."

Persin and Robbin to display American Indian jewelry exhibit

A special display of handmade Southwest American Indian jewelry will be shown at Persin & Robbin Jewelers of Arlington Heights on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Oct. 30, 31 and Nov. 1. The collection of bracelets, beads, rings, pins and accessory pieces will be personally described by Charles Toops, of Artesanos, a jewelry expert from New Mexico and one of the country's most renowned Indian jewelry traders.

Featured at the exhibit will be hundreds of specially designed jewelry pieces featuring hand crafted silver and semi-precious stones of turquois and coral. Toops will personally describe the creations and the history and background of the various Southwest American tribes that produce the pieces.

Basic decor complements basic house

There are nearly as many approaches to decorating model homes as there are interior designers, and the best is always the one that works at a particular place and time.

At Willow Woods, a newly-opened development of 118 duplex townhomes in Streamwood, the back to basics approach to building has been complemented by a basic approach to decorating.

A simple, well-scaled, color-coordinated look that echoes the open rural climate of the area has impressed visitors as honest and unpretentious and is helping the sales effort.

"That's exactly what a furnished model is expected to do," observes Will Luther of Baird & Warner, Inc., sales manager. Baird & Warner is handling sales and marketing for the developer, Tibco, Inc., of Geneva, Ill.

"If we had gone Lake Shore slick with a lot of paneling and mirroring, built ins and luxurious furniture, I think it would have conflicted with our basic marketing approach and turned off potential buyers," said Luther.

The company is attempting to provide a basic house that the average family can afford to buy and own in an inflationary economy.

Willow Woods townhomes were built to economize on land and use interior space efficiently. Each home contains more than 1,100 square feet of space plus garage and is priced at $37,900.

Significantly, there are no recreational facilities on the site nor is there a homeowners' association to collect additional fees for maintenance. Every owner maintains his own grounds and property, finds his recreation elsewhere and concentrates his budget for housing strictly on the house.

"Perhaps this is a bit spartan when you look at typical planned developments going up today. But it has touched the nerve of many families, particularly young couples and small families. It's a straightforward approach that has been reinforced by straightforward decorating," Luther said.

Sculptured green carpeting and a pair of love seats with a green and orange floral pattern set the basic mood in the living room. Other seating is provided by a pair of burnt orange high-back chairs and a lime wing chair. Occasional tables and a traditional bookcase are accessoried with fruit and flower arrangements, oriental vases and several porcelain birds. Wall accessories include a framed woodland tapestry, wall sconces and paintings of floral arrangements. Oriental table lamps add brightness and sparkle.

The dining area features a bright orange area rug on parquet pattern vinyl flooring. The dining set includes an attractive, solid round table and velvet-seated cane back chairs. A huge painting of yet another floral arrangement hangs nearby.

The print of the living room sofas is repeated on the spread of the king-sized bed in the 13½ by 11-foot master bedroom. Off-white draw draperies conceal sliding glass doors which open to a rear patio area. Robust Mediterranean furniture includes a triple dresser, a wardrobe, a pair of sculptured wood mirrors and a matching sculptured headboard.

The child's bedroom is a burst of sunshine. A bright-yellow spread, yellow porcelain lamps and yellow accessories and light oak furniture contrast with the green carpeting. Raggedy Ann, her little sister, and a big fuzzy toy sheep dog help set the mood.

"What we show is an attractively furnished house that is both real and basic. It shows the visitor what she can do and it suggests how a young family, possibly with a limited budget, might decorate. At the same time it isn't restrictive. We believe it's right for our market in this economy," Luther noted.

The purchase price at Willow Woods includes range, oven, refrigerator, dishwasher, disposal, range hood and exhaust fan, carpeting in all rooms but the entry and dining/kitchen area which are custom vinlyl tiled, insulated draperies throughout, central heating and air conditioning, TV antenna and hookup, fully sodded lot, foundation landscaping and a privacy fence.

Willow Woods homes are open for inspection daily from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m. Willow Woods is on the west side of Bartlett Road, about ¼ mile south of Irving Park Road (Route 19). You can also take Lake Street (Route 20) and turn north about ¼ mile.

FLORAL PATTERN of living room love seats is repeated in the spread in the master bedroom and helps balance the massive feel of Mediterranean dresser, headboard and wardrobe not shown.

Learn about proper shoe fit

Dr. Mihran Tachdjian, head of podiatrics at Children's Memorial Hospital, and Selig Hersch, president of De Witt's Children's Shoe Store chain, have combined their experience, knowledge and research to aid the early detection of children's foot disorders.

Their scientific exhibit, based on detecting early disorders by examining the wear pattern of children's shoes, was presented to the Academy of Family Physicians in Atlanta, Georgia. They have been invited to again present this exhibit to the American Academy of Pediatricians in McCormick Place.

Laier reaches million mark

Terry Allind, general sales manager of Kole Real Estate, Ltd., announced that Cliff Laier, broker-salesman in Kole's Des Plaines office has once again reached the $1 million mark for the third consecutive year, making him an official member of the Million Dollar Club.

Laier is from Wisconsin and graduated from Hayward High School. He then attended the University of Wisconsin in Madison where he studied Mechanical Engineering. He is also a member of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors.

Laier now resides in Arlington Heights with his wife Agnes and their son Phillip.

Take care of your trees

Trees do a lot for us. They provide us with beauty, a shady place to rest, wood products for our homes, paper for our offices and much more. Yet we often take them for granted — we don't pay enough attention to how we treat them.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has a new booklet that tells us how to treat our trees better. A copy of Your Tree's Trouble May be You may be had by sending 70c to Consumer Information, Dept. 58, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

According to USDA's Forest Service, many people unknowingly cause damage to trees they want to preserve. They include the following advice in the booklet:

Normal lawn and garden care can cause injury or even death to the trees in your yard. Be sure to keep lawnmowers, snowplows, etc., well away from trees so that trunks, branches and roots are not cut. Use only small hand tools to clear grass and weeds away from trees — and use these tools carefully. Decay and disease can sneak through any tree injury and affect the whole tree.

Too much fertilizer and pesticide can also harm your trees. Be sure you buy lawn and garden chemicals which are not toxic to trees. And, use them only as directed.

You should also be careful if you need to use salt to de-ice your driveway or sidewalks in the winter. Salt, which is toxic to trees, can be absorbed through leaves and roots. Avoid or cut down on the use of salt around trees.

Improper pruning also injures trees — disease can enter the tree through dead or dying stubs. Cut dead or dying branches down to a short stub. Then cut off the stub even with the trunk of the tree. The tree can then protect itself by growing calluses over the stubs.

building/development

Basic decor complements basic house

There are nearly as many approaches to decorating model homes as there are interior designers, and the best is always the one that works at a particular place and time.

At Willow Woods, a newly-opened development of 118 duplex townhomes in Streamwood, the back to basics approach to building has been complemented by a basic approach to decorating.

A simple, well-scaled, color-coordinated look that echoes the open rural climate of the area has impressed visitors as honest and unpretentious and is helping the sales effort.

"That's exactly what a furnished model is expected to do," observes Will Luther of Baird & Warner, Inc., sales manager. Baird & Warner is handling sales and marketing for the developer, Tibco, Inc., of Geneva, Ill.

"If we had gone Lake Shore slick with a lot of paneling and mirroring, built ins and luxurious furniture, I think it would have conflicted with our basic marketing approach and turned off potential buyers," said Luther.

The company is attempting to provide a basic house that the average family can afford to buy and own in an inflationary economy.

Willow Woods townhomes were built to economize on land and use interior space efficiently. Each home contains more than 1,100 square feet of space plus garage and is priced at $37,900.

Significantly, there are no recreational facilities on the site nor is there a homeowners' association to collect additional fees for maintenance. Every owner maintains his own grounds and property, finds his recreation elsewhere and concentrates his budget for housing strictly on the house.

"Perhaps this is a bit spartan when you look at typical planned developments going up today. But it has touched the nerve of many families, particularly young couples and small families. It's a straightforward approach that has been reinforced by straightforward decorating," Luther said.

Sculptured green carpeting and a pair of love seats with a green and orange floral pattern set the basic mood in the living room. Other seating is provided by a pair of burnt orange high-back chairs and a lime wing chair. Occasional tables and a traditional bookcase are accessoried with fruit and flower arrangements, oriental vases and several porcelain birds. Wall accessories include a framed woodland tapestry, wall sconces and paintings of floral arrangements. Oriental table lamps add brightness and sparkle.

The dining area features a bright orange area rug on parquet pattern vinyl flooring. The dining set includes an attractive, solid round table and velvet-seated cane back chairs. A huge painting of yet another floral arrangement hangs nearby.

The print of the living room sofas is repeated on the spread of the king-sized bed in the 13½ by 11-foot master bedroom. Off-white draw draperies conceal sliding glass doors which open to a rear patio area. Robust Mediterranean furniture includes a triple dresser, a wardrobe, a pair of sculptured wood mirrors and a matching sculptured headboard.

The child's bedroom is a burst of sunshine. A bright-yellow spread, yellow porcelain lamps and yellow accessories and light oak furniture contrast with the green carpeting. Raggedy Ann, her little sister, and a big fuzzy toy sheep dog help set the mood.

"What we show is an attractively furnished house that is both real and basic. It shows the visitor what she can do and it suggests how a young family, possibly with a limited budget, might decorate. At the same time it isn't restrictive. We believe it's right for our market in this economy," Luther noted.

The purchase price at Willow Woods includes range, oven, refrigerator, dishwasher, disposal, range hood and exhaust fan, carpeting in all rooms but the entry and dining/kitchen area which are custom vinlyl tiled, insulated draperies throughout, central heating and air conditioning, TV antenna and hookup, fully sodded lot, foundation landscaping and a privacy fence.

Willow Woods homes are open for inspection daily from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m. Willow Woods is on the west side of Bartlett Road, about ¼ mile south of Irving Park Road (Route 19). You can also take Lake Street (Route 20) and turn north about ¼ mile.

FLORAL PATTERN of living room love seats is repeated in the spread in the master bedroom and helps balance the massive feel of Mediterranean dresser, headboard and wardrobe not shown.

Learn about proper shoe fit

Dr. Mihran Tachdjian, head of podiatrics at Children's Memorial Hospital, and Selig Hersch, president of De Witt's Children's Shoe Store chain, have combined their experience, knowledge and research to aid the early detection of children's foot disorders.

Their scientific exhibit, based on detecting early disorders by examining the wear pattern of children's shoes, was presented to the Academy of Family Physicians in Atlanta, Georgia. They have been invited to again present this exhibit to the American Academy of Pediatricians in McCormick Place.

Take care of your trees

Trees do a lot for us. They provide us with beauty, a shady place to rest, wood products for our homes, paper for our offices and much more. Yet we often take them for granted — we don't pay enough attention to how we treat them.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has a new booklet that tells us how to treat our trees better. A copy of Your Tree's Trouble May be You may be had by sending 70c to Consumer Information, Dept. 58, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

According to USDA's Forest Service, many people unknowingly cause damage to trees they want to preserve. They include the following advice in the booklet:

Normal lawn and garden care can cause injury or even death to the trees in your yard. Be sure to keep lawnmowers, snowplows, etc., well away from trees so that trunks, branches and roots are not cut. Use only small hand tools to clear grass and weeds away from trees — and use these tools carefully. Decay and disease can sneak through any tree injury and affect the whole tree.

Too much fertilizer and pesticide can also harm your trees. Be sure you buy lawn and garden chemicals which are not toxic to trees. And, use them only as directed.

You should also be careful if you need to use salt to de-ice your driveway or sidewalks in the winter. Salt, which is toxic to trees, can be absorbed through leaves and roots. Avoid or cut down on the use of salt around trees.

Improper pruning also injures trees — disease can enter the tree through dead or dying stubs. Cut dead or dying branches down to a short stub. Then cut off the stub even with the trunk of the tree. The tree can then protect itself by growing calluses over the stubs.

Cliff Laier

Laier reaches million mark

Terry Allind, general sales manager of Kole Real Estate, Ltd., announced that Cliff Laier, broker-salesman in Kole's Des Plaines office has once again reached the $1 million mark for the third consecutive year, making him an official member of the Million Dollar Club.

Laier is from Wisconsin and graduated from Hayward High School. He then attended the University of Wisconsin in Madison where he studied Mechanical Engineering. He is also a member of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors.

Laier now resides in Arlington Heights with his wife Agnes and their son Phillip.

Can you save on energy costs?

The costs of fuel and building materials can be dramatically affected by the way builders design and produce residential housing.

That's why the Home Builders Association of Greater Chicago will concentrate on ways to improve their energy techniques at the October 30 & 31 Home and Apartment Exposition at the Arlington Park Race Track Exposition Center.

In fact, the first thing builders will see when they enter the EXPO's exhibit area is the "energy corner," where representatives of building materials manufacturers, public utilities, state environmental agencies, city agencies and other energy experts will be available to consult on how to build residential units that waste less energy.

Then, in the seminar that will run concurrently with the exhibit program, the registrants will consider such energy questions as whether financing will be more available to energy-conscious builders, what solar energy offers now and in the future, how architecture can conserve energy and legislation that might affect the energy situation.

The conference is open to persons allied with residential construction.

PhotoMaster gives same day service

Same day service for color prints is the whole idea behind PhotoMaster Ltd., a new company in Schaumburg. PhotoMaster operates a complete processing plant for the newest types of color print films in their store at 1736 Wise Rd. in the Wiseway Plaza.

An extensive line of amateur films from Eastman Kodak and Fuji as well as simple cameras and accessories are carried. Other photofinishing services such as enlargements and movie and slide film processing are handled by outside labs.

The two principals of the store combine many years of experience in the photo field. Bill Collins has over 20 years in the graphic arts, as president of Collins, Miller & Hutchings in Chicago, a director of Graphic Arts Technical Foundation, American Photoplatemakers Association and numerous other organizations. Keith McMillen was a professional photographer for several years and also spent two years working in the supply end of photofinishing.

Cadillac sales remain strong

Cadillac new car sales continued strongly as September domestic deliveries of 27,142 set an all-time September record and wrapped up a second consecutive record quarter of the year, according to Edward C. Kennard, general manager of Cadillac Motor Car Division and vice president of General Motors.

"In the past five months since the introduction of the Seville May 1, Cadillac dealers have set monthly records in June, July, a record daily rate in August and now a record September, all of which add to the great year we're having," Kennard said.

"The July-August-September total of 66,511 surpasses the former third quarter record of 65,875 set in 1973," Kennard explained.

"The September high of 27,142 exceeds the former September record of 26,281 set in 1973 and was aided by a new daily rate record of 1,370 in the final eight selling days of the month," Kennard explained.

"The introduction of the 1976 models has added to the already strong calendar year selling pace of Cadillac dealers which results in a total of 183,475 through September 30," Kennard said. "That's a 21.5 per cent gain over the 150,957 deliveries in the same January 1 to September 30 period a year ago."

30 attend institute classes

Thirty Quinlan and Tyson real estate sales representatives are attending an intensive Residential Sales Training program at the Quinlan and Tyson Institute.

They are taking part in a four-week training program which was expanded to 60 hours of classroom training this year by the North Shore and northwest suburban area real estate firm.

All sessions are being held at the Quinlan and Tyson Institute in Winnetka. The Institute is a permanent classroom for Quinlan and Tyson's extensive in-company educational programs. It is equipped with facilities for 16 milometer sound films, film strips, overhead projectors and cassette recordings.

The Residential Sales Training program is supervised by Richard G. Rutledge, executive vice president, and William B. Martin, senior vice president and general manager-residential sales.

Local real estate sales representatives attending the Institute are:

Arlington Heights-Mt. Prospect: Mary Lou Pelland.

Buffalo Grove: Richard Mitchell, Kay Hynds, Joanne Ryan, Estelle Weirich, Kaye Morrison and Darlene Mayer.

Palatine: Jill Bohrnell, Charlotte Eickenberg, Dolores Moody, Ken Murray and Faye Gutekanst.

Construction is well underway on the new Countryside Mall, Palatine, office of Union Federal Savings, Association president Albert J. Aukers has announced. Completion is anticipated for November 1.

All major interior structural elements of the 4,200 square foot offices have been completed. Interior decorative work, including installation of quarry floor tile, carpeting and acoustical ceiling tile, will begin this week. Architect Adrian Smith of Skidmore, Owings & Merrill designed the office layout and decoration.

Union Federal Savings' leased quarters are located directly across from the Treasure Island supermarket in the Countryside Mall, 1214 W. Baldwin Avenue at Northwest Highway in Palatine.

Approval for Union Federal's fourth full-service office was granted by the Federal Home Loan Bank in Washington, D.C. Since its founding in 1897, Union Federal has grown to over $57 million by providing meaningful financial services to Chicagoland.

Winning theme is selected

Raymond L. Gruhn, president of Des Plaines Auto Parts, has submitted the winning theme for the 1976 national convention of the Automotive Service Industry Assn. next March in San Francisco.

His entry of "Wheels to Freedom" was selected from more than 600 entries.

For coining the convention's '76 theme, Gruhn won the annual ASIA award of free round trip transportation for two from his home city to San Francisco for the ASIA Convention. New industrywide recognition will await the Illinois wholesaler when he arrives at the ASIA Convention, where he will be greeted by the association's president, Vincent A. Fochtman, at the ASIA President's Reception and where he will join ASIA officers and a famous sports celebrity at the speakers' table for the Convention Highlight Luncheon.

Joe Stramaglia hits million mark

Terry Allind, general sales manager of Kole Real Estate, Ltd., announced that Joe Stramaglia has reached the one million dollar mark for this year.

He resides in Roselle with his wife Anne and their two children. She is also a sales associate with Kole's office in Schaumburg.

Folkes hits $3 million

Terry Allind, general sales manager of Kole Real Estate, Ltd., announced that Al Folkes, broker-manager of Kole's Rolling Meadows office, has reached $3 million in real estate sales.

Al Folkes

Folkes started with the Kole organization at the beginning of the company, 10 years ago. He is a lifetime member of the Million Dollar Club and a consistent leader in listings and sales throughout his association with Kole Real Estate.

Folkes, his wife Mary and their daughter Nancy, the youngest of five children reside in Rolling Meadows. He is a member of the Elks Club and the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors.

Dennis O'Keeffe joins Kemmerly

Dennis O'Keeffe has joined the office of Jack L. Kemmerly Real Estate located in Streamwood as associate, recently announced by Jack L. Kemmerly president of the firm.

Dennis O'Keeffe

O'Keeffe attended Northern Illinois University and Loyola University in Chicago. He resides in Hoffman Estates with his wife and two children.

Jack L. Kemmerly has 10 offices located in the northwest suburbs with another office to open in Lake Zurich in January.

Gartzke selected workshop leader

RELO National Headquarters announced the selection of Bruce Gartzke, vice president and director of relocation services of T. A. Bolger, Realtors, as a leader at the September 17 RELO Workshop held at the Holiday Inn-O'Hare Kennedy.

RELO/Inter-City Relocation Service specializes in helping transferred families relocate and T. A. Bolger, Realtors is one of the Chicago Metropolitan members sponsoring the special session to train sales associates in fulfilling the special needs of families on the move.

Gartzke joined T. A. Bolger, Realtors 14 months ago as a sales associate. Since that time Gartzke has seen the firm grow from one office to its present four offices, located in Elk Grove Village, Rolling Meadows, Wheeling and Schaumburg.

Can you save on energy costs?

The costs of fuel and building materials can be dramatically affected by the way builders design and produce residential housing.

That's why the Home Builders Association of Greater Chicago will concentrate on ways to improve their energy techniques at the October 30 & 31 Home and Apartment Exposition at the Arlington Park Race Track Exposition Center.

In fact, the first thing builders will see when they enter the EXPO's exhibit area is the "energy corner," where representatives of building materials manufacturers, public utilities, state environmental agencies, city agencies and other energy experts will be available to consult on how to build residential units that waste less energy.

Then, in the seminar that will run concurrently with the exhibit program, the registrants will consider such energy questions as whether financing will be more available to energy-conscious builders, what solar energy offers now and in the future, how architecture can conserve energy and legislation that might affect the energy situation.

The conference is open to persons allied with residential construction.

PhotoMaster gives same day service

Same day service for color prints is the whole idea behind PhotoMaster Ltd., a new company in Schaumburg. PhotoMaster operates a complete processing plant for the newest types of color print films in their store at 1736 Wise Rd. in the Wiseway Plaza.

An extensive line of amateur films from Eastman Kodak and Fuji as well as simple cameras and accessories are carried. Other photofinishing services such as enlargements and movie and slide film processing are handled by outside labs.

The two principals of the store combine many years of experience in the photo field. Bill Collins has over 20 years in the graphic arts, as president of Collins, Miller & Hutchings in Chicago, a director of Graphic Arts Technical Foundation, American Photoplatemakers Association and numerous other organizations. Keith McMillen was a professional photographer for several years and also spent two years working in the supply end of photofinishing.

Cadillac sales remain strong

Cadillac new car sales continued strongly as September domestic deliveries of 27,142 set an all-time September record and wrapped up a second consecutive record quarter of the year, according to Edward C. Kennard, general manager of Cadillac Motor Car Division and vice president of General Motors.

"In the past five months since the introduction of the Seville May 1, Cadillac dealers have set monthly records in June, July, a record daily rate in August and now a record September, all of which add to the great year we're having," Kennard said.

"The July-August-September total of 66,511 surpasses the former third quarter record of 65,875 set in 1973," Kennard explained.

"The September high of 27,142 exceeds the former September record of 26,281 set in 1973 and was aided by a new daily rate record of 1,370 in the final eight selling days of the month," Kennard explained.

"The introduction of the 1976 models has added to the already strong calendar year selling pace of Cadillac dealers which results in a total of 183,475 through September 30," Kennard said. "That's a 21.5 per cent gain over the 150,957 deliveries in the same January 1 to September 30 period a year ago."

30 attend institute classes

Thirty Quinlan and Tyson real estate sales representatives are attending an intensive Residential Sales Training program at the Quinlan and Tyson Institute.

They are taking part in a four-week training program which was expanded to 60 hours of classroom training this year by the North Shore and northwest suburban area real estate firm.

All sessions are being held at the Quinlan and Tyson Institute in Winnetka. The Institute is a permanent classroom for Quinlan and Tyson's extensive in-company educational programs. It is equipped with facilities for 16 milometer sound films, film strips, overhead projectors and cassette recordings.

The Residential Sales Training program is supervised by Richard G. Rutledge, executive vice president, and William B. Martin, senior vice president and general manager-residential sales.

Local real estate sales representatives attending the Institute are:

Arlington Heights-Mt. Prospect: Mary Lou Pelland.

Buffalo Grove: Richard Mitchell, Kay Hynds, Joanne Ryan, Estelle Weirich, Kaye Morrison and Darlene Mayer.

Palatine: Jill Bohrnell, Charlotte Eickenberg, Dolores Moody, Ken Murray and Faye Gutekanst.

Construction is well underway on the new Countryside Mall, Palatine, office of Union Federal Savings, Association president Albert J. Aukers has announced. Completion is anticipated for November 1.

All major interior structural elements of the 4,200 square foot offices have been completed. Interior decorative work, including installation of quarry floor tile, carpeting and acoustical ceiling tile, will begin this week. Architect Adrian Smith of Skidmore, Owings & Merrill designed the office layout and decoration.

Union Federal Savings' leased quarters are located directly across from the Treasure Island supermarket in the Countryside Mall, 1214 W. Baldwin Avenue at Northwest Highway in Palatine.

Approval for Union Federal's fourth full-service office was granted by the Federal Home Loan Bank in Washington, D.C. Since its founding in 1897, Union Federal has grown to over $57 million by providing meaningful financial services to Chicagoland.

Joe Stramaglia hits million mark

Terry Allind, general sales manager of Kole Real Estate, Ltd., announced that Joe Stramaglia has reached the one million dollar mark for this year.

He resides in Roselle with his wife Anne and their two children. She is also a sales associate with Kole's office in Schaumburg.

Winning theme is selected

Raymond L. Gruhn, president of Des Plaines Auto Parts, has submitted the winning theme for the 1976 national convention of the Automotive Service Industry Assn. next March in San Francisco.

His entry of "Wheels to Freedom" was selected from more than 600 entries.

For coining the convention's '76 theme, Gruhn won the annual ASIA award of free round trip transportation for two from his home city to San Francisco for the ASIA Convention. New industrywide recognition will await the Illinois wholesaler when he arrives at the ASIA Convention, where he will be greeted by the association's president, Vincent A. Fochtman, at the ASIA President's Reception and where he will join ASIA officers and a famous sports celebrity at the speakers' table for the Convention Highlight Luncheon.

Ask Andy

Duckbill platypus a hairy oddity

IS A PLATYPUS A BIRD, A REPTILE OR A MAMMEL?

The duckbill platypus of Australia is one of the oddest animals in the world. This, no doubt, is why we hear strange rumors about him. Some of these reports are misleading; some are downright wrong. This seems unnecessary because the facts about him are almost unbelievable.

His snout looks very much like a duck's bill, which is why he is called the duckbill platypus. He has webbed feet, somewhat like those of a goose, and the female platypus lays eggs. These features, one might think, are enough to qualify the platypus for membership in the bird world. Not at all.

Only birds have feathers. And the platypus wears a super-soft fur coat, with some extra-long hairs to shed the water. He is a warmblooded animal — and all the reptiles are coldblooded creatures. What's more, the snakes, lizards and crocodiles wear scaly skins and turtles wear shells. None of the reptiles wears fur.

So the mysteriour platypus cannot qualify either as a bird or reptile. Surely he must be a mammal because only the mammals wear hairy coats of fur, fleece or bristles. On the other hand, the mammals bear live babies — and the female platypus lays eggs. This brings us close to the proper solution, which depends upon the animal's method of reproduction.

The female lays her eggs in secrecy, sealed inside her burrow. True, they are round, soft-shelled eggs somewhat like those of the reptiles. But unlike the reptiles she nestles her eggs to her furry body until they hatch. What happens next disqualifies her from any relationship to the reptile clan.

The mother platypus feeds her babies on mother's milk. This is the one indisputable feature that qualifies her as a mammal. We can forget her bird-type bill and her reptile-type eggs. For only the mammals feed their babes on mother's milk.

Now let's take a closer look at her questionable features. Her bill is made of leathery material. A duck's bill is hard and stiff. Her two tiny white eggs hatch in a week to 10 days, and the blind babes are quite helpless. Baby reptiles are well developed and able to take care of themselves soon after they hatch.

The platypus is classed as one of the world's two egg-laying mammals. The other is the spiny anteater, who also belongs to Australia. Nowadays they are strange indeed. But scientists suspect that such animals were common about 100 million years ago. At that time, most of the early mammals may have layed eggs and fed their babes on mother's milk.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Diane Reehle, 12, of Allentown, Pa., for her question:

WHY DO BIRDS MIGRATE?

Come fall we watch the birds gather and flock south for the winter. And every year, dozens of young nature lovers wonder why. Let's suppose that they stayed with us through the worst of the wintry weather. Many of them feed on insects, others on plant food. When the snow blows, the bugs and thriving green plants disappear. There is not enough food for all the birds who were here during the summer.

Migrating birds fly to mild-winter climates, where their favorite foods are more plentiful. However, they are crowded and there is not enough food to feed new families of growing chicks. So come spring, the parent birds fly back and spread far and wide. The air teems with insects, and the woods are popping with new greenery. As far as we know, birds do not mind the winter cold very much. It seems that the main reason for their seasonal migrations is simply a matter of groceries.

Folkes hits $3 million

Terry Allind, general sales manager of Kole Real Estate, Ltd., announced that Al Folkes, broker-manager of Kole's Rolling Meadows office, has reached $3 million in real estate sales.

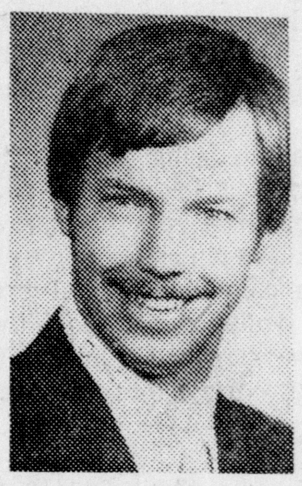
Al Folkes

Folkes started with the Kole organization at the beginning of the company, 10 years ago. He is a lifetime member of the Million Dollar Club and a consistent leader in listings and sales throughout his association with Kole Real Estate.

Folkes, his wife Mary and their daughter Nancy, the youngest of five children reside in Rolling Meadows. He is a member of the Elks Club and the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors.

Dennis O'Keeffe joins Kemmerly

Dennis O'Keeffe has joined the office of Jack L. Kemmerly Real Estate located in Streamwood as associate, recently announced by Jack L. Kemmerly president of the firm.



Dennis O'Keeffe

O'Keeffe attended Northern Illinois University and Loyola University in Chicago. He resides in Hoffman Estates with his wife and two children.

Jack L. Kemmerly has 10 offices located in the northwest suburbs with another office to open in Lake Zurich in January.

Gartzke selected workshop leader

RELO National Headquarters announced the selection of Bruce Gartzke, vice president and director of relocation services of T. A. Bolger, Realtors, as a leader at the September 17 RELO Workshop held at the Holiday Inn-O'Hare Kennedy.

RELO/Inter-City Relocation Service specializes in helping transferred families relocate and T. A. Bolger, Realtors is one of the Chicago Metropolitan members sponsoring the special session to train sales associates in fulfilling the special needs of families on the move.

Gartzke joined T. A. Bolger, Realtors 14 months ago as a sales associate. Since that time Gartzke has seen the firm grow from one office to its present four offices, located in Elk Grove Village, Rolling Meadows, Wheeling and Schaumburg.

Galahad plays club finesse properly

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

If you want an explanation of the bidding of today's hand we must go back to King Arthur's court. Galahad, the pure in spirit, sat South and decided to bid one notrump over Mordred's one heart. He did have good hearts as a good part of his minimum opening.

Dinadan, the worst player, who sat West, raised to two hearts and Lancelot closed the bidding at three notrump.

Dinadan opened the queen of spades and continued with the ace and jack after Galahad held back dummy's king.

Galahad was in dummy and promptly led the jack of clubs. The wily Mordred ducked smoothly, but Galahad rose with his ace. He returned to dummy with the ace of hearts, led the nine of clubs, finessed successfully and wound up with one spade, three hearts, five clubs, game and rubber.

The second-round club finesse was not based on inspiration. West had shown five good spades and four bad hearts. With only a doubleton diamond he would have overcalled, instead of doubling.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Ask Andy

Duckbill platypus a hairy oddity

IS A PLATYPUS A BIRD, A REPTILE OR A MAMMEL?

The duckbill platypus of Australia is one of the oddest animals in the world. This, no doubt, is why we hear strange rumors about him. Some of these reports are misleading; some are downright wrong. This seems unnecessary because the facts about him are almost unbelievable.

His snout looks very much like a duck's bill, which is why he is called the duckbill platypus. He has webbed feet, somewhat like those of a goose, and the female platypus lays eggs. These features, one might think, are enough to qualify the platypus for membership in the bird world. Not at all.

Only birds have feathers. And the platypus wears a super-soft fur coat, with some extra-long hairs to shed the water. He is a warmblooded animal — and all the reptiles are coldblooded creatures. What's more, the snakes, lizards and crocodiles wear scaly skins and turtles wear shells. None of the reptiles wears fur.

So the mysteriour platypus cannot qualify either as a bird or reptile. Surely he must be a mammal because only the mammals wear hairy coats of fur, fleece or bristles. On the other hand, the mammals bear live babies — and the female platypus lays eggs. This brings us close to the proper solution, which depends upon the animal's method of reproduction.

The female lays her eggs in secrecy, sealed inside her burrow. True, they are round, soft-shelled eggs somewhat like those of the reptiles. But unlike the reptiles she nestles her eggs to her furry body until they hatch. What happens next disqualifies her from any relationship to the reptile clan.

The mother platypus feeds her babies on mother's milk. This is the one indisputable feature that qualifies her as a mammal. We can forget her bird-type bill and her reptile-type eggs. For only the mammals feed their babes on mother's milk.

Now let's take a closer look at her questionable features. Her bill is made of leathery material. A duck's bill is hard and stiff. Her two tiny white eggs hatch in a week to 10 days, and the blind babes are quite helpless. Baby reptiles are well developed and able to take care of themselves soon after they hatch.

The platypus is classed as one of the world's two egg-laying mammals. The other is the spiny anteater, who also belongs to Australia. Nowadays they are strange indeed. But scientists suspect that such animals were common about 100 million years ago. At that time, most of the early mammals may have layed eggs and fed their babes on mother's milk.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Diane Reehle, 12, of Allentown, Pa., for her question:

WHY DO BIRDS MIGRATE?

Come fall we watch the birds gather and flock south for the winter. And every year, dozens of young nature lovers wonder why. Let's suppose that they stayed with us through the worst of the wintry weather. Many of them feed on insects, others on plant food. When the snow blows, the bugs and thriving green plants disappear. There is not enough food for all the birds who were here during the summer.

Migrating birds fly to mild-winter climates, where their favorite foods are more plentiful. However, they are crowded and there is not enough food to feed new families of growing chicks. So come spring, the parent birds fly back and spread far and wide. The air teems with insects, and the woods are popping with new greenery. As far as we know, birds do not mind the winter cold very much. It seems that the main reason for their seasonal migrations is simply a matter of groceries.

Galahad plays club finesse properly

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

If you want an explanation of the bidding of today's hand we must go back to King Arthur's court. Galahad, the pure in spirit, sat South and decided to bid one notrump over Mordred's one heart. He did have good hearts as a good part of his minimum opening.

Dinadan, the worst player, who sat West, raised to two hearts and Lancelot closed the bidding at three notrump.

Opening lead — Q ♠

Dinadan opened the queen of spades and continued with the ace and jack after Galahad held back dummy's king.

Galahad was in dummy and promptly led the jack of clubs. The wily Mordred ducked smoothly, but Galahad rose with his ace. He returned to dummy with the ace of hearts, led the nine of clubs, finessed successfully and wound up with one spade, three hearts, five clubs, game and rubber.

The second-round club finesse was not based on inspiration. West had shown five good spades and four bad hearts. With only a doubleton diamond he would have overcalled, instead of doubling.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

AXYDLBAAXR
is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A charitable holiday is in the cards

Holiday cards that convey greetings and at the same time support a worthy cause are appearing more and more each year as senders choose to purchase cards that reflect the true spirit of Christmas — compassion for others less fortunate or in need.

Cards purchased from charitable organizations can help an underprivileged or retarded child. They can help research a dread disease or help a hospital help the sick. Footnotes on the cards tell which charity benefits.

During the past decade many local facilities have joined national organizations and agencies in making Christmas cards available to the public. Many of these cards, a few of which are reprinted here, have been designed by local artists.

BEVERLY FELDMAN of Arlington Heights has designed five cards for Northwest Opportunity Center, a social service agency serving low and poverty-income residents of northwest Cook County with headquarters in Arlington Heights. The cards, with religious, scenic or whimsical themes, sell for $1.50 for a package of 10 and are available at the center, 8 W. College Dr.

A child setting up a manger scene is depicted on the card Nancy Fortunato Anstedt of Palatine designed for Countryside Center for the Handicapped, a day school and rehabilitation workshop in Palatine. The card sells for $5 per package of 25. A Wheaton artist has designed a house and snowman scene for Countryside which sells for $6.50 per package of 25. These cards may be obtained by phoning the center, 438-8855.

FOUR CARDS, A drummer boy, a village scene, a little dog under Christmas tree boughs and a manger scene, have been designed by students at Little City Foundation in Palatine, a residential training and treatment center for the mentally retarded.

Little City cards sell for $5 for 25 and are available at the center, Route 62 and Roselle Roads, 358-5510, or through Mrs. R. L. Muchow, 377 E. Briarwood Ln., Palatine.

FOR THE FIRST time, Clearbrook Center, which serves handicapped children and adults in the northwest area, is offering cards designed by individuals enrolled at the Clearbrook facilities. Muffie Grasso designed a nativity scene; Matt Vlcek, a Christmas tree; Jackie Lehner, a holiday bell; and Gail Cook, an angel. Packages of 25 sell for $5 and are available by calling the Development Office, 255-0120.

A pen and ink drawing of Brockway Street in Palatine as it looked many years ago was created by David Gullett, a Palatine High graduate and art major at Western Illinois University. The card is offered by Palatine Nurses Club and sells at $3 for 24 cards. Mrs. Donald Johnson, 358-2739, and Mrs. Richard Erickson, 359-6570, are taking orders.

PROCEEDS WILL help the nurses staff a well child clinic, provide a nursing scholarship for a local high school senior and purchase and maintain equipment for the club's closet of sick room supplies which are available free to Palatine residents.

A church scene in winter, drawn by Ed Fisher, coordinator of art, music and student teaching for High School Dist. 214, is on the card offered by the Women's Auxiliary of Northwest Community Hospital. The blue on white cards, half price from last year, sell for $2.50 for 25 and are available from auxiliary members or the hospital's Pink Lady Shop, CL9-1000.

WHILE ALEXIAN Brothers Medical Center Auxiliary does not offer a card by a local artist, it does offer a large selection of cards which come with inserts explaining that the purchase benefits the hospital. Prices range from $5 to $14.50 for 25 cards which are available in the hospital gift shop or from Sue Powers, 885-1629, through Dec. 1.

Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society, a non-profit child welfare agency, is offering a card inspired by Michaelangelo, a white, embossed head of child mounted on bright green. The card sells for $6.25 for 25. Kay Craig of the area's Countryside Auxiliary ICHA is taking orders at 397-2349.

THE CHICAGO chapter of Sudden Infant Death Syndrome, which serves the northwest suburbs, offers a white peace dove on blue for $5.75 per box of 25, and a silver rainbow card at $6.50 for 25. Pam Douglas, Elk Grove Village, may be contacted at 956-8562 for orders or samples.

Palatine office of the American Cancer Society is offering the society's winter scene card for a minimum contribution of $12.50 for 25 cards. The number to call is 358-3965.

Christmas cards to benefit diabetes research are being sold by the Mount Prospect office of the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation. Two colorful cards, both picturing children, may be viewed by calling Pat Partlow at 259-9558. Bonnie Stoltz, 593-4298, may be called by Schaumburg area card shoppers. Both cards sell for $5 for 25.

ALL THREE AREA groups of the League of Women Voters are again showing brochures and taking orders on a large selection of UNICEF cards which range in price from 10 for $2.25 to $5. There is also a variety box of 25 for $3.50.

Taking orders are Sherry Schultz of the Arlington Heights League, 255-7002; Mary Ann Lucas, Hoffman Estates-Schaumburg, 885-2279; Carolyn Roberts, Des Plaines, 296-1203. The cards are also available at Form Co-op Furniture in the Woodfield Commons Shopping Center.

A card with a Bicentennial theme in red, white and blue with an American Eagle weathervane is included in the five cards offered by the Chicago Heart Association. The North Cook County office, 675-1535, may be called for samples.

ALSO OFFERING cards are Lutheran Charities, Addison, 297-8870; Lutheran Welfare Services of Illinois, 4840 W. Byron St., Chicago, Ill., 60602; Leukemia Research Foundation, Chicago, FR-2-2186; Brain Tumor Research, Chicago, 329-1875.

Also, Multiple Sclerosis, Chicago, 922-8000; Fund for Perceptually Handicapped Children, Inc., Wilmette, 251-9479; Orchard Village, Skokie, 965-6178; Ray Graham Association, Addison, 543-8090.

Youth Guidance and Lake Bluff Chicago Homes for Children are not offering cards this year.

FOR MORE THAN 22 years the National Epilepsy League, 6 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, 60602, has been offering its Little Christmas Town advent calendar. It sells for $1.50, or in orders of five or more to the same person, for $1.25 each.

Purchase of cards that benefit charities is a lasting contribution that will have meaning not only at Christmas but all through the year. At least a portion of your donation helps humanity; it also provides a tax deduction.

Dr. Mary Calderone: sex knows no age

by IRA BERKOW

She is 72 years old, a gray-haired great-grandmother who had been called a "moral degenerate" and "a pervert" by someone in the audience when she appeared on a national television talk show. More statesmanlike, a Louisiana congressman once labeled her "an aging libertine," and submitted to Congress that she be investigated.

Meanwhile, this past summer, Dr. Mary S. Calderone was selected in a poll conducted by Newspaper Enterprise Association as one o fthe 50 most influential women in the United States. Also, she had recently received an honorary degree from Brandeis University.

All this — or most of it — because Dr. Calderone talks about the birds and the bees.

"NO," SHE CORRECTS, "the birds and the bees have nothing to do with our sex lives — except to distort our view of the joys of sex.

"The birds and the bees are interested only in reproduction, and have sex depending upon climatic factors, length of day, prevailing temperature, state of nutrition. They mate and that's it.

"But humans are born to be sexual. We have a powerful need to enjoy sex. Yet most societies try to deny this. Especially America, which is one of the most anti-sexual societies there is."

Dr. Calderone has organized these thoughts into an institution, and in 1964 helped found the Sex Information and Education Council of the United States (SIECUS), with offices in Manhattan. It is funded by foundation grants and private donations. Dr. Calderone is now the executive director.

SHE HAD BEEN medical director from 1953 until 1964 with the Planned Parenthood Federation of America. She saw a growing need for a more enlightened understanding of sex in America, and thus SIECUS. "I felt," she says, "that I had a mission."

She sat now in her modest office, a cheerful, firmly-built woman in a natty gray suit and demure purple earrings. She wore an elastic brace on her right wrist because, she says, of all the writing and editing she does.

"At Planned Parenthood, people used to write me about their sexual problems," she said. 'I guess they had no one else to write to. Sometimes the letters were tragic, the guilt people felt about their sexuality.

"I REMEMBER one elderly gentleman who wrote. He was widowed for about two years. He had had a tremendous physical relationship with his wife, and missed her acutely, as a person and as a sex mate. He said he loved her too much to now seek another woman, and wondered if it would be all right to masturbate.

"Well, neither I nor anyone else can mediate between one person and his or her conscience. But I related the facts to him, as physicians and psychologists have found them to be. Masturbation puts you in intense touch with yourself — literally and figuratively — and you are relieving natural tension in a healthy and satisfying way.

"But I know the stigma of masturbation — that it is supposed to be sinful and damaging. We learn this from childhood on. My mother once came upon me when I was masturbating when I was five or six years old — and she thought it was the darkest and worst thing I cold do.

"YOU CAN CARRY scars of such memories all your life. Even when you are fortunate enough to eventually understand the truth, the memory does not vanish."

She added that masturbation was one of many areas of misunderstanding that we have about sex.

"Another," she said, "is that old people aren't supposed to be interested in sex. In fact, anyone past, say, 50, is considered too decrepit or something for sex. But that's a hoax of the first order. It all depends on your individual attitude. Picasso said, "Youth has no age.' I might add that 'Age has no age.'

"Masters and Johnson studies show that elderly males, for example, may have diminished capacity for ejaculation, but they have an increased capacity for maintaining an erection.

"AND WOMEN have been brainwashed as well. Women past 50 aren't supposed to think about sex, let alone like it. They are supposed to say, 'I'm through with all this foolishness.' But they miss a chance for a beautiful old age.

"I think society has an obligation to accord them the opportunity to continue their sexual lives. You know, more and more we're hearing about elderly couples living with each other outside of marriage. Sometimes they avoid marriage in order to retain the maximum of their retirement benefits. And I think it's wonderful that they have this relationship. I find that the older I get the more life turns me on. My interests broaden, my friendships are enriched.

"I WAS GIVING a talk not long ago at a high school. And one student raised his hand, and then asked, 'Dr. Calderone, how old are you, do you still have sex with your husband, and if you do, can you enjoy it?'

"I answered, "I'm 72, and yes and yes.' Sure, older people change. You may not run around the block as fast — but you haven't lost the capacity for locomotion."

The wedding was in Iowa

Mr. and Mrs. William P. Moore

William Penland Moore of Arlington Heights and his bride, Catherine Dana Charlton of Des Moines, Iowa, are both graduates of Principia College, Elsah, Ill.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Moore, Bill was graduated from Arlington High before beginning his studies at Principia.

Bill and Cathy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Craig Charlton, are now residing in Milwaukee where Bill is a sales representative for Burroughs Corp.

Their marriage took place Sept. 27 in Redeemer Lutheran Church, Des Moines, in an 11 a.m. double ring service. Cathy wore a gown of ivory peau with peau d'ange lace and a wide-brimmed hat of chiffon ruffles. Her flowers were gardenias and stephanotis. Her "something old" was an heirloom pendant necklace which had been worn by her great-grandmother on her wedding day in 1893.

MAID OF HONOR was Cathy's sister, Betsy, and bridesmaids were the groom's sister, Lucinda, and Martha Manning, roommate of the bride from Stillwater, Okla.

Their cape-collared gowns were in yellow crepe, and they carried nosegays of mums, roses and bittersweet in fall tones.

Tom Carroll, Kansas City, Mo., roommate of the groom, was best man, and ushers were Gary Brankin, Mount Prospect; Scott Reagan, Tinley Park; and Norman Knights, St. Louis.

A brunch reception for 150 guests was held at the PEO Centennial Center in Des Moines, after which the newlyweds honeymooned two weeks in California.

Bridal pair purchases a new home

A newly-built and purchased house in Bartlett is the first home for newlyweds Carol Ann Ziegler and Jerome M. Bernacki Jr. Married Sept. 27 in St. Marcelline Church, Schaumburg, the couple honeymooned at the Marriott Hotel and at Lake of the Ozarks.

Carol, daughter of the Robert J. Zieglers, Schaumburg, and Jerome, son of the Jerome Bernackis, Hanover Park, exchanged vows and rings in a 3 p.m. service that was followed by a reception for 175 guests at the Navarone Restaurant in Elk Grove Village. The groom's uncle, Rev. William J. Bernacki, O.P., St. Vincent Church, River Forest, officiated at the nuptial mass.

AN ALL-LACE gown with hooped skirt was Carol's choice in wedding gown. A lace Juliet cap held her veil, and she carried white roses and stephanotis. Her "something borrowed" were the pearl earrings worn by her mother at her wedding.

Kathleen Ziegler, Elgin, was her sister's maid of honor, and Debbie Scire, Elgin, and Carole Capritta, Schaumburg, were bridesmaids. All wore light blue chiffon gowns and blue picture hats, and carried white roses and carnations with blue starflowers.

The groom's attendants, all of Schaumburg, were Tom Capritta, best man, and Norm Fogerty and Brian Marchan, ushers. Offertory gifts during the mass were presented by the bride's brother, Robert, and the groom's sisters, Linda and Mary.

The new Mrs. Bernacki, a '74 graduate of Schaumburg High, is with Motorola, Schaumburg, and the groom, a '73 graduate of Schaumburg High, is with Northwest Lincoln Mercury, Schaumburg.

A charitable holiday is in the cards

Holiday cards that convey greetings and at the same time support a worthy cause are appearing more and more each year as senders choose to purchase cards that reflect the true spirit of Christmas — compassion for others less fortunate or in need.

Cards purchased from charitable organizations can help an underprivileged or retarded child. They can help research a dread disease or help a hospital help the sick. Footnotes on the cards tell which charity benefits.

During the past decade many local facilities have joined national organizations and agencies in making Christmas cards available to the public. Many of these cards, a few of which are reprinted here, have been designed by local artists.

BEVERLY FELDMAN of Arlington Heights has designed five cards for Northwest Opportunity Center, a social service agency serving low and poverty-income residents of northwest Cook County with headquarters in Arlington Heights. The cards, with religious, scenic or whimsical themes, sell for $1.50 for a package of 10 and are available at the center, 8 W. College Dr.

A child setting up a manger scene is depicted on the card Nancy Fortunato Anstedt of Palatine designed for Countryside Center for the Handicapped, a day school and rehabilitation workshop in Palatine. The card sells for $5 per package of 25. A Wheaton artist has designed a house and snowman scene for Countryside which sells for $6.50 per package of 25. These cards may be obtained by phoning the center, 438-8855.

FOUR CARDS. A drummer boy, a village scene, a little dog under Christmas tree boughs and a manger scene, have been designed by students at Little City Foundation in Palatine, a residential training and treatment center for the mentally retarded.

Little City cards sell for $5 for 25 and are available at the center, Route 62 and Roselle Roads, 358-5510, or through Mrs. R. L. Muchow, 377 E. Briarwood Ln., Palatine.

FOR THE FIRST time, Clearbrook Center, which serves handicapped children and adults in the northwest area, is offering cards designed by individuals enrolled at the Clearbrook facilities. Muffie Grasso designed a nativity scene; Matt Vlcek, a Christmas tree; Jackie Lehner, a holiday bell; and Gail Cook, an angel. Packages of 25 sell for $5 and are available by calling the Development Office, 255-0120.

A pen and ink drawing of Brockway Street in Palatine as it looked many years ago was created by David Gullett, a Palatine High graduate and art major at Western Illinois University. The card is offered by Palatine Nurses Club and sells at $3 for 24 cards. Mrs. Donald Johnson, 358-2739, and Mrs. Richard Erickson, 359-6570, are taking orders.

PROCEEDS WILL help the nurses staff a well child clinic, provide a nursing scholarship for a local high school senior and purchase and maintain equipment for the club's closet of sick room supplies which are available free to Palatine residents.

A church scene in winter, drawn by Ed Fisher, coordinator of art, music and student teaching for High School Dist. 214, is on the card offered by the Women's Auxiliary of Northwest Community Hospital. The blue on white cards, half price from last year, sell for $2.50 for 25 and are available from auxiliary members or the hospital's Pink Lady Shop, CL9-1000.

WHILE ALEXIAN Brothers Medical Center Auxiliary does not offer a card by a local artist, it does offer a large selection of cards which come with inserts explaining that the purchase benefits the hospital. Prices range from $5 to $14.50 for 25 cards which are available in the hospital gift shop or from Sue Powers, 885-1629, through Dec. 1.

Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society, a non-profit child welfare agency, is offering a card inspired by Michaelangelo, a white, embossed head of child mounted on bright green. The card sells for $6.25 for 25. Kay Craig of the area's Countryside Auxiliary ICHA is taking orders at 397-2349.

THE CHICAGO chapter of Sudden Infant Death Syndrome, which serves the northwest suburbs, offers a white peace dove on blue for $5.75 per box of 25, and a silver rainbow card at $6.50 for 25. Pam Douglas, Elk Grove Village, may be contacted at 956-8562 for orders or samples.

Palatine office of the American Cancer Society is offering the society's winter scene card for a minimum contribution of $12.50 for 25 cards. The number to call is 358-3965.

Christmas cards to benefit diabetes research are being sold by the Mount Prospect office of the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation. Two colorful cards, both picturing children, may be viewed by calling Pat Partlow at 259-9558. Bonnie Stoltz, 593-4298, may be called by Schaumburg area card shoppers. Both cards sell for $5 for 25.

ALL THREE AREA groups of the League of Women Voters are again showing brochures and taking orders on a large selection of UNICEF cards which range in price from 10 for $2.25 to $5. There is also a variety box of 25 for $3.50.

Taking orders are Sherry Schultz of the Arlington Heights League, 255-7002; Mary Ann Lucas, Hoffman Estates-Schaumburg, 885-2279; Carolyn Roberts, Des Plaines, 296-1203. The cards are also available at Form Co-op Furniture in the Woodfield Commons Shopping Center.

A card with a Bicentennial theme in red, white and blue with an American Eagle weathervane is included in the five cards offered by the Chicago Heart Association. The North Cook County office, 675-1535, may be called for samples.

ALSO OFFERING cards are Lutheran Charities, Addison, 297-8870; Lutheran Welfare Services of Illinois, 4840 W. Byron St., Chicago, Ill., 60602; Leukemia Research Foundation, Chicago, FR-2-2186; Brain Tumor Research, Chicago, 329-1875.

Also, Multiple Sclerosis, Chicago, 922-8000; Fund for Perceptually Handicapped Children, Inc., Wilmette, 251-9479; Orchard Village, Skokie, 965-6178; Ray Graham Association, Addison, 543-8090.

Youth Guidance and Lake Bluff Chicago Homes for Children are not offering cards this year.

FOR MORE THAN 22 years the National Epilepsy League, 6 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, 60602, has been offering its Little Christmas Town advent calendar. It sells for $1.50, or in orders of five or more to the same person, for $1.25 each.

Purchase of cards that benefit charities is a lasting contribution that will have meaning not only at Christmas but all through the year. At least a portion of your donation helps humanity; it also provides a tax deduction.

Dr. Mary Calderone: sex knows no age

by IRA BERKOW

She is 72 years old, a gray-haired great-grandmother who had been called a "moral degenerate" and "a pervert" by someone in the audience when she appeared on a national television talk show. More statesmanlike, a Louisiana congressman once labeled her "an aging libertine," and submitted to Congress that she be investigated.

Meanwhile, this past summer, Dr. Mary S. Calderone was selected in a poll conducted by Newspaper Enterprise Association as one o fthe 50 most influential women in the United States. Also, she had recently received an honorary degree from Brandeis University.

All this — or most of it — because Dr. Calderone talks about the birds and the bees.

"NO," SHE CORRECTS, "the birds and the bees have nothing to do with our sex lives — except to distort our view of the joys of sex.

"The birds and the bees are interested only in reproduction, and have sex depending upon climatic factors, length of day, prevailing temperature, state of nutrition. They mate and that's it.

"But humans are born to be sexual. We have a powerful need to enjoy sex. Yet most societies try to deny this. Especially America, which is one of the most anti-sexual societies there is."

Dr. Calderone has organized these thoughts into an institution, and in 1964 helped found the Sex Information and Education Council of the United States (SIECUS), with offices in Manhattan. It is funded by foundation grants and private donations. Dr. Calderone is now the executive director.

SHE HAD BEEN medical director from 1953 until 1964 with the Planned Parenthood Federation of America. She saw a growing need for a more enlightened understanding of sex in America, and thus SIECUS. "I felt," she says, "that I had a mission."

She sat now in her modest office, a cheerful, firmly-built woman in a natty gray suit and demure purple earrings. She wore an elastic brace on her right wrist because, she says, of all the writing and editing she does.

"At Planned Parenthood, people used to write me about their sexual problems," she said. 'I guess they had no one else to write to. Sometimes the letters were tragic, the guilt people felt about their sexuality.

"I REMEMBER one elderly gentleman who wrote. He was widowed for about two years. He had had a tremendous physical relationship with his wife, and missed her acutely, as a person and as a sex mate. He said he loved her too much to now seek another woman, and wondered if it would be all right to masturbate.

"Well, neither I nor anyone else can mediate between one person and his or her conscience. But I related the facts to him, as physicians and psychologists have found them to be. Masturbation puts you in intense touch with yourself — literally and figuratively — and you are relieving natural tension in a healthy and satisfying way.

"But I know the stigma of masturbation — that it is supposed to be sinful and damaging. We learn this from childhood on. My mother once came upon me when I was masturbating when I was five or six years old — and she thought it was the darkest and worst thing I cold do.

"YOU CAN CARRY scars of such memories all your life. Even when you are fortunate enough to eventually understand the truth, the memory does not vanish."

She added that masturbation was one of many areas of misunderstanding that we have about sex.

"Another," she said, "is that old people aren't supposed to be interested in sex. In fact, anyone past, say, 50, is considered too decrepit or something for sex. But that's a hoax of the first order. It all depends on your individual attitude. Picasso said, "Youth has no age.' I might add that 'Age has no age.'

"Masters and Johnson studies show that elderly males, for example, may have diminished capacity for ejaculation, but they have an increased capacity for maintaining an erection.

"AND WOMEN have been brainwashed as well. Women past 50 aren't supposed to think about sex, let alone like it. They are supposed to say, 'I'm through with all this foolishness.' But they miss a chance for a beautiful old age.

"I think society has an obligation to accord them the opportunity to continue their sexual lives. You know, more and more we're hearing about elderly couples living with each other outside of marriage. Sometimes they avoid marriage in order to retain the maximum of their retirement benefits. And I think it's wonderful that they have this relationship. I find that the older I get the more life turns me on. My interests broaden, my friendships are enriched.

"I WAS GIVING a talk not long ago at a high school. And one student raised his hand, and then asked, 'Dr. Calderone, how old are you, do you still have sex with your husband, and if you do, can you enjoy it?'

"I answered, "I'm 72, and yes and yes.' Sure, older people change. You may not run around the block as fast — but you haven't lost the capacity for locomotion."

Airline deregulation hailed by Nader group

The consumer

by Monica Wilch Perin

A proposal by President Ford to deregulate the airlines has been hailed by a Ralph Nader group as good news for consumers.

Nader's Airline Consumer Action Project (ACAP) said it is "very pleased" with Ford's proposal that Congress strip the Civil Aeronautics Board of its iron-clad authority to set airline fares and routes.

ACAP affirmed Transportation Secretary William Coleman's prediction that the deregulation may lower airline fares and would give passengers more options such as economy no-frills flights.

The proposal would also eliminate CAB's role as promoter of airlines. It will not, however, affect safety regulation, which is handled by the Federal Aviation Administration.

REGULATORY AGENCIES such as the CAB have long been criticized by consumer advocates and by Federal Trade Commission Chairman Lewis Engman on grounds they create monopoly situations and artificially high prices.

The CAB sets all air fares (which apply to all the airlines) and it tells the airlines where each may fly. No airline can change a fare, up or down, or add or eliminate a particular route without CAB permission.

Under the proposed legislation, the airlines would be able to change fares within certain limits and would be allowed to fly to any U.S. city they wish.

"The airlines would be competing on air service rather than on piano bars and gourmet cuisine," said Pat Kennedy of ACAP.

SHE DISAGREED with the airlines' objection that the deregulation will reduce or eliminate air service to smaller communities and that it would "lead to increased costs to consumers," a theory that was not explained by the airlines.

Ms. Kennedy suggested instead that smaller planes would be produced to serve routes with less demand, which now are either not served or are served inefficiently by large planes flying half empty.

She also predicted that smaller airlines would come into existence to serve commuter-type routes, as has occurred in Texas and California.

The proposal would also eliminate the CAB's authority to exempt the airlines from antitrust laws, meaning the airlines could no longer collaborate to limit the number of seats they will offer on a given route and other anti-competitive activities.

THEY WOULD still be allowed, however, to engage in agreements that serve the public interest, such as ticket exchange, joint reservations and baggage pacts.

Strangely enough the airlines are fighting the proposal — which lends further credence to the charges that regulatory agencies actually help, not hinder, the industries they regulate.

According to Ms. Kennedy, it is hard to say at this time what chance the legislation has in Congress, but it is a sure bet that the airlines' "incredible lobby," as Ms. Kennedy called it, will be unloosed to fight the proposal.

The wedding was in Iowa

Mr. and Mrs. William P. Moore

William Penland Moore of Arlington Heights and his bride, Catherine Dana Charlton of Des Moines, Iowa, are both graduates of Principia College, Elsah, Ill.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Moore, Bill was graduated from Arlington High before beginning his studies at Principia.

Bill and Cathy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Craig Charlton, are now residing in Milwaukee where Bill is a sales representative for Burroughs Corp.

Their marriage took place Sept. 27 in Redeemer Lutheran Church, Des Moines, in an 11 a.m. double ring service. Cathy wore a gown of ivory peau with peau d'ange lace and a wide-brimmed hat of chiffon ruffles. Her flowers were gardenias and stephanotis. Her "something old" was an heirloom pendant necklace which had been worn by her great-grandmother on her wedding day in 1893.

MAID OF HONOR was Cathy's sister, Betsy, and bridesmaids were the groom's sister, Lucinda, and Martha Manning, roommate of the bride from Stillwater, Okla.

Their cape-collared gowns were in yellow crepe, and they carried nosegays of mums, roses and bittersweet in fall tones.

Tom Carroll, Kansas City, Mo., roommate of the groom, was best man, and ushers were Gary Brankin, Mount Prospect; Scott Reagan, Tinley Park; and Norman Knights, St. Louis.

A brunch reception for 150 guests was held at the PEO Centennial Center in Des Moines, after which the newlyweds honeymooned two weeks in California.

Bridal pair purchases a new home

A newly-built and purchased house in Bartlett is the first home for newlyweds Carol Ann Ziegler and Jerome M. Bernacki Jr. Married Sept. 27 in St. Marcelline Church, Schaumburg, the couple honeymooned at the Marriott Hotel and at Lake of the Ozarks.

Carol, daughter of the Robert J. Zieglers, Schaumburg, and Jerome, son of the Jerome Bernackis, Hanover Park, exchanged vows and rings in a 3 p.m. service that was followed by a reception for 175 guests at the Navarone Restaurant in Elk Grove Village. The groom's uncle, Rev. William J. Bernacki, O.P., St. Vincent Church, River Forest, officiated at the nuptial mass.

AN ALL-LACE gown with hooped skirt was Carol's choice in wedding gown. A lace Juliet cap held her veil, and she carried white roses and stephanotis. Her "something borrowed" were the pearl earrings worn by her mother at her wedding.

Kathleen Ziegler, Elgin, was her sister's maid of honor, and Debbie Scire, Elgin, and Carole Capritta, Schaumburg, were bridesmaids. All wore light blue chiffon gowns and blue picture hats, and carried white roses and carnations with blue starflowers.

The groom's attendants, all of Schaumburg, were Tom Capritta, best man, and Norm Fogerty and Brian Marchan, ushers. Offertory gifts during the mass were presented by the bride's brother, Robert, and the groom's sisters, Linda and Mary.

The new Mrs. Bernacki, a '74 graduate of Schaumburg High, is with Motorola, Schaumburg, and the groom, a '73 graduate of Schaumburg High, is with Northwest Lincoln Mercury, Schaumburg.

Airline deregulation hailed by Nader group

by Monica Wilch Perin

A proposal by President Ford to deregulate the airlines has been hailed by a Ralph Nader group as good news for consumers.

Nader's Airline Consumer Action Project (ACAP) said it is "very pleased" with Ford's proposal that Congress strip the Civil Aeronautics Board of its iron-clad authority to set airline fares and routes.

ACAP affirmed Transportation Secretary William Coleman's prediction that the deregulation may lower airline fares and would give passengers more options such as economy no-frills flights.

The proposal would also eliminate CAB's role as promoter of airlines. It will not, however, affect safety regulation, which is handled by the Federal Aviation Administration.

REGULATORY AGENCIES such as the CAB have long been criticized by consumer advocates and by Federal Trade Commission Chairman Lewis Engman on grounds they create monopoly situations and artificially high prices.

The CAB sets all air fares (which apply to all the airlines) and it tells the airlines where each may fly. No airline can change a fare, up or down, or add or eliminate a particular route without CAB permission.

Under the proposed legislation, the airlines would be able to change fares within certain limits and would be allowed to fly to any U.S. city they wish.

"The airlines would be competing on air service rather than on piano bars and gourmet cuisine," said Pat Kennedy of ACAP.

SHE DISAGREED with the airlines' objection that the deregulation will reduce or eliminate air service to smaller communities and that it would "lead to increased costs to consumers," a theory that was not explained by the airlines.

Ms. Kennedy suggested instead that smaller planes would be produced to serve routes with less demand, which now are either not served or are served inefficiently by large planes flying half empty.

She also predicted that smaller airlines would come into existence to serve commuter-type routes, as has occurred in Texas and California.

The proposal would also eliminate the CAB's authority to exempt the airlines from antitrust laws, meaning the airlines could no longer collaborate to limit the number of seats they will offer on a given route and other anti-competitive activities.

THEY WOULD still be allowed, however, to engage in agreements that serve the public interest, such as ticket exchange, joint reservations and baggage pacts.

Strangely enough the airlines are fighting the proposal — which lends further credence to the charges that regulatory agencies actually help, not hinder, the industries they regulate.

According to Ms. Kennedy, it is hard to say at this time what chance the legislation has in Congress, but it is a sure bet that the airlines' "incredible lobby," as Ms. Kennedy called it, will be unloosed to fight the proposal.

Happenings

Halloween dance

The "Pussy Cat Prowl" is the name of the Halloween dance planned for members and guests of Northwest Suburban Chapter 168, Parents Without Partners. Music by The High Risers will fill the Casa Royale in Des Plaines for the Friday, Oct. 31, event. Costumes are optional; admission is $2.50 per person.

PWP is open to single parents, whether widowed, divorced, separated or unmarried, and their children. Information 297-2285.

Theater party

Palatine Center of the Infant Welfare Society will open the season with a theater dinner dance Saturday, Nov. 15, at Drury Lane North, Marriott Lincolnshire Resort. The play is "My Three Angels," a sentimental comedy starring Chuck Connors.

The performance begins at 6 p.m., with cocktails from 8:30 to 9:30, followed by dinner and dancing.

The cost is $40 per couple. Reservations should be made by Nov. 1 with Cinda Hill, 359-3373.

Hawaiian show

In keeping with the celebrations for the Bicentennial, St. Stephen's Altar and Rosary Society will honor the 50th state, Hawaii, at its fall luncheon and fashion show. The annual event is slated Saturday, Nov. 1, at Old Orchard Country Club. Fashions by the Hawaiian Shop of Evanston will be modeled by Kiwis, a group of former American Airlines stewardesses.

Tickets at $7.50 are available after all masses in the Des Plaines church or by calling 296-5192.

Harvest brunch

The Women's Guild of Our Redeemer Lutheran Church, Prospect Heights, is hosting a Sunday brunch Nov. 2 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the church hall, 304 W. Palatine Rd.

Tickets are $3.50 for adults, $1.50 for children through eighth grade, 50 cents for preschoolers.

Mrs. Rhoda Neukuckatz, 537-6630, is in charge of reservations.

Gift wrap course

Creative gift-givers will have their original wrapping ready for the holiday season if they participate in the MONACEP class on Gift Wrapping, beginning Thursday, Nov. 6, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Maine South High School, 1111 S. Dee Road, Park Ridge.

The three-week course offers an opportunity to create original wrappings which add a personalized touch to any package. The fee is $9 for both residents and non-residents of Maine and Niles Townships.

Information from MONACEP, 967-5821.

Coffee pot needs occasional sweetening

The home line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: We chipped in at the office and bought a good electric percolator last year. It's been giving great service and going steadily all day long all this time, but suddenly some of us think the coffee is either bitter or, as someone said, metallic. Do percolators in constant use go haywire? — Nancy Beth Hollings

Not haywire, Nancy Beth. Yours just sounds as if it needs sweetening. Bring a little cream of tartar from home. Fill the percolator almost to the top with cold water and add a tablespoon of the cream of tartar. Put in the basket, set it on strong, and let it perk through one cycle. Then wash with plain water, rinse well and dry each part separately. If there are any coffee stains in the pot. any good coffee stain remover will take care of them. Every coffee pot needs this kind of sweetening from time to time.

Dear Dorothy: What is the best way to preserve cattails? — Imogene Lemond

The simplest way seems to be hair spray. One report said they could be dipped in clear shellac or varnish, then painted if desired. Another method is to dip the stems in an inch of melted paraffin when they are first picked. They can be kept natural then or painted.

Dear Dorothy: We bought a lovely trunk at a garage sale. I'd love to use it to store seasonal items (like blankets). However, there's a musty odor. How can I get it out? — Joy Brear

Several ways: Put in toilet soap, pomanders, dried lavender, activated charcoal granules or spray with a fragrant shaving lotion — and keep closed for 48 to 72 hours.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Toothsome snacks

Between meal nibblers can capitalize on their eating habits. Munch on apples and celery, for example, to cut down calories, exercise gums and cut down on general dental problems caused by too many sweet snacks.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Brezwyn

Wisconsin honeymoon

Laura Jayne Schoemer of Schaumburg and her bridegroom, Michael Brezwyn of Chicago, honeymooned in Door County, Wisconsin, following their Sept. 13 wedding in St. Marcelline Church, Schaumburg.

Parents of the couple are the Hans Schoemers and Mrs. D. Brezwyn.

Kim Schoemer was her sister's maid of honor for the afternoon, double ring service. Her cousin, Karen Maier, Morton Grove, and Kathy Mahoney, North Riverside, were bridesmaids and Beth Reconnu, Hoffman Estates, was flower girl.

MICHAEL SCHULZ, Chicago, served Pytel and the bride's brother, Richas Michael's best man, with James ard, as groomsmen. The ring bearer was Charles Sajdak, Des Plaines.

The couuple's reception was held at Floyds in Carpentersville.

Both are working in the area, Laura for Molon Motors, Rolling Meadows, and Michael for Biltmore Tire Co., Elk Grove Village. She is a '74 graduate of Schaumburg High School.

The newlyweds have an apartment in Hanover Park.

Lynne Butler, Doug Jones first 'met' in the nursery

Although Lynne D. Butler and Douglas B. Jones became acquainted at Northern Illinois University, they had their start in the same hospital in Chicago only a day apart and probably first "met" in the infant nursery.

Lynne, daughter of the R. L. Butlers of Arlington Heights, and Doug, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce E. Jones of Rolling Meadows, attended a social function at NIU that included members of Sigma Chi Fraternity and Alpha Sigma Alpha Sorority. Lynne is now a counselor at Wheeling High School, and Doug is working on his master's in business at Northern. Both have their bachelor's from the university and Lynne her master's also.

Ther were married Sept. 28 in the First United Methodist Church, Arlington Heights, and greeted 150 guests at a reception at Nordic Hills Country Club.

FOR THE 3 p.m. rites Lynne wore a white Qiana gown with pearl and bead trim and a cathedral-length veil attached to a matching pearl headpiece. She carried a cascade of silk flowers with cornhusk centers, apricot roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Her college roommate, Susan D. Bendelow of Oak Park, was her maid of honor, wearing an apricot jersey gown with a floor-length cape and carrying a cascade of silk and dried flowers. Bridesmaids were Judy Butler, Taylor Mich.: Debbie Butler, Elk Grove Village: and Barbara Jones, Palatine. Judy and Debbie are the bride's sisters-in-law; Barbara is Doug's sister. All were gowned exactly like the maid of honor.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Jones

SERVING THE groom were Robert Ostrander, Cortland, Ill., as best man, with Clifford Ecklund, Genoa City, Wis., and Lynne's brothers, Scott and Craig, as groomsmen.

The newlyweds are living in Palatine after a brief honeymoon at the Lincolnshire Marriott.

The bride graduated in 1970 from Arlington High School, the groom from Forest View High.

Happenings

Halloween dance

The "Pussy Cat Prowl" is the name of the Halloween dance planned for members and guests of Northwest Suburban Chapter 168, Parents Without Partners. Music by The High Risers will fill the Casa Royale in Des Plaines for the Friday, Oct. 31, event. Costumes are optional; admission is $2.50 per person.

PWP is open to single parents, whether widowed, divorced, separated or unmarried, and their children. Information 297-2285.

Theater party

Palatine Center of the Infant Welfare Society will open the season with a theater dinner dance Saturday, Nov. 15, at Drury Lane North, Marriott Lincolnshire Resort. The play is "My Three Angels," a sentimental comedy starring Chuck Connors.

The performance begins at 6 p.m., with cocktails from 8:30 to 9:30, followed by dinner and dancing.

The cost is $40 per couple. Reservations should be made by Nov. 1 with Cinda Hill, 359-3373.

Hawaiian show

In keeping with the celebrations for the Bicentennial, St. Stephen's Altar and Rosary Society will honor the 50th state, Hawaii, at its fall luncheon and fashion show. The annual event is slated Saturday, Nov. 1, at Old Orchard Country Club. Fashions by the Hawaiian Shop of Evanston will be modeled by Kiwis, a group of former American Airlines stewardesses.

Tickets at $7.50 are available after all masses in the Des Plaines church or by calling 296-5192.

Harvest brunch

The Women's Guild of Our Redeemer Lutheran Church, Prospect Heights, is hosting a Sunday brunch Nov. 2 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the church hall, 304 W. Palatine Rd.

Tickets are $3.50 for adults, $1.50 for children through eighth grade, 50 cents for preschoolers.

Mrs. Rhoda Neukuckatz, 537-6630, is in charge of reservations.

Gift wrap course

Creative gift-givers will have their original wrapping ready for the holiday season if they participate in the MONACEP class on Gift Wrapping, beginning Thursday, Nov. 6, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Maine South High School, 1111 S. Dee Road, Park Ridge.

The three-week course offers an opportunity to create original wrappings which add a personalized touch to any package. The fee is $9 for both residents and non-residents of Maine and Niles Townships.

Coffee pot needs occasional sweetening

The home line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: We chipped in at the office and bought a good electric percolator last year. It's been giving great service and going steadily all day long all this time, but suddenly some of us think the coffee is either bitter or, as someone said, metallic. Do percolators in constant use go haywire? — Nancy Beth Hollings

Not haywire, Nancy Beth. Yours just sounds as if it needs sweetening. Bring a little cream of tartar from home. Fill the percolator almost to the top with cold water and add a tablespoon of the cream of tartar. Put in the basket, set it on strong, and let it perk through one cycle. Then wash with plain water, rinse well and dry each part separately. If there are any coffee stains in the pot. any good coffee stain remover will take care of them. Every coffee pot needs this kind of sweetening from time to time.

Dear Dorothy: What is the best way to preserve cattails? — Imogene Lemond

The simplest way seems to be hair spray. One report said they could be dipped in clear shellac or varnish, then painted if desired. Another method is to dip the stems in an inch of melted paraffin when they are first picked. They can be kept natural then or painted.

Dear Dorothy: We bought a lovely trunk at a garage sale. I'd love to use it to store seasonal items (like blankets). However, there's a musty odor. How can I get it out? — Joy Brear

Several ways: Put in toilet soap, pomanders, dried lavender, activated charcoal granules or spray with a fragrant shaving lotion — and keep closed for 48 to 72 hours.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Toothsome snacks

Between meal nibblers can capitalize on their eating habits. Munch on apples and celery, for example, to cut down calories, exercise gums and cut down on general dental problems caused by too many sweet snacks.

Plant pests will hitchhike

Potting shed

by Mary B. Good

Bring in plants from the outdoors for the winter, and it's easy to also bring in plant pest hitchhikers.

About a month after the outside plants are inside (maybe even sooner) symptoms of insect invasions may begin to occur.

That's why it's important to inspect every plant brought in, immersing it in the bathtub with a stream of water and giving it a spritz of an insecticide containing pyrethrum, one of the few ecologically safe bug killers.

Pyrethrum is regarded as the least toxic to man and pets of all insecticides. It is effective against a host of soft-bodied insects which attack plants. But pyrethrum is often mixed commercially with many other compounds, some of which may be quite toxic. So use only pure pyrethrum for your house plants. It may be obtained pure only from veterinarians or pet shops. Pyrethrum kills pests by rapidly paralyzing them. It is an extract from the painted daisy, not a chemical bludgeon.

GERANIUMS AND tomato plants are notorious pest dispersers when brought in to the house to continue growing. You have to be very sure geraniums and tomatoes mean a lot to you, if you risk carrying them over inside for the winter. White flies billow out of plants when disturbed. White flies suck the sap out of plants. Leaves will yellow, wilt and fall off. Wash the plant with soapy water (I prefer Basic H), zeroing in gently along the underside of leaves. Rinse the plant, then give it pyrethrum.

HAVE YOU SEEN a lot of tiny flies (smaller than a fruit fly) hovering over your houseplant treasures that weren't there before the big move indoors? These are probably fungus gnats that come in with the plants, and now are readying to lay a hatch of eggs in some newly discovered places — your good houseplants.

Gnats love humusy or peat moss soil and lots of moisture, so don't overwater your plants if you want to prevent gnats. But every time you notice a cloud of gnats hovering over your house plants, immerse the infested plants in clear, lukewarm water overnight to just above the soil line, allowing the plants to soak overnight. Most of the maggots the gnats have laid will drown, but continue the treatment every few weeks to abort any new generations. The gnats will gradually be exterminated.

Plants attacked by the maggots spawned by gnts will wilt, leaves yellow and growth slow down, making the plants susceptible to root rot and worse. Kiss your gnatty plants bye-bye, unless you take positive action, as outlined above.

MEALY BUGS are stubborn and destructive to house plants. They are white powdery masses on leaf axils and along stem joints. The females lay 300 to 600 eggs at a time in one small waxy white lump. If you see anything that looks like a dab of cotton ball or a speck of cotton candy on a plant — oh, oh, it's mealy bug.

Mealies cause plant wilt and defoliation. They can kill a plant in hardly no time. Dab a cotton applicator in rubbing alcohol and tediously paint the plant with the applicator, a remedy that will kill mealies. This treatment may have to be repeated two or three times in the month to get them all. Pryrethrum spray is also effective.

For a helpful booklet on curing plant pests organically, growing house plants, etc., send 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my newest booklet, "Mary B. Good's Organic Plant Doctoring Goodies" in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill., 60006.

Next week: More on hitchhiking plant pests

Gourds should last long time

Homemade gourds popular in Halloween and other fall centerpieces should last several years if they are cured properly.

R. E. Neild, associate professor of horticulture at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, advises cutting them from the vine when fully mature. Leave two to three inches of stem, and handle the fruit carefully to prevent bruising or scars.

Immediately after picking, wash well, adding household bleach or other disinfectant to the water to destroy mold spores. Hang by stems or store with space between each for at least a month on open shelves i a cool, well ventilated area. turn daily if they are shelved. Before using coat with clear furniture polish to preserve colors and prevent mold growth.

Suburb referral service opened by NOW group

Northwest Suburban Chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW) has established a Women's Referral Service in the Northwest suburbs. The program provides referral services in the areas of health care, counseling, financial aid, employment and legal assistance.

Telephone hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday at 393-8309.

NOW hopes to expand its resources as additional services for women are identified in the area.

RUB-A-DUB-DUB, young artists Sarah Rossate and Suzann Sladcik scrub up after a day of finger painting. While their work may not appear in the art auction hosted by the Woman's Club of Inverness Friday evening at Gould Center, Rolling Meadows, their mothers are on the planning committee. A collection of oils, graphics, etchings and watercolors by renowned artists will be previewed at 8 p.m. while guests sip champagne; the auction begins at 9. Proceeds go to the club's philanthropies. Tickets are $2.50, available at 358-6665 or 358-3713.

Next on the agenda

SCHAUMBURG AREA BPW

Plant pests will hitchhike

Potting shed

by Mary B. Good

Bring in plants from the outdoors for the winter, and it's easy to also bring in plant pest hitchhikers.

About a month after the outside plants are inside (maybe even sooner) symptoms of insect invasions may begin to occur.

That's why it's important to inspect every plant brought in, immersing it in the bathtub with a stream of water and giving it a spritz of an insecticide containing pyrethrum, one of the few ecologically safe bug killers.

Pyrethrum is regarded as the least toxic to man and pets of all insecticides. It is effective against a host of soft-bodied insects which attack plants. But pyrethrum is often mixed commercially with many other compounds, some of which may be quite toxic. So use only pure pyrethrum for your house plants. It may be obtained pure only from veterinarians or pet shops. Pyrethrum kills pests by rapidly paralyzing them. It is an extract from the painted daisy, not a chemical bludgeon.

GERANIUMS AND tomato plants are notorious pest dispersers when brought in to the house to continue growing. You have to be very sure geraniums and tomatoes mean a lot to you, if you risk carrying them over inside for the winter. White flies billow out of plants when disturbed. White flies suck the sap out of plants. Leaves will yellow, wilt and fall off. Wash the plant with soapy water (I prefer Basic H), zeroing in gently along the underside of leaves. Rinse the plant, then give it pyrethrum.

HAVE YOU SEEN a lot of tiny flies (smaller than a fruit fly) hovering over your houseplant treasures that weren't there before the big move indoors? These are probably fungus gnats that come in with the plants, and now are readying to lay a hatch of eggs in some newly discovered places — your good houseplants.

Gnats love humusy or peat moss soil and lots of moisture, so don't overwater your plants if you want to prevent gnats. But every time you notice a cloud of gnats hovering over your house plants, immerse the infested plants in clear, lukewarm water overnight to just above the soil line, allowing the plants to soak overnight. Most of the maggots the gnats have laid will drown, but continue the treatment every few weeks to abort any new generations. The gnats will gradually be exterminated.

Plants attacked by the maggots spawned by gnts will wilt, leaves yellow and growth slow down, making the plants susceptible to root rot and worse. Kiss your gnatty plants bye-bye, unless you take positive action, as outlined above.

MEALY BUGS are stubborn and destructive to house plants. They are white powdery masses on leaf axils and along stem joints. The females lay 300 to 600 eggs at a time in one small waxy white lump. If you see anything that looks like a dab of cotton ball or a speck of cotton candy on a plant — oh, oh, it's mealy bug.

Mealies cause plant wilt and defoliation. They can kill a plant in hardly no time. Dab a cotton applicator in rubbing alcohol and tediously paint the plant with the applicator, a remedy that will kill mealies. This treatment may have to be repeated two or three times in the month to get them all. Pryrethrum spray is also effective.

Gourds should last long time

Homemade gourds popular in Halloween and other fall centerpieces should last several years if they are cured properly.

R. E. Neild, associate professor of horticulture at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, advises cutting them from the vine when fully mature. Leave two to three inches of stem, and handle the fruit carefully to prevent bruising or scars.

Immediately after picking, wash well, adding household bleach or other disinfectant to the water to destroy mold spores. Hang by stems or store with space between each for at least a month on open shelves i a cool, well ventilated area. turn daily if they are shelved. Before using coat with clear furniture polish to preserve colors and prevent mold growth.

Suburb referral service opened by NOW group

Northwest Suburban Chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW) has established a Women's Referral Service in the Northwest suburbs. The program provides referral services in the areas of health care, counseling, financial aid, employment and legal assistance.

Telephone hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday at 393-8309.

NOW hopes to expand its resources as additional services for women are identified in the area.

Home cooking-Oriental style

by BARBARA LADD

Nearly 2000 years before Europeans stopped eating food with their fingers, Orientals dined in quiet refinement preparing meals with finesse. Their ancient culinary art has gradually been building momentum in the United States, beginning in western seaports like San Francisco and spreading to the country's large metropolitan melting pots.

In the northwest suburbs — with several Oriental restaurants, countless carry-out establishments and new cooking classes — interest in Oriental cooking is increasing.

Lucy Fong, a Dist. 214 adult education Cantonese cooking instructor from Arlington Heights, thinks "the melting pot of Chicago" creates interest and publicity about the various nationalities. "People then want to learn more about the different foods and customs," she said.

Many of her students mention healthful eating as the primary reason for learning about Oriental cooking. Some want to utilize more vegetables in their dinners; others need to eat low cholesterol meals. And the Chinese fare generally suits both needs.

Then there are people like Sandy Vezeau, Arlington Heights, who said she was running out of ideas for meals after 27 years of marriage, and Sandi Peterson, Arlington Heights, who said, "We like Oriental cooking in our family and I thought fixing my own was better than opening a can of Chun King delight."

In most of Mrs. Fong's classes, the students first want to make "American Chinese" dishes like fried rice and egg foo yung, she said. "But I try to introduce a few ethnic dishes in Cantonese I," she said. "And in Cantonese II that's about all we do."

These ethnic dishes include her own family recipes for "lots of substantial soups," fish and squid. She said ingredients generally can be purchased fresh at Dominick's and National food stores, and dried at Treasure Island. And Chinatown in Chicago has just about anything Oriental recipes call for.

When referring to Cantonese cooking (by far the most popular of Oriental food), she is referring to the southern and coastal region of China which has a marked European influence from seaports. Peking (or Mandarin), Szechwan, Shanghai and Fukien are the other distinct schools of Chinese cooking, each reflecting a different climate and therefore a different list of ingredients.

Another type of Oriental food growing in popularity in the northwest suburbs is Polynesian. According to Don Sit, manager of the Kona Kai restaurant in Park Ridge, Polynesian is a combination of Cantonese, Filipino, Japanese and Hawaiian cooking techniques.

"Polynesian in its superauthentic form is non-palatable. It's not a cuisine, but is a melting pot of different nationalities," he said.

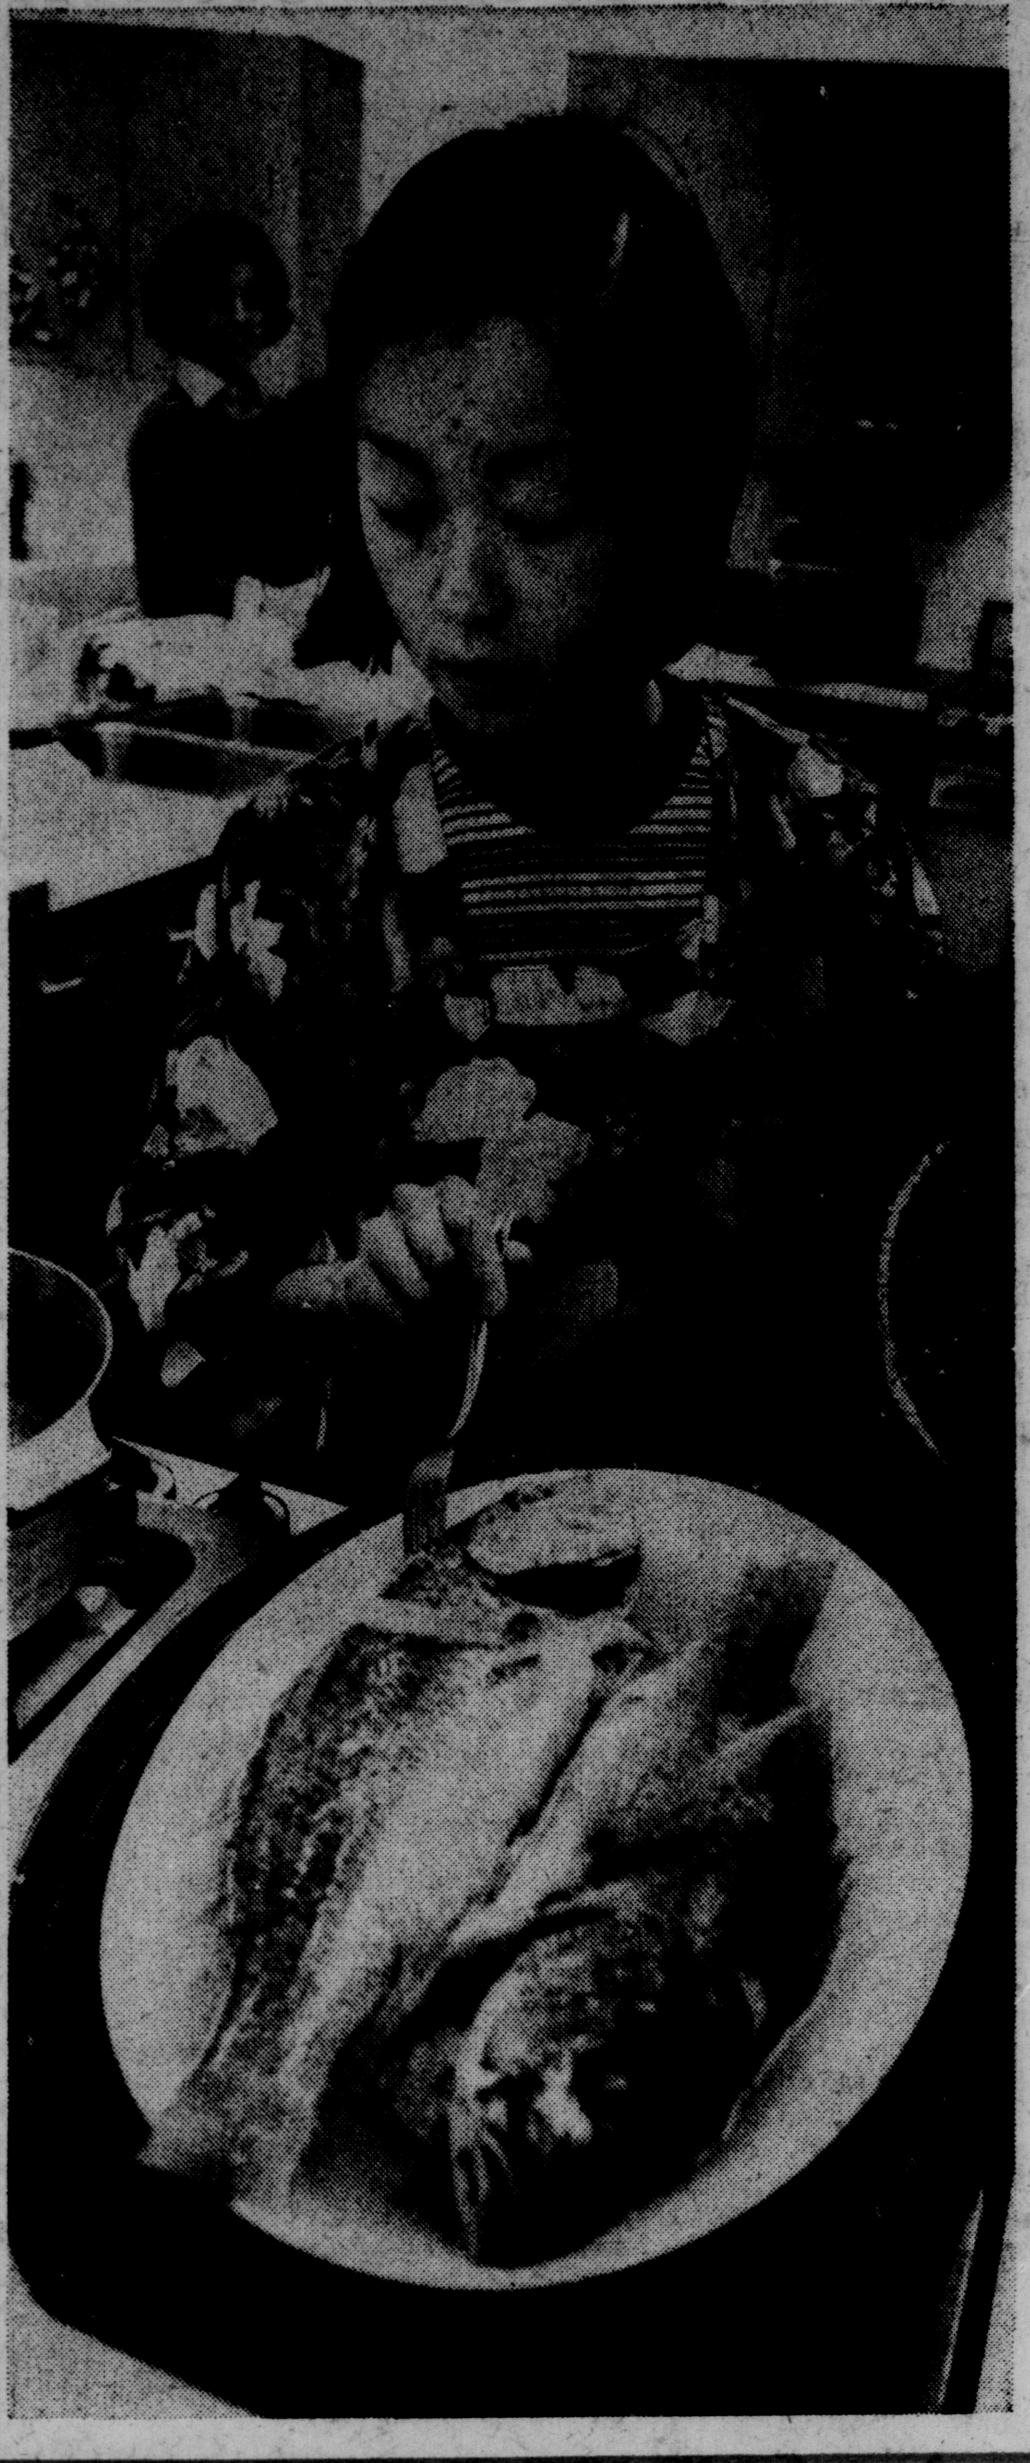
The basic instruments for most Oriental cooking are the wok (to toss, saute and sear), the barbecue and the steamer, he said. However, it isn't absolutely necessary to own these items just to make an Oriental dish, said Mrs. Fong.

In her classes she demonstrates Cantonese cooking techniques with a heavy aluminum pot in place of a wok and a roasting pan and lid for the steamer.

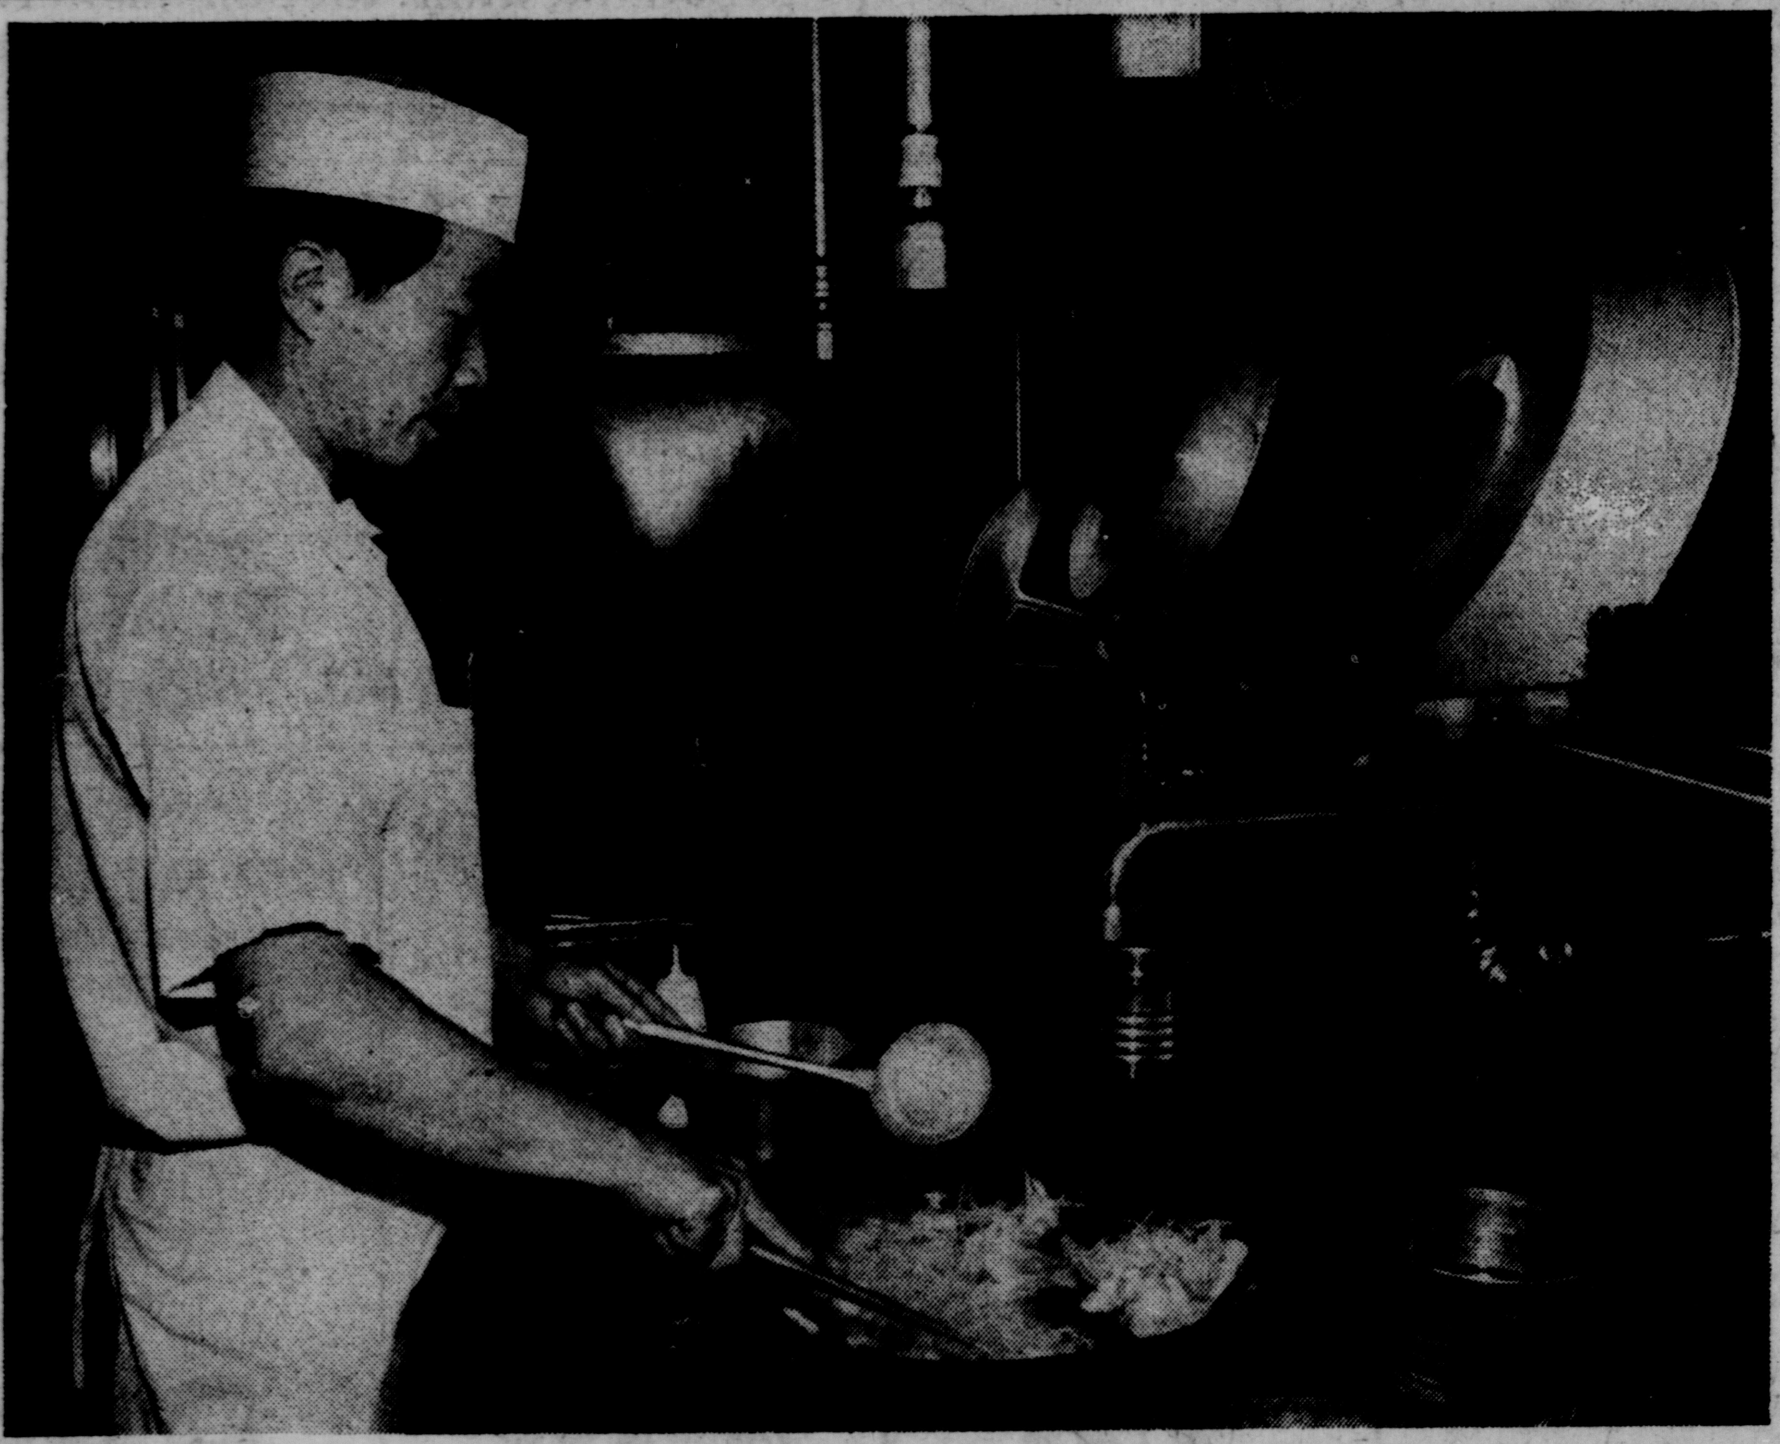
But if a wok seems necessary for some perfectionists, Robert Eng, owner of Fu-Lama Gardens, Schaumburg, suggests buying one of iron, since stainless steel and aluminum woks heat up too fast and don't distribute heat evenly.

The key to Oriental cooking is perseverance and a dining setting "where you can escape to relax and enjoy soft sounds," said Sit.

"You can make Oriental cooking into whatever you want it to be," he said. "It is a creative process — a love letter to your public."



Four years of learning was required before Lucy Fong's father, who taught her to cook, allowed her to prepare a meal. Now an adult education instructor in Cantonese cooking, she uses her family's recipes to teach members of her three evening classes.



Wok cooking, a two-handed skill, involves a short amount of time for Che Sut Yau, chef at Fu-Lama Gardens, Schaumburg. He quick-fried a meal of Chicken Moo Goo in a couple minutes in an iron wok, the main cooking pot in the Oriental kitchen for centuries.

Chopsticks, the traditional eating utensils for Oriental food, take a bit of getting used to for Alice Larsen, Bartlett.

CHICKEN KALAKALA

(from Fu-Lama Gardens, Schaumburg)

1 pound boneless chicken breast, cubed
⅓ cup cubed water chestnuts
⅓ cup cubed bamboo shoots
⅓ cup diced celery
12 straw mushrooms
¼ cup diced green peppers
¼ cup diced onion
1 cup toasted cashews
1 tablespoon cubed pimentoes
⅓ cup chicken stock
1 teaspoon cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon sugar
Pinch each of ground pepper, crushed ginger and garlic powder
2 teaspoons soy sauce

Marinade:

1 teaspoon soy sauce
½ teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon sherry
½ teaspoon cornstarch
1 teaspoon vegetable oil

Marinade chicken for about three hours. Mix well.

Heat pan and a small amount of vegetable oil, saute chicken and the mixture of water chestnuts, bamboo shoots, diced celery, straw mushrooms, green pepper and onion. Simmer four minutes. Add chicken stock and bring to boil.

Thicken with blended mixture of cornstarch, salt, sugar, spices and soy sauce. Add cashews and pimentoes. Mix well. Dish onto plates. Makes two servings.

STEAMED WHOLE FISH

(from Lucy Fong's cooking class)

1 large whole red snapper, cleaned
½ to ¾ cup vegetable oil
½ cup soy sauce
⅓ cup salted peanuts
¼ cup diced chive or green onion, ¼ to ⅛ inch pieces
Salt

About 45 minutes before steaming, place fish on platter and salt one side; wait 10 to 15 minutes, then salt other side.

Bring water to boil in steamer (a roasting pan with an empty can may be used). Place platter with fish in steamer over medium high heat for 30 to 45 minutes or until meat flakes. Meanwhile, clean and cut chives or green onion, set aside.

After fish is cooked, heat oil. Pour off liquids from the fish and platter, pour soy sauce over fish from head to tail. Immediately follow the process by pouring the hot oil over fish. (There will be some splattering of the oil and soy.) Sprinkle salted peanuts and the chives or green onion over the fish and into the oil and soy around the fish. Serves four.

BROCCOLI WITH BACON

(from Lucy Fong's cooking class)

2 pounds fresh broccoli
½ pound bacon, cut in 1 inch strips
Vegetable oil
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon monosodium glutamate
2 to 3 tablespoons oyster sauce (or substitute 2 to 3 tablespoons soy sauce)
¼ to ½ cup boiled water
2 heaping teaspoons cornstarch

Cut top of broccoli and one to two inches of the stem into bite-size pieces. Skin the main stalk of broccoli and slice on the diagonal. Boil 8 to 10 cups water; add broccoli. When water returns to boil, pour broccoli into colander to drain and rinse with cold water. Fry bacon; drain and set aside.

Add the bacon grease and enough oil to make 8 to 10 tablespoons to pot and heat until hot. Add drained broccoli to hot oil and saute over high heat. Add salt, monosodium glutamate and oyster sauce. Mix well. Add boiled water and bring back to boil.

While waiting for mixture to return to boil, mix cornstarch and ½ cup water. Stir this into the broccoli mixture until juice is thickened. Pour into bowl or on plate and garnish with bacon. Serves four to six.

Japanese cooking

Business trips stimulate hobby

by LOIS SEILER

Although he has been tinkering in the kitchen since boyhood, Joe Rizzo of Arlington Heights began cooking in earnest during his convalescence from a heart attack a few years ago. He now classifies it as one of his favorite hobbies, along with tennis and golf.

As president of Quaker Oats Japan and vice-president of Cao-Quaker Limited in Tokyo, Joe travels to the Orient several times a year. Finding that he enjoys Japanese food, he became interested in its preparation. On each trip he acquires new recipes and tries them at home. His wife, Annette, and daughters, Virginia Ann, 18, Natalie, 16, Joanne, 11, and Lynette, 9, enjoy Joe's Japanese specialties, as do his guests.

Joe changed some recipes to make them more palatable for Western tastes, and he has simplified others, making substitutions with ingredients that are easily accessible.

"COOKING SHOULD be fun and not a chore," Joe said, "and it can be time-consuming to go to specialty shops hunting specific ingredients."

Describing a typical Japanese meal, he explained they often start off with appetizers such as fish eggs, smoked oysters, raw fish and smoked clams. Small portions of each are served on individual heavy porcelain plates. Sometimes a fresh flower is placed on the plate adding esthetic appeal.

Then comes the main course of meat, fish or chicken, which is boiled, broiled or deep fried. Hibachis are used to prepare such entrees as yakitori (small pieces of chicken cooked on skewers).

Woks are used to cook vegetable and meat combinations. Rice may be served with the entree or immediately following it.

THIS IS FOLLOWED by a soup course, often a clear broth with a couple of shrimp or a few pieces of chicken floating on top. Joe likes to serve beef broth seasoned with a little soy sauce and garnished with onions. Dessert is usually fruit, though Joe prefers something light and cool such as gelatin or ice cream.

He has chosen three entree ideas to share with readers: Schimme to Niku Sukiyaki and Sashimi. All can be served with the courses suggested above. His favorite is Shimme to Niku (bean sprouts and meat). Joe prepares both this and Sukiyaki in a wok, although a saucepan will do.

Because the price of beef is expensive in Japan, a little goes a long way. The Japanese figure four ounces of beef per person, which is adequate from a nutritional standpoint, he said.

CHOPSTICKS not only are for eating but are used by Joe Rizzo, Arlington Heights, for cooking his favorite Japanese dish, Shimme to Niku.

HE HAS INCLUDED the Sashimi recipe because it is truly Japanese. While his family doesn't like raw fish, Joe enjoys it, although he admits he hasn't been able to duplicate the sauce exactly as the Japanese make it.

The preparation of Japanese food takes time, but the cooking is quick. If the meat is partially frozen, it may be sliced very thin and will cook in a hurry. The vegetables should be quick-cooked to remain crisp and colorful, as it is essential that the dish look as appetizing as it tastes. (There is a Japanese expression that Joe heartily endorses: "American food smells good, Chinese food tastes good and Japanese food looks good.")

Joe is also chairman of Midwest chemical Marketing Association, a member of the International Trade Club of Chicago, the American Association of Textile Chemists and Colorists and national treasurer of the chemical marketing and economics division of the American Chemical Society.

SHIMME TO NIKU

(Bean Sprouts and Meat)

1 pound sirloin steak,
about 1-inch thick
6 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 clove garlic, sliced
1½ pounds bean sprouts (1½ cans)
1 onion, sliced
1½ teaspoons salt
1½ teaspoons sugar
2/3 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
1½ tablespoons soy sauce

Partially freeze meat and then slice very thin.

In a wok or saucepan combine half the oil and half the garlic at medium high heat and brown the meat. Drain off oil and remove meat. Place remaining oil and garlic in wok and add bean sprouts and onion. Saute five minutes.

Blend salt, sugar, monosodium glutamate and soy sauce together; stir into vegetable mixture. Heat through, add meat and serve. Serves six. Gohan (rice) may be served as a side dish.

SUKIYAKI

1½ pounds beef tenderloin
3 tablespoons vegetable oil
3 tablespoons sugar
¾ cup beef broth or bouillon
½ cup soy sauce
3 cups green onions,
cut on the diagonal
1½-inches long
1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
½ pound canned bamboo shoots
½ pound canned water chestnuts
5 cups fresh spinach leaves, broken in small pieces
1 pound canned bean sprouts
Rice

Partially freeze meat and slice very thin in strips. In a wok or saucepan, brown beef in oil quickly for one or two minutes. Sprinkle sugar over meat. Combine broth and soy sauce and pour over meat. Push to one side to keep warm.

Let wok warm until soy mixture bubbles. Cook remaining ingredients in order listed, one at a time, pushing each to one side. just cook and stir each food until heated through. Serve hot with rice on the side. Serves 6.

SASHIMI

2 fresh fish, fillets preferred
(use one red and one white fish)
3 cups peeled, shredded
white radish
Small, peeled, shredded carrot
Soy sauce
Hot mustard

Rinse fish with cool water. Pat dry with paper towels. Remove any dark portions that don't look appetizing. (It is essential that fish be very fresh.)

Place fish on cutting board. Using a sharp, thin-bladed knife, cut across grain in 1/8 to ¼-inch slices, 1½ to 2 inches long. Do not cut more than you will use.

Arrange the slices of red and white fish in the center of a plate. Combine shredded radishes and carrots and garnish plate with this mixture.

Mix hot mustard into soy sauce to taste. Dip fish into sauce with chopsticks and eat. Eat radish-carrot mixture between bites of fish.

Cold cut cues

Cold cuts, which were popular in ancient Egypt as well as contemporary America, are nourishing, flavorful, convenient and economical.

So say food specialists at Pennsylvania State University, who have these tips for consumers:

For maximum quality, refrigerate cold cuts tightly wrapped to keep their surface from drying out. Stored this way, most sliced cold cuts should be used within three days after purchase; unsliced bologna and liver sausage can be kept for four to six days, and uncut, dry or semidry sausages, such as salami and pepperoni, can be kept two to three weeks.

Cooking School Adds Special Holiday Courses to Fall Schedule

The Continental Cooking School, 1144 S. Elmhurst Rd., Countryside Court, Mt. Prospect, has added several short holiday courses, ranging from baking to seafoods, to its '75 fall-winter schedule.

"So many of our students have requested special holiday courses, we had no choice but to add these to our program," explained master chef Eugene Kretz.

Eugene Kretz, the school's head chef, has won countless gourmet awards in the U.S. and Europe. He was also selected head chef, from chefs throughout the midwest, for President Ford's recent Palmer House banquet. He personally prepared the President's meal and received a special "thank you" from Mr. Ford and the First Lady.

Mr. Kretz will also be instructing the new microwave cooking courses at the school beginning November 17.

Anyone interested in registering or wanting more information should contact the school at 593-3020.

All classes with openings still available are listed below:

Oyster recipes for all occasions

Mostly for men

by Charles Flynn

I've been told that ancient peoples used oysters in concocting love potions and that Louis XI of France provided an oyster feast yearly for professors at the Sorbonne to help insure their continuing high standards of scholarship.

For whatever reason beyond just plain liking oysters, these mollusks make frequent appearances on our table. Fried oysters are a particular lunchtime favorite. You can serve them with cole slaw and a bit of tartar sauce, or may like them on toast as an open-face sandwich.

The main thing about frying oysters is to make a good batter and fry only until golden brown. Overcooking is the worst mistake one can make.

For the batter, sift together 2½ cups of flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon onion salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, and 1/8 teaspoon garlic powder. Stir in beer (about 1 cup) to make a batter of desired consistency.

DRAIN OYSTERS well and pat dry on paper toweling. Dip in batter and drop one at a time into hot fat, frying until golden brown on both sides, about 2 minutes. Drain on toweling again before serving.

For a different Sunday night supper, try savory creamed oysters. Melt 1 cup butter in a large saucepan. Add 1 tablespoon English mustard, salt, pepper, cayenne, ¼ teaspoon anchovy paste and 2 cups finely chopped celery. Cook until celery is half tender, stirring almost constantly.

Add 1 quart milk (or half and half for a richer dish) and bring mixture to boiling point, but do not boil. Add 4 dozen oysters and bring to simmer. Cook 2 to 3 minutes until edges of oysters curl.

Add 6 tablespoons sherry and a grain or two of nutmeg. Serve on hot buttered toast. This recipe makes enough for eight people.

MANY PEOPLE prefer scalloped oysters to any other recipe. Crush 2 cups cracker crumbs and combine with ½ cup melted butter, ½ teaspoon salt, 1/8 teaspoon pepper. Butter a casserole and drain 1 pint oysters, reserving liquid.

In the casserole put 1/3 of the crumb mixture and cover with a layer of oysters. Repeat. Mix reserved liquid with milk to make 1 cup and pour over dish, then sprinkle with remaining crumbs. Bake for 30 minutes at 350 degrees. Remember that lots of butter is the secret and personally I sneak in a few extra oysters.

Ketchup sales

The National Livestock and Meat Board, Chicago, says the industry reportedly uses the 14-ounce bottle of America's favorite condiment as an economic barometer.

The board said ketchup sales to restaurants have soared, as customers for burgers, hot dogs and other restaurant meats increased.

The meat board said the growth also is attributed to more families reaching higher income brackets that allow them to eat out more often and more women in the work force.

Home cooking-Oriental style

by BARBARA LADD

Nearly 2000 years before Europeans stopped eating food with their fingers, Orientals dined in quiet refinement preparing meals with finesse. Their ancient culinary art has gradually been building momentum in the United States, beginning in western seaports like San Francisco and spreading to the country's large metropolitan melting pots.

In the northwest suburbs — with several Oriental restaurants, countless carry-out establishments and new cooking classes — interest in Oriental cooking is increasing.

Lucy Fong, a Dist. 214 adult education Cantonese cooking instructor from Arlington Heights, thinks "the melting pot of Chicago" creates interest and publicity about the various nationalities. "People then want to learn more about the different foods and customs," she said.

Many of her students mention healthful eating as the primary reason for learning about Oriental cooking. Some want to utilize more vegetables in their dinners; others need to eat low cholesterol meals. And the Chinese fare generally suits both needs.

Then there are people like Sandy Vezeau, Arlington Heights, who said she was running out of ideas for meals after 27 years of marriage, and Sandi Peterson, Arlington Heights, who said, "We like Oriental cooking in our family and I thought fixing my own was better than opening a can of Chun King delight."

In most of Mrs. Fong's classes, the students first want to make "American Chinese" dishes like fried rice and egg foo yung, she said. "But I try to introduce a few ethnic dishes in Cantonese I," she said. "And in Cantonese II that's about all we do."

These ethnic dishes include her own family recipes for "lots of substantial soups," fish and squid. She said ingredients generally can be purchased fresh at Dominick's and National food stores, and dried at Treasure Island. And Chinatown in Chicago has just about anything Oriental recipes call for.

When referring to Cantonese cooking (by far the most popular of Oriental food), she is referring to the southern and coastal region of China which has a marked European influence from seaports. Peking (or Mandarin), Szechwan, Shanghai and Fukien are the other distinct schools of Chinese cooking, each reflecting a different climate and therefore a different list of ingredients.

Another type of Oriental food growing in popularity in the northwest suburbs is Polynesian. According to Don Sit, manager of the Kona Kai restaurant in Park Ridge, Polynesian is a combination of Cantonese, Filipino, Japanese and Hawaiian cooking techniques.

"Polynesian in its superauthentic form is non-palatable. It's not a cuisine, but is a melting pot of different nationalities," he said.

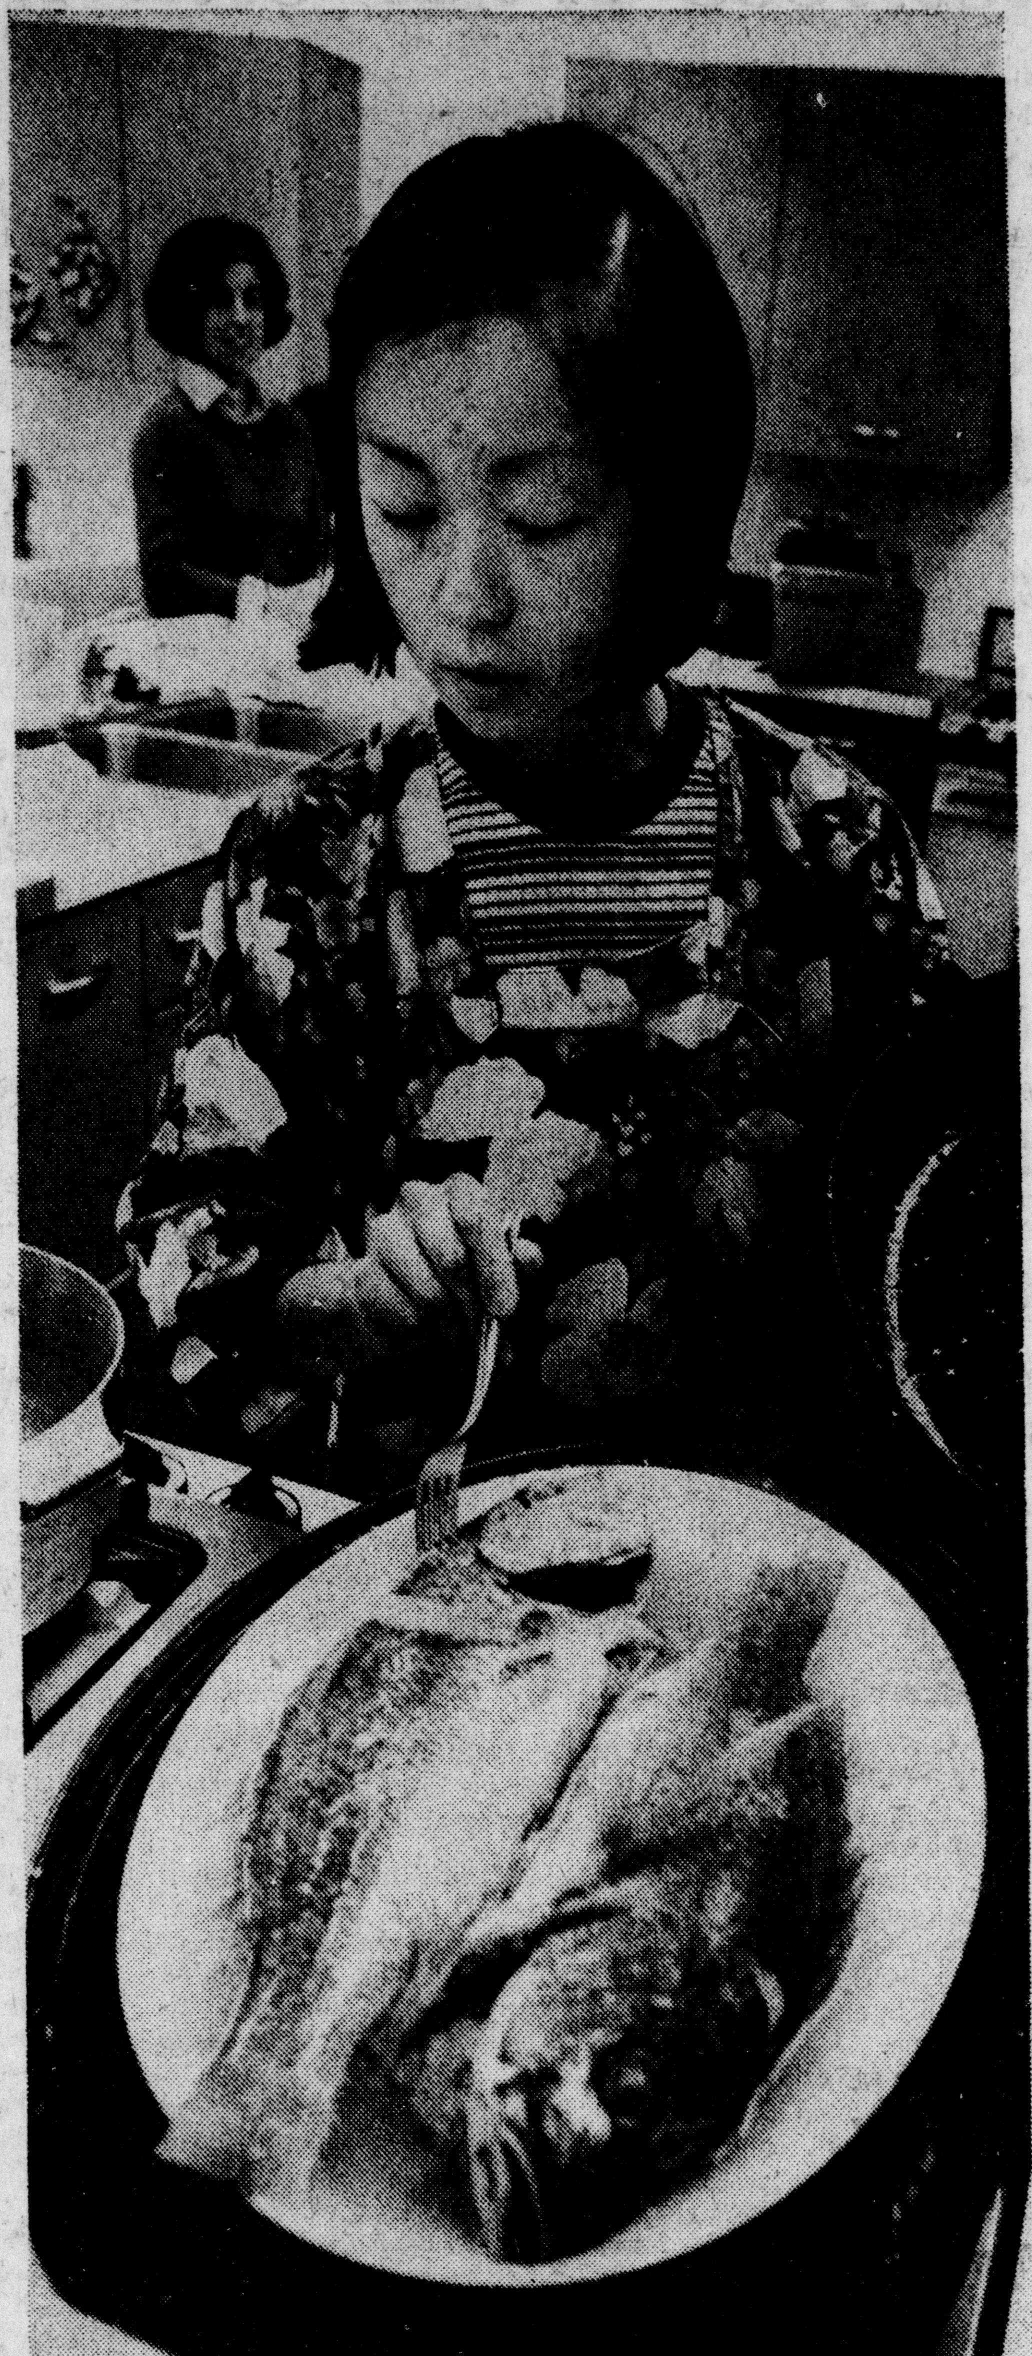
The basic instruments for most Oriental cooking are the wok (to toss, saute and sear), the barbecue and the steamer, he said. However, it isn't absolutely necessary to own these items just to make an Oriental dish, said Mrs. Fong.

In her classes she demonstrates Cantonese cooking techniques with a heavy aluminum pot in place of a wok and a roasting pan and lid for the steamer.

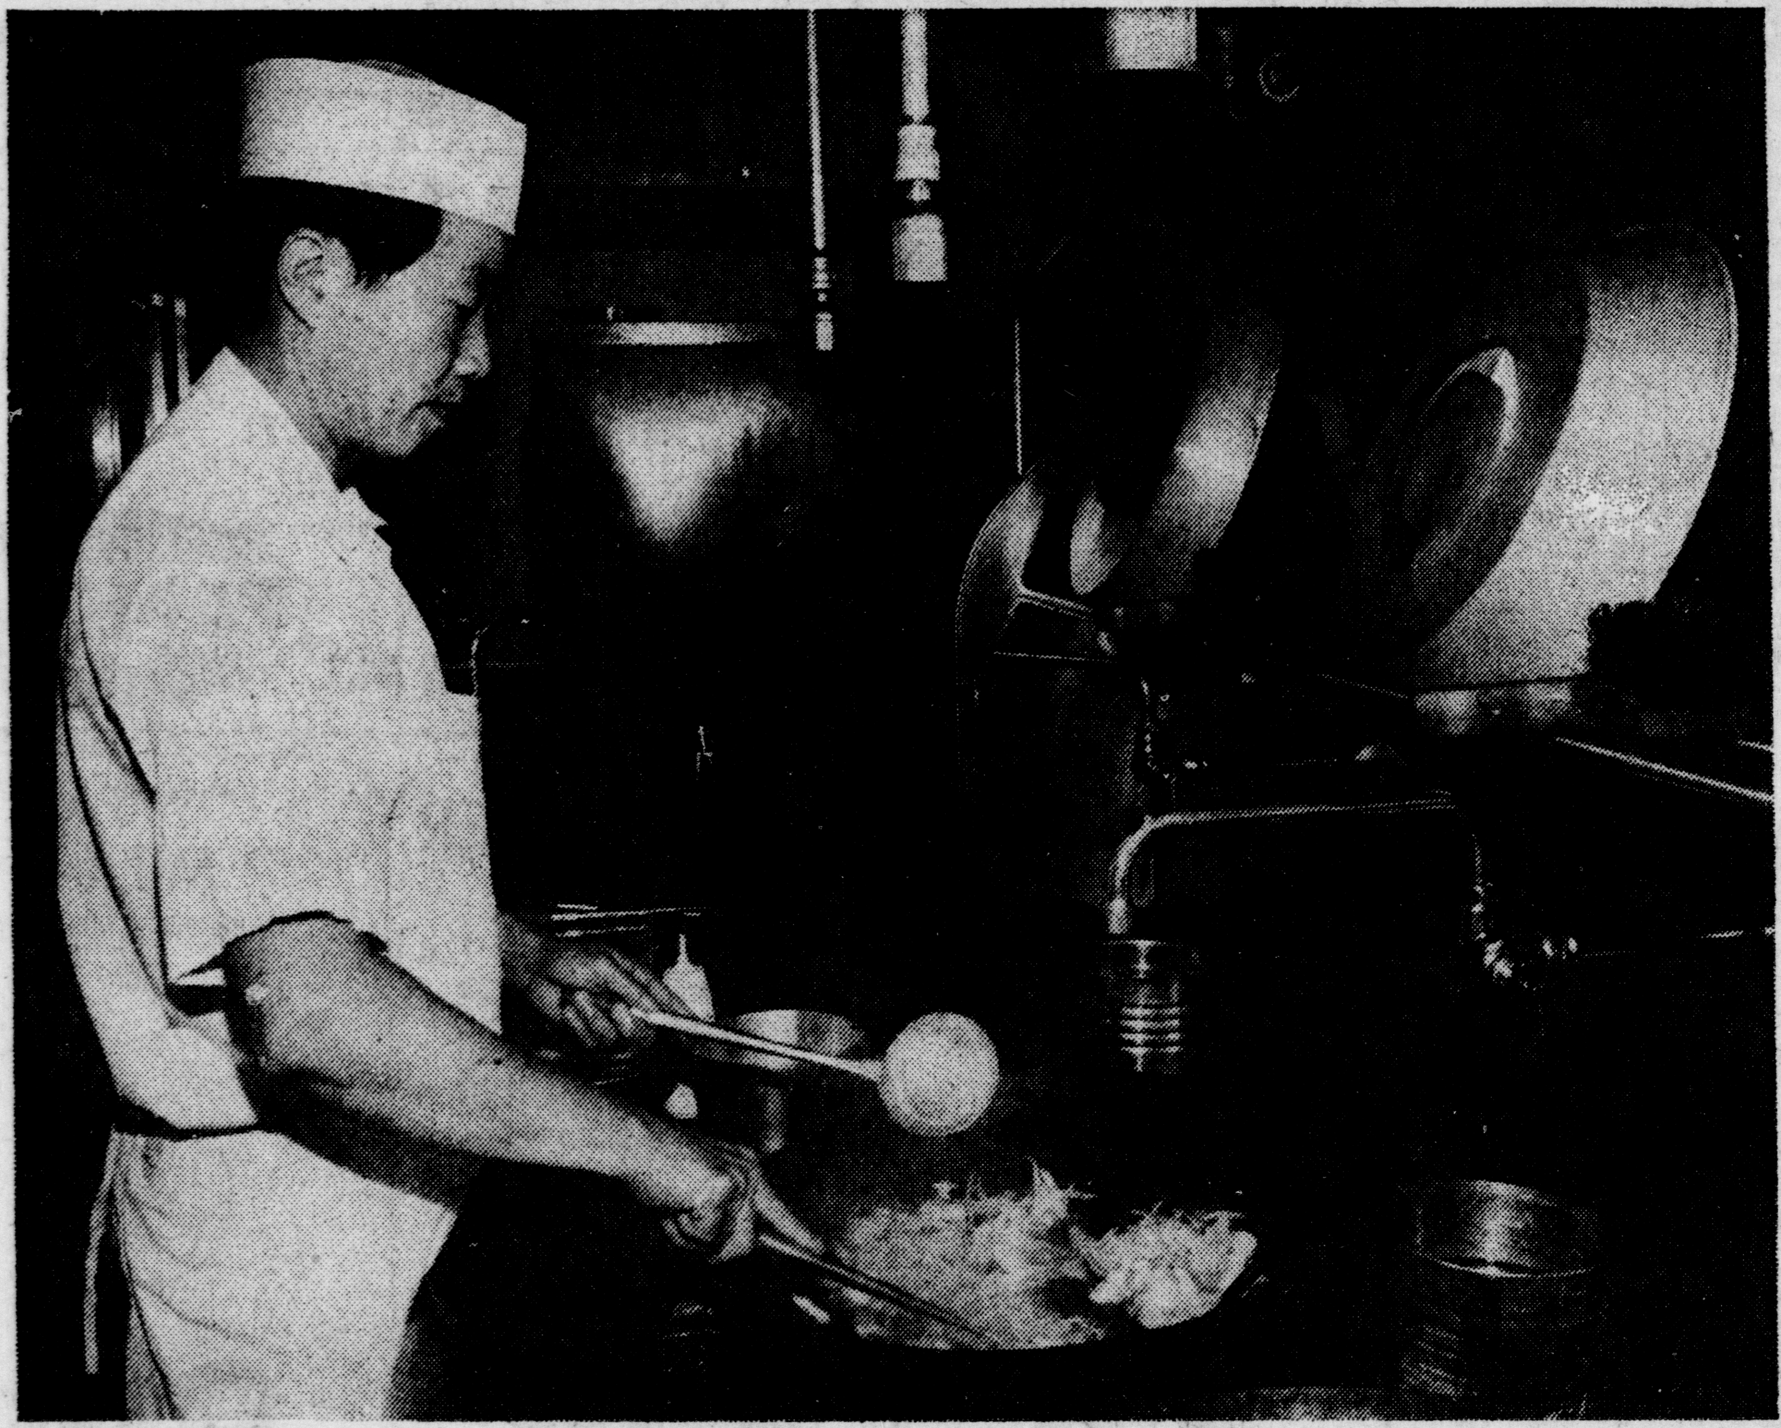
But if a wok seems necessary for some perfectionists, Robert Eng, owner of Fu-Lama Gardens, Schaumburg, suggests buying one of iron, since stainless steel and aluminum woks heat up too fast and don't distribute heat evenly.

The key to Oriental cooking is perseverance and a dining setting "where you can escape to relax and enjoy soft sounds," said Sit.

"You can make Oriental cooking into whatever you want it to be," he said. "It is a creative process — a love letter to your public."



Four years of learning was required before Lucy Fong's father, who taught her to cook, allowed her to prepare a meal. Now an adult education instructor in Cantonese cooking, she uses her family's recipes to teach members of her three evening classes.



Wok cooking, a two-handed skill, involves a short amount of time for Che Sut Yau, chef at Fu-Lama Gardens, Schaumburg. He quick-fried a meal of Chicken Moo Goo in a couple minutes in an iron wok, the main cooking pot in the Oriental kitchen for centuries.

Chopsticks, the traditional eating utensils for Oriental food, take a bit of getting used to for Alice Larsen, Bartlett.

CHICKEN KALAKALA

(from Fu-Lama Gardens, Schaumburg)

1 pound boneless chicken breast, cubed
⅓ cup cubed water chestnuts
⅓ cup cubed bamboo shoots
⅓ cup diced celery
12 straw mushrooms
¼ cup diced green peppers
¼ cup diced onion
1 cup toasted cashews
1 tablespoon cubed pimentoes
⅓ cup chicken stock
1 teaspoon cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon sugar
Pinch each of ground pepper, crushed ginger and garlic powder
2 teaspoons soy sauce

Marinade:

1 teaspoon soy sauce
½ teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon sherry
½ teaspoon cornstarch
1 teaspoon vegetable oil

Marinade chicken for about three hours. Mix well.

Heat pan and a small amount of vegetable oil, saute chicken and the mixture of water chestnuts, bamboo shoots, diced celery, straw mushrooms, green pepper and onion. Simmer four minutes. Add chicken stock and bring to boil.

Thicken with blended mixture of cornstarch, salt, sugar, spices and soy sauce. Add cashews and pimentoes. Mix well. Dish onto plates. Makes two servings.

STEAMED WHOLE FISH

(from Lucy Fong's cooking class)

1 large whole red snapper, cleaned
½ to ¾ cup vegetable oil
½ cup soy sauce
⅓ cup salted peanuts
¼ cup diced chive or green onion, ¼ to ⅛ inch pieces
Salt

About 45 minutes before steaming, place fish on platter and salt one side; wait 10 to 15 minutes, then salt other side.

Bring water to boil in steamer (a roasting pan with an empty can may be used). Place platter with fish in steamer over medium high heat for 30 to 45 minutes or until meat flakes. Meanwhile, clean and cut chives or green onion, set aside.

After fish is cooked, heat oil. Pour off liquids from the fish and platter, pour soy sauce over fish from head to tail. Immediately follow the process by pouring the hot oil over fish. (There will be some splattering of the oil and soy.) Sprinkle salted peanuts and the chives or green onion over the fish and into the oil and soy around the fish. Serves four.

BROCCOLI WITH BACON

(from Lucy Fong's cooking class)

2 pounds fresh broccoli
½ pound bacon, cut in 1 inch strips
Vegetable oil
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon monosodium glutamate
2 to 3 tablespoons oyster sauce (or substitute 2 to 3 tablespoons soy sauce)
¼ to ½ cup boiled water
2 heaping teaspoons cornstarch

Cut top of broccoli and one to two inches of the stem into bite-size pieces. Skin the main stalk of broccoli and slice on the diagonal. Boil 8 to 10 cups water; add broccoli. When water returns to boil, pour broccoli into colander to drain and rinse with cold water. Fry bacon; drain and set aside.

Add the bacon grease and enough oil to make 8 to 10 tablespoons to pot and heat until hot. Add drained broccoli to hot oil and saute over high heat. Add salt, monosodium glutamate and oyster sauce. Mix well. Add boiled water and bring back to boil.

While waiting for mixture to return to boil, mix cornstarch and ½ cup water. Stir this into the broccoli mixture until juice is thickened. Pour into bowl or on plate and garnish with bacon. Serves four to six.

Japanese cooking

Business trips stimulate hobby

by LOIS SEILER

Although he has been tinkering in the kitchen since boyhood, Joe Rizzo of Arlington Heights began cooking in earnest during his convalescence from a heart attack a few years ago. He now classifies it as one of his favorite hobbies, along with tennis and golf.

As president of Quaker Oats Japan and vice-president of Cao-Quaker Limited in Tokyo, Joe travels to the Orient several times a year. Finding that he enjoys Japanese food, he became interested in its preparation. On each trip he acquires new recipes and tries them at home. His wife, Annette, and daughters, Virginia Ann, 18, Natalie, 16, Joanne, 11, and Lynette, 9, enjoy Joe's Japanese specialties, as do his guests.

Joe changed some recipes to make them more palatable for Western tastes, and he has simplified others, making substitutions with ingredients that are easily accessible.

"COOKING SHOULD be fun and not a chore," Joe said, "and it can be time-consuming to go to specialty shops hunting specific ingredients."

Describing a typical Japanese meal, he explained they often start off with appetizers such as fish eggs, smoked oysters, raw fish and smoked clams. Small portions of each are served on individual heavy porcelain plates. Sometimes a fresh flower is placed on the plate adding esthetic appeal.

Then comes the main course of meat, fish or chicken, which is boiled, broiled or deep fried. Hibachis are used to prepare such entrees as yakitori (small pieces of chicken cooked on skewers).

Woks are used to cook vegetable and meat combinations. Rice may be served with the entree or immediately following it.

THIS IS FOLLOWED by a soup course, often a clear broth with a couple of shrimp or a few pieces of chicken floating on top. Joe likes to serve beef broth seasoned with a little soy sauce and garnished with onions. Dessert is usually fruit, though Joe prefers something light and cool such as gelatin or ice cream.

He has chosen three entree ideas to share with readers: Schimme to Niku Sukiyaki and Sashimi. All can be served with the courses suggested above. His favorite is Shimme to Niku (bean sprouts and meat). Joe prepares both this and Sukiyaki in a wok, although a saucepan will do.

CHOPSTICKS not only are for eating but are used by Joe Rizzo, Arlington Heights, for cooking his favorite Japanese dish, Shimme to Niku.

Because the price of beef is expensive in Japan, a little goes a long way. The Japanese figure four ounces of beef per person, which is adequate from a nutritional standpoint, he said.

HE HAS INCLUDED the Sashimi recipe because it is truly Japanese. While his family doesn't like raw fish, Joe enjoys it, although he admits he hasn't been able to duplicate the sauce exactly as the Japanese make it.

The preparation of Japanese food takes time, but the cooking is quick. If the meat is partially frozen, it may be sliced very thin and will cook in a hurry. The vegetables should be quick-cooked to remain crisp and colorful, as it is essential that the dish look as appetizing as it tastes. (There is a Japanese expression that Joe heartily endorses: "American food smells good, Chinese food tastes good and Japanese food looks good.")

Joe is also chairman of Midwest chemical Marketing Association, a member of the International Trade Club of Chicago, the American Association of Textile Chemists and Colorists and national treasurer of the chemical marketing and economics division of the American Chemical Society.

SHIMME TO NIKU

(Bean Sprouts and Meat)

1 pound sirloin steak,
about 1-inch thick
6 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 clove garlic, sliced
1½ pounds bean sprouts (1½ cans)
1 onion, sliced
1½ teaspoons salt
1½ teaspoons sugar
2/3 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
1½ tablespoons soy sauce

Partially freeze meat and then slice very thin.

In a wok or saucepan combine half the oil and half the garlic at medium high heat and brown the meat. Drain off oil and remove meat. Place remaining oil and garlic in wok and add bean sprouts and onion. Saute five minutes.

Blend salt, sugar, monosodium glutamate and soy sauce together; stir into vegetable mixture. Heat through, add meat and serve. Serves six. Gohan (rice) may be served as a side dish.

SUKIYAKI

1½ pounds beef tenderloin
3 tablespoons vegetable oil
3 tablespoons sugar
¾ cup beef broth or bouillon
½ cup soy sauce
3 cups green onions,
cut on the diagonal
1½-inches long
1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
½ pound canned bamboo shoots
½ pound canned water chestnuts
5 cups fresh spinach leaves,
broken in small pieces
1 pound canned bean sprouts
Rice

Partially freeze meat and slice very thin in strips. In a wok or saucepan, brown beef in oil quickly for one or two minutes. Sprinkle sugar over meat. Combine broth and soy sauce and pour over meat. Push to one side to keep warm.

Let wok warm until soy mixture bubbles. Cook remaining ingredients in order listed, one at a time, pushing each to one side. just cook and stir each food until heated through. Serve hot with rice on the side. Serves 6.

SASHIMI

2 fresh fish, fillets preferred
(use one red and one white fish)
3 cups peeled, shredded
white radish
Small, peeled, shredded carrot
Soy sauce
Hot mustard

Rinse fish with cool water. Pat dry with paper towels. Remove any dark portions that don't look appetizing. (It is essential that fish be very fresh.)

Place fish on cutting board. Using a sharp, thin-bladed knife, cut across grain in 1/8 to ¼-inch slices, 1½ to 2 inches long. Do not cut more than you will use.

Arrange the slices of red and white fish in the center of a plate. Combine shredded radishes and carrots and garnish plate with this mixture.

Mix hot mustard into soy sauce to taste. Dip fish into sauce with chopsticks and eat. Eat radish-carrot mixture between bites of fish.

Cold cut cues

Cold cuts, which were popular in ancient Egypt as well as contemporary America, are nourishing, flavorful, convenient and economical.

So say food specialists at Pennsylvania State University, who have these tips for consumers:

For maximum quality, refrigerate cold cuts tightly wrapped to keep their surface from drying out. Stored this way, most sliced cold cuts should be used within three days after purchase; unsliced bologna and liver sausage can be kept for four to six days, and uncut, dry or semidry sausages, such as salami and pepperoni, can be kept two to three weeks.

Cooking School Adds Special Holiday Courses to Fall Schedule

The Continental Cooking School, 1144 S. Elmhurst Rd., Countryside Court, Mt. Prospect, has added several short holiday courses, ranging from baking to seafoods, to its '75 fall-winter schedule.

"So many of our students have requested special holiday courses, we had no choice but to add these to our program," explained master chef Eugene Kretz.

Eugene Kretz, the school's head chef, has won countless gourmet awards in the U.S. and Europe. He was also selected head chef, from chefs throughout the midwest, for President Ford's recent Palmer House banquet. He personally prepared the President's meal and received a special "thank you" from Mr. Ford and the First Lady.

Mr. Kretz will also be instructing the new microwave cooking courses at the school beginning November 17.

Anyone interested in registering or wanting more information should contact the school at 593-3020.

All classes with openings still available are listed below:

Oyster recipes for all occasions

by Charles Flynn

I've been told that ancient peoples used oysters in concoting love potions and that Louis XI of France provided an oyster feast yearly for professors at the Sorbonne to help insure their continuing high standards of scholarship.

For whatever reason beyond just plain liking oysters, these mollusks make frequent appearances on our table. Fried oysters are a particular lunchtime favorite. You can serve them with cole slaw and a bit of tartar sauce, or may like them on toast as an open-face sandwich.

The main thing about frying oysters is to make a good batter and fry only until golden brown. Overcooking is the worst mistake one can make.

For the batter, sift together 2½ cups of flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon onion salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, and 1/8 teaspoon garlic powder. Stir in beer (about 1 cup) to make a batter of desired consistency.

DRAIN OYSTERS well and pat dry on paper toweling. Dip in batter and drop one at a time into hot fat, frying until golden brown on both sides, about 2 minutes. Drain on toweling again before serving.

For a different Sunday night supper, try savory creamed oysters. Melt 1 cup butter in a large saucepan. Add 1 tablespoon English mustard, salt, pepper, cayenne, ¼ teaspoon anchovy paste and 2 cups finely chopped celery. Cook until celery is half tender, stirring almost constantly.

Add 1 quart milk (or half and half for a richer dish) and bring mixture to boiling point, but do not boil. Add 4 dozen oysters and bring to simmer. Cook 2 to 3 minutes until edges of oysters curl.

Add 6 tablespoons sherry and a grain or two of nutmeg. Serve on hot buttered toast. This recipe makes enough for eight people.

MANY PEOPLE prefer scalloped oysters to any other recipe. Crush 2 cups cracker crumbs and combine with ½ cup melted butter, ½ teaspoon salt, 1/8 teaspoon pepper. Butter a casserole and drain 1 pint oysters, reserving liquid.

In the casserole put 1/3 of the crumb mixture and cover with a layer of oysters. Repeat. Mix reserved liquid with milk to make 1 cup and pour over dish, then sprinkle with remaining crumbs. Bake for 30 minutes at 350 degrees. Remember that lots of butter is the secret and personally I sneak in a few extra oysters.

The National Livestock and Meat Board, Chicago, says the industry reportedly uses the 14-ounce bottle of America's favorite condiment as an economic barometer.

The board said ketchup sales to restaurants have soared, as customers for burgers, hot dogs and other restaurant meats increased.

The meat board said the growth also is attributed to more families reaching higher income brackets that allow them to eat out more often and more women in the work force.

There's a trick to boiling water

by BARBARA LADD

Boiling water can be tricky business for some people — especially when they are trying to boil it in a paper bag.

But that's exactly what some area Girl Scout leaders learned to do in a training session on advanced outdoor cooking skills at Lions Woods in Des Plaines Oct. 10.

They also baked bread in Dutch ovens, cakes in cardboard box ovens, potatoes in mud packs and rolls in reflector ovens. The eggs were fried on rocks and candied yams were baked on orange peels.

Cheryl Esbrook, training director for northwest Cook County, said some of the items like the yams and potatoes were delicious. Other foods were not quite so successful.

"ALL COOKING out of doors is trickier than turning on a home oven," she said. "Outdoors the temperature is people-regulated, at home it is machine-regulated."

Most of the techniques taught at the session she described as "gimmicky." "I wouldn't use a lot of the methods myself if I were camping or backpacking."

But the foods are fun for older Girl Scouts to make and eat, she said. And the 14 leaders who attended, representing troops from Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Prospect Heights, Mount Prospect and Buffalo Grove, didn't seem to mind either.

Here are a couple favorite recipes from the Girl Scouts. These foods are not limited to the out of doors, but can be used in lunch boxes or at dinner.

WALKING SALAD

2 cups cottage cheese
½ cup raisins
½ cup nuts
2 tablespoons mayonnaise

Cut the tops off apples and core them, leaving the bottom skin over the whole. Scoop out the pulp and chop with cheese, raisins and nuts. Mix with mayonnaise. Stuff the mixture into the apple shells and put the apple tops on.

This salad is called Walking Salad because it can be eaten while hiking. Serves 12.

ORANGE SWEET POTATOES

6 cups canned sweet potatoes
¾ cup brown sugar
12 marshmallows (¼ pound)

Cut oranges in half, eat the fruit and remove any membrane. Mash the sweet potatoes and pack int the orange shells. Sprinkle with a little brown sugar and top with marshmallows. Bake in embers or in 350 degree oven until hot. Serves 12.

WATER CAN BE boiled in paper bags because the kindling temperature rises when the paper is wet. Ginnie Heurich, Park Ridge, watches the bag carefully, however, because the dry portions of the bag get too hot and eventually burn.

BAKING ROLLS with reflectors is one of the more difficult outdoors skills and requires constant attention from Mickey Stiens, Arlington Heights.

Party treats for tricksters

or designs n these cookies.

PEANUT BUTTER REFRIGERATOR COOKIES

1½ cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup margarine
½ cup peanut butter
1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour with soda and salt. Cream margarine, peanut butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in egg and vanilla. Fold in flour mixture until just blended. Shape into rolls about 3 inches in diameter. Wrap in wax paper and chill in refrigerator overnight or until firm. Slice an eighth inch thick. Make Halloween faces, using peanuts, raisins, chocolate chips or "red hots" for eyes, nose and mouth. Use tinted coconut or chocolate sprinkles for hair. Bake on ungreased baking sheet in a moderate oven (375 degrees) for about 12 minutes. Yield: about 48 cookies.

DOUBLE PEANUT CLUSTERS

½ cup peanut butter
1 cup semisweet chocolate or butterscotch bits
1 cup peanuts

Combine peanut butter and chocolate or butterscotch pieces in top of double boiler and place over hot (not boiling) water until chocolate or butterscotch melts. Stir until blended. Add peanuts and stir until well coated. drop by teaspoonfuls onto waxed paper-lined baking sheet. Chill until set. Yield: 2 dozen clusters.

Halloween cookies and candies

EASY PEANUT BUTTER CHOCOLATE FUDGE

1¼ cups sugar
¼ cup peanut butter
½ cup evaporated milk
1 cup marshmallow fluff
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup (6-ounce package) semisweet chocolate bits

Combine sugar, peanut butter, milk, fluff and salt in saucepan. Cook and stir over low heat until blended Continue cooking and stirring until mixture comes to a full boil. Boil 5 minutes, stirring constantly.

Remove from heat. Add chocolate. Stir until chocolate is melted and blended into cooked mixture. Pour onto greased pan 8 by 8 by 2 inches. Cool. Cut into squares. Yield: 36 pieces.

Ibimi sauce

How about some ibimi sauce with your Thanksgiving turkey? Or atoqua sauce or even pakimintzen? It's bound to be on almost every table, because these three are American Indian names for the cranberry. Ibimi, which was the Leni-Lenape's word, meant bitter berry. Wisconsin's Algonquians called cranberries atoqua. The third name was that of a New Jersey Delaware chief, who distributed cranberries at tribal peace feasts and who became known as cranberry eater.

Stamina for school

With a change in the weather, turning leaves and ringing school bells comes an increased concern for the family's health. Pork can play an important role in meeting nutritional needs. For this popular meat is a good source of the B vitamins, especially thiamin which is necessary for a healthy nervous system. In addition, pork provides protein that includes all of the essential amino acids necessary to build, maintain and repair the body tissues and to increase resistance to infection and disease.

Good treats

For a nutritious Halloween treat at children's parties, make jack o'lantern salads from grated raw carrots mixed with a little mayonnaise. Us. raisins for the eyes, nose and mouth. Or make individual desserts from orange juice, grated carrots and unflavored gelatin. Use shallow, rounded teacups as molds, and make eyes, noses and mouths with raisins after unmolding the desserts on serving plates.

9. Thanks for shopping with us!

Some shoppers have asked about our Budget Food Store dairy products. They're wondering if, since our prices are so much lower than what they're accustomed to paying elsewhere, our dairy items are as fresh. And, of course they are! So, this week, in our continuing response to questions about the Budget Food Store, we'll talk about dairy products.

First, every dairy item we sell carries an easy-to-read freshness date. It means that that item must be sold by that date, or be removed from the case. These coded dates assure you of several days of additional freshness afterwards, too, under proper storage conditions. But, since that's normal procedure for most other foods stores as well, how can the Budget Food Store prices be lower?

The answer is simple. From the moment you enter the Budget Food Store until you leave, you are doing things to help lower our operating expenses. Every thing you do for yourself helps us maintain lower prices on all the foods we sell. If our store expenses cost us less, we can sell foods for less. And that's especially helpful on major-use items like dairy products. You help us cut expenses — we help you cut costs. Makes sense, right? And it works — for both of us!

Come shop with us today and see how easy it is to spend less for all your family's food needs . . . including fresh dairy products!

Party treats for tricksters

or designs n these cookies.

PEANUT BUTTER
REFRIGERATOR COOKIES

1½ cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup margarine
½ cup peanut butter
1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour with soda and salt. Cream margarine, peanut butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in egg and vanilla. Fold in flour mixture until just blended. Shape into rolls about 3 inches in diameter. Wrap in wax paper and chill in refrigerator overnight or until firm. Slice an eighth inch thick. Make Halloween faces, using peanuts, raisins, chocolate chips or "red hots" for eyes, nose and mouth. Use tinted coconut or chocolate sprinkles for hair. Bake on ungreased baking sheet in a moderate oven (375 degrees) for about 12 minutes. Yield: about 48 cookies.

DOUBLE PEANUT CLUSTERS

½ cup peanut butter
1 cup semisweet chocolate or butterscotch bits
1 cup peanuts

Combine peanut butter and chocolate or butterscotch pieces in top of double boiler and place over hot (not boiling) water until chocolate or butterscotch melts. Stir until blended. Add peanuts and stir until well coated. drop by teaspoonfuls onto waxed paper-lined baking sheet. Chill until set. Yield: 2 dozen clusters.

EASY PEANUT BUTTER
CHOCOLATE FUDGE

1¼ cups sugar
¼ cup peanut butter
½ cup evaporated milk
1 cup marshmallow fluff
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup (6-ounce package) semisweet chocolate bits

Combine sugar, peanut butter, milk, fluff and salt in saucepan. Cook and stir over low heat until blended Continue cooking and stirring until mixture comes to a full boil. Boil 5 minutes, stirring constantly.

Remove from heat. Add chocolate. Stir until chocolate is melted and blended into cooked mixture. Pour onto greased pan 8 by 8 by 2 inches. Cool. Cut into squares. Yield: 36 pieces.

Halloween cookies and candies

Good treats

For a nutritious Halloween treat at children's parties, make jack o'lantern salads from grated raw carrots mixed with a little mayonnaise. Us. raisins for the eyes, nose and mouth. Or make individual desserts from orange juice, grated carrots and unflavored gelatin. Use shallow, rounded teacups as molds, and make eyes, noses and mouths with raisins after unmolding the desserts on serving plates.

Ibimi sauce

How about some ibimi sauce with your Thanksgiving turkey? Or atoqua sauce or even pakimintzen? It's bound to be on almost every table, because these three are American Indian names for the cranberry. Ibimi, which was the Leni-Lenape's word, meant bitter berry. Wisconsin's Algonquians called cranberries atoqua. The third name was that of a New Jersey Delaware chief, who distributed cranberries at tribal peace feasts and who became known as cranberry eater.

Stamina for school

With a change in the weather, turning leaves and ringing school bells comes an increased concern for the family's health. Pork can play an important role in meeting nutritional needs. For this popular meat is a good source of the B vitamins, especially thiamin which is necessary for a healthy nervous system. In addition, pork provides protein that includes all of the essential amino acids necessary to build, maintain and repair the body tissues and to increase resistance to infection and disease.

Wine market good for consumers

by JEANNE LESEM

"The prices of the very worst wines are stable and almost bound to come down," said Hugh Johnson, a British wine expert, journalist and author.

Wine prices are not likely to increase for a very long time, he added in an interview in New York.

Johnson credits this rosy outlook to a vast logjam inventory in Europe, particularly in Bordeaux. He said a normal inventory there consists of one and a half years' supply. This past spring most wineries had three and a half years' inventory, which will increase still more during the current harvest season.

"At the same time, the production capacity of California is rocketing," Johnson added. He expects far more of the best varietal grapes to become available, and probable improvement in the style of varietals.

Johnson was in the United States on a promotional tour for the revised edition of his encyclopedic book "Wine" (Simon and Schuster $12.95).

Because new plantings of California table grapes have not kept pace with new plantings of varietals, he also anticipates more decreases in prices along with increases in quality.

"Some of this is starting to show up already," Johnson added. For example, the world's largest single winery, a California firm, has introduced varietals for about $2 a bottle. Some smaller companies are following suit.

He advises Americans seeking good buys in European wines to look for 1970 clarets (red bordeaux).

"Now for $4.50 to $9 you can have the pick of all chateaux except first growths," he said.

That's not exactly cheap in an average American budget these days, but in Johnson's view, "You can't call $7 or $8 a bottle a high price for the world's very finest wines."

Asked for examples, he named Pichon-Lalande, Ducru-Beaucaillou or Chateau Haut-Bailly. "A marvelous red graves," he said of the last.

"I have seen some really good buys; spatlese and auslese can be really good values at about $6 a bottle."

For incredible value, he suggests Alsatian wines, which are drier than their German counterparts. He added that shoppers looking for domestic versions of Alsatian wine should choose German type wines from California, such as gewurztraminer, a spicy, fragrant white.

Johnson also expressed interest in the medical uses of wine.

"In the University of California (at Davis), at last they have a really serious research program started. It's been known for a long time that wine is beneficial to health."

He said two volunteer research teams headed by Maynard Amerine are participating. Both teams eat exactly the same food, but one gets wine daily, and the other does not.

Johnson said early reports indicate that the wine-bibbing team apparently assimilates the nutrients in food better.

"I'm certain that, for old people, moderate amounts of wine before and at meals really could help make their lives more livable without resorting to drugs," he added.

"It restores their morale, gives them an appetite. I've talked with doctors about this. I feel they're terribly nervous about prescribing wine because there is still a huge prejudice against it in hospitals.

"There still are people who lump it with booze as the enemy."

Cauliflower, curry and chicken

CURRIED CHICKEN AND CAULIFLOWER

1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in parts
3 cups water
1 stalk celery
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 medium red onions, chopped
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons celery, finely chopped
1 large tomato, chopped
1 teaspoon sugar
1 tablespoon curry powder
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ cup chicken broth
1 small head cauliflower, broken into flowerets
1 cup sour cream

Cook chicken in water, celery, salt and pepper. (In a heavy kettle, cook 30 minutes; in pressure cooker, 15 minutes.) When barely done, remove bones and break (don't chop) chicken into large bite-size pieces. Reserve ½ cup broth. In large heavy skillet, saute onion in butter until clear. Add celery, tomato, sugar, curry powder, mustard and chicken broth. Simmer over low heat for 30-45 minutes until thick. Add chicken and cauliflower and cook 10-15 minutes. Remove from heat and let stand 15 minutes to enhance flavors. Return to heat and add sour cream, heating only until piping hot. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Expert advise: take care

Keeping foods frozen without loss of quality depends partly on handling, packing materials and storage temperature.

Mary Frances Sowers, Extension foods specialist at Oklahoma State University, recommends moisture and vapor-proof containers to prevent evaporation and retain quality.

Glass jars, metal and rigid plastic containers are good, she said. Moisture and vapor-proof plastic bags and heavily waxed cartons also are okay, but cartons from cottage cheese, ice cream and milk are suitable only for keeping food no more than two weeks.

Pack all food tightly to reduce air in the package. Seal immediately and carefully, allowing recommended head space for the product. Label and store at zero degrees.

Indian recipe

Genuine Indian succotash was made with corn plus beans, peas or pumpkin, flavored with bear meat or peaches and squash or maple sugar. A recipe attributed to the Iroquois and published in Ottawa, Canada, in 1916 directed the cook to cut the corn from the cob with half of a deer's jaw.

Classes and cookbooks

A FOUR-WEEK class sponsored by MONACEP, "Fast Food and Family Nutrition," begins Oct. 28 from 7:30 to 9:30 at Maine West High School, Des Plaines. Mary Janes, who has a degree in home economics and dietetics, will show students how to transform a "fast" or convenient food into a creative, well-balanced meal. Tuition is $10. Readers may call 967-5120 for more information.

THE COOKBOOK "Desserts'N' Things" was publicized in the Oct. 2 Sugar and Spice issue as being available from Ethel Wolski of Mount Prospect. She has since moved to Schaumburg and her new phone number is 593-5805.

"PATTON POTPOURRI," a cookbook containing 212 favorite recipes from members of Patton School PTA, will be sold for $1.50 at the Patton Fun Fair, Patton School, Arlington Heights, Oct. 25 beginning at 10 a.m. It is also available by calling 392-2785, 259-5404 or 259-7263.

The Back-to-Basics Food Store
BUDGET FOOD STORE
9. Thanks for shopping with us!

Some shoppers have asked about our Budget Food Store dairy products. They're wondering if, since our prices are so much lower than what they're accustomed to paying elsewhere, our dairy items are as fresh. And, of course they are! So, this week, in our continuing response to questions about the Budget Food Store, we'll talk about dairy products.

First, every dairy item we sell carries an easy-to-read freshness date. It means that that item must be sold by that date, or be removed from the case. These coded dates assure you of several days of additional freshness afterwards, too, under proper storage conditions. But, since that's normal procedure for most other foods stores as well, how can the Budget Food Store prices be lower?

The answer is simple. From the moment you enter the Budget Food Store until you leave, you are doing things to help lower our operating expenses. Every thing you do for yourself helps us maintain lower prices on all the foods we sell. If our store expenses cost us less, we can sell foods for less. And that's especially helpful on major-use items like dairy products. You help us cut expenses — we help you cut costs. Makes sense, right? And it works — for both of us!

Come shop with us today and see how easy it is to spend less for all your family's food needs . . . including fresh dairy products!

Herald food price survey

Sugar prices finally appear to be declining after sharp rises last summer, according to a recent Herald price survey of five area chain markets. For a 5-pound bag of one brand, the current range is $1.30 to 1.55 — around 20 cents below August readings.

Fresh pears are increasing moderately in price as the heaviest supply months are ending.

At Dominick's meat prices generally held steady from last month with significant drops noted on beef. Eggs are six cents lower than in September, ending several weeks of increases due to a declining market supply. However, ice cream is up nearly 40 cents a half gallon from the previous survey. Other prices generally held throughout the fresh and processed fruit and vegetable and dry grocery sections.

Overall Eagle meat prices were the same as one month ago, but milk, eggs and butter all increased in a range of six to nine cents. Sugar dropped 20 cents from September. Folger's coffee was highest of the five stores surveyed at $2.82 per two-pound can.

At Kohl's sugar was down 30 cents from the September reading and eggs dropped 18 cents. The 59 cents per dozen of grade A large eggs was the lowest quotation of the five stores surveyed. Pears were up nearly 15 cents from September, however, and pork chops increased by 24 cents per pound.

Pork prices were down at the Treasury, with a 50-cent decrease seen in the loin chops. Milk and eggs also were on a downward swing. Delicious apples jumped to 49 cents a pound, up 16 cents from September and 10 cents higher than prices at the other stores surveyed.

Processed fruits and vegetables appeared to be on an upward trend at the Budget Food Store with moderate 2 to 10-cent increases noted. Eggs dropped six cents from September's reading, but dairy prices were creeping up. Most meat prices held steady at last month's level. However, round steak decreased 20 cents from the previous reading and was lowest of the five stores surveyed at $1.29 per pound.

Apple spice up

Take advantage of the good apple harvest and whip up a new dish with an Eastern twist. Bombay scalloped apples are easy to prepare and have a different flavor due to the blending of ginger, curry powder, dry mustard and almonds.

Serve with your favorite chicken, pork or duck dish.

BOMBAY SCALLOPED APPLES

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup molasses
1/3 cup fresh lemon juice
½ teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon curry powder
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon salt
5 cups sliced, pared, cored cooking apples
½ cup toasted slivered almonds

Melt butter in small saucepan. Add molasses, lemon juice, ginger, curry powder, dry mustard and salt. Mix well.

Arrange apples in a shallow 2-quart baking dish. Pour molasses mixture over apples. Sprinkle with almonds. Bake, covered, in 375 degree oven 40 minutes, or until tender, basting occasionally with liquid in baking dish. Serve with chicken, pork or duck. Makes 6 servings.

Cattle by-products

The average 1,000-pound steer yields about 432 pounds of steaks, roasts and ground meat, plus marshmallows, surgical sutures, steel ball bearings, leather and insulin.

Everything but the meat cuts is made from cattle byproducts, says John L. Huston, secretary of the Beef Industry Council, Chicago. Other byproducts include lubricants, cosmetics, adhesive, soap and violin strings.

Wine market good for consumers

by JEANNE LESEM

"The prices of the very worst wines are stable and almost bound to come down," said Hugh Johnson, a British wine expert, journalist and author.

Wine prices are not likely to increase for a very long time, he added in an interview in New York.

Johnson credits this rosy outlook to a vast logjam inventory in Europe, particularly in Bordeaux. He said a normal inventory there consists of one and a half years' supply. This past spring most wineries had three and a half years' inventory, which will increase still more during the current harvest season.

"At the same time, the production capacity of California is rocketing," Johnson added. He expects far more of the best varietal grapes to become available, and probable improvement in the style of varietals.

Johnson was in the United States on a promotional tour for the revised edition of his encyclopedic book "Wine" (Simon and Schuster $12.95).

Because new plantings of California table grapes have not kept pace with new plantings of varietals, he also anticipates more decreases in prices along with increases in quality.

"Some of this is starting to show up already," Johnson added. For example, the world's largest single winery, a California firm, has introduced varietals for about $2 a bottle. Some smaller companies are following suit.

He advises Americans seeking good buys in European wines to look for 1970 clarets (red bordeaux).

"Now for $4.50 to $9 you can have the pick of all chateaux except first growths," he said.

That's not exactly cheap in an average American budget these days, but in Johnson's view, "You can't call $7 or $8 a bottle a high price for the world's very finest wines."

Asked for examples, he named Pichon-Lalande, Ducru-Beaucaillou or Chateau Haut-Bailly. "A marvelous red graves," he said of the last.

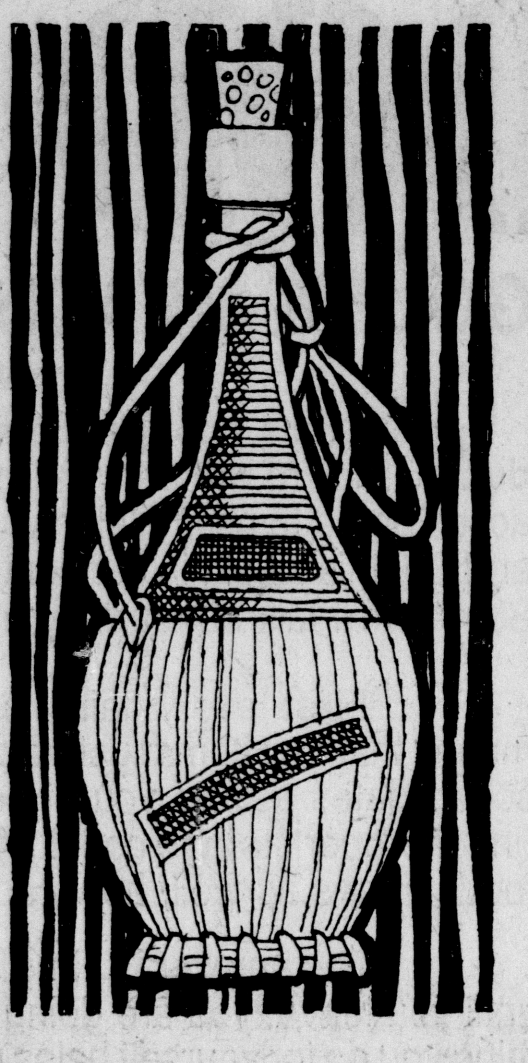
If your taste runs to sweeter varieties, Johnson recommends 1971 German wines.

"I have seen some really good buys; spatlese and auslese can be really good values at about $6 a bottle."

For incredible value, he suggests Alsatian wines, which are drier than their German counterparts. He added that shoppers looking for domestic versions of Alsatian wine should choose German type wines from California, such as gewurztraminer, a spicy, fragrant white.

Johnson also expressed interest in the medical uses of wine.

"In the University of California (at Davis), at last they have a really serious research program started. It's been known for a long time that wine is beneficial to health."



He said two volunteer research teams headed by Maynard Amerine are participating. Both teams eat exactly the same food, but one gets wine daily, and the other does not.

Johnson said early reports indicate that the wine-bibbing team apparently assimilates the nutrients in food better.

"I'm certain that, for old people, moderate amounts of wine before and at meals really could help make their lives more livable without resorting to drugs," he added.

"It restores their morale, gives them an appetite. I've talked with doctors about this. I feel they're terribly nervous about prescribing wine because there is still a huge prejudice against it in hospitals.

"There still are people who lump it with booze as the enemy."

Cauliflower, curry and chicken

CURRIED CHICKEN AND CAULIFLOWER

1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in parts
3 cups water
1 stalk celery
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 medium red onions, chopped
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons celery, finely chopped
1 large tomato, chopped
1 teaspoon sugar
1 tablespoon curry powder
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ cup chicken broth
1 small head cauliflower, broken into flowerets
1 cup sour cream

Cook chicken in water, celery, salt and pepper. (In a heavy kettle, cook 30 minutes; in pressure cooker, 15 minutes.) When barely done, remove bones and break (don't chop) chicken into large bite-size pieces. Reserve ½ cup broth. In large heavy skillet, saute onion in butter until clear. Add celery, tomato, sugar, curry powder, mustard and chicken broth. Simmer over low heat for 30-45 minutes until thick. Add chicken and cauliflower and cook 10-15 minutes. Remove from heat and let stand 15 minutes to enhance flavors. Return to heat and add sour cream, heating only until piping hot. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Expert advise: take care

Keeping foods frozen without loss of quality depends partly on handling, packing materials and storage temperature.

Mary Frances Sowers, Extension foods specialist at Oklahoma State University, recommends moisture and vapor-proof containers to prevent evaporation and retain quality.

Glass jars, metal and rigid plastic containers are good, she said. Moisture and vapor-proof plastic bags and heavily waxed cartons also are okay, but cartons from cottage cheese, ice cream and milk are suitable only for keeping food no more than two weeks.

Pack all food tightly to reduce air in the package. Seal immediately and carefully, allowing recommended head space for the product. Label and store at zero degrees.

Indian recipe

Genuine Indian succotash was made with corn plus beans, peas or pumpkin, flavored with bear meat or peaches and squash or maple sugar. A recipe attributed to the Iroquois and published in Ottawa, Canada, in 1916 directed the cook to cut the corn from the cob with half of a deer's jaw.

Classes and cookbooks

A FOUR-WEEK class sponsored by MONACEP, "Fast Food and Family Nutrition," begins Oct. 28 from 7:30 to 9:30 at Maine West High School, Des Plaines. Mary Janes, who has a degree in home economics and dietetics, will show students how to transform a "fast" or convenient food into a creative, well-balanced meal. Tuition is $10. Readers may call 967-5120 for more information.

THE COOKBOOK "Desserts'N' Things" was publicized in the Oct. 2 Sugar and Spice issue as being available from Ethel Wolski of Mount Prospect. She has since moved to Schaumburg and her new phone number is 593-5805.

"PATTON POTPOURRI," a cookbook containing 212 favorite recipes from members of Patton School PTA, will be sold for $1.50 at the Patton Fun Fair, Patton School, Arlington Heights, Oct. 25 beginning at 10 a.m. It is also available by calling 392-2785, 259-5404 or 259-7263.

Herald food price survey

Sugar prices finally appear to be declining after sharp rises last summer, according to a recent Herald price survey of five area chain markets. For a 5-pound bag of one brand, the current range is $1.30 to 1.55 — around 20 cents below August readings.

Fresh pears are increasing moderately in price as the heaviest supply months are ending.

At Dominick's meat prices generally held steady from last month with significant drops noted on beef. Eggs are six cents lower than in September, ending several weeks of increases due to a declining market supply. However, ice cream is up nearly 40 cents a half gallon from the previous survey. Other prices generally held throughout the fresh and processed fruit and vegetable and dry grocery sections.

Overall Eagle meat prices were the same as one month ago, but milk, eggs and butter all increased in a range of six to nine cents. Sugar dropped 20 cents from September. Folger's coffee was highest of the five stores surveyed at $2.82 per two-pound can.

At Kohl's sugar was down 30 cents from the September reading and eggs dropped 18 cents. The 59 cents per dozen of grade A large eggs was the lowest quotation of the five stores surveyed. Pears were up nearly 15 cents from September, however, and pork chops increased by 24 cents per pound.

Pork prices were down at the Treasury, with a 50-cent decrease seen in the loin chops. Milk and eggs also were on a downward swing. Delicious apples jumped to 49 cents a pound, up 16 cents from September and 10 cents higher than prices at the other stores surveyed.

Processed fruits and vegetables appeared to be on an upward trend at the Budget Food Store with moderate 2 to 10-cent increases noted. Eggs dropped six cents from September's reading, but dairy prices were creeping up. Most meat prices held steady at last month's level. However, round steak decreased 20 cents from the previous reading and was lowest of the five stores surveyed at $1.29 per pound.

Apple spice up

Take advantage of the good apple harvest and whip up a new dish with an Eastern twist. Bombay scalloped apples are easy to prepare and have a different flavor due to the blending of ginger, curry powder, dry mustard and almonds.

Serve with your favorite chicken, pork or duck dish.

BOMBAY SCALLOPED APPLES

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup molasses
1/3 cup fresh lemon juice
½ teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon curry powder
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon salt
5 cups sliced, pared, cored cooking apples
½ cup toasted slivered almonds

Melt butter in small saucepan. Add molasses, lemon juice, ginger, curry powder, dry mustard and salt. Mix well.

Arrange apples in a shallow 2-quart baking dish. Pour molasses mixture over apples. Sprinkle with almonds. Bake, covered, in 375 degree oven 40 minutes, or until tender, basting occasionally with liquid in baking dish. Serve with chicken, pork or duck. Makes 6 servings.

Cattle by-products

The average 1,000-pound steer yields about 432 pounds of steaks, roasts and ground meat, plus marshmallows, surgical sutures, steel ball bearings, leather and insulin.

Everything but the meat cuts is made from cattle byproducts, says John L. Huston, secretary of the Beef Industry Council, Chicago. Other byproducts include lubricants, cosmetics, adhesive, soap and violin strings.
